CHINA DEFIES ULTIMATUM; GIBBONS FEARS SLAUGHTER

Today

Polite Japan.
Strange Manchu Republic.
The Universe Is Safe.
Brutality Never Useful.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

HODGE, Cal., Feb. 19. The League of Nations, tired of repeating "Please stop fighting," asks Japan:

"Where's your sense of honor?"

Japan, politest of nations, does not laugh or ask:

"What about your European scraps of paper?"

Japan calmly builds a large new flying field, near the Foreign Settlement, and with the gracious permission of the Mikado, sends in thirty thousand more men, and more airplanes.

TWO BRITISH SAILORS, killed accidentally by Chinese shells, complicate the Shanghai problem. Britain takes the incident calmly. Our government talks of removing all Americans from the fighting zone, if conditions get worse. Why wait for a "remember the Maine" incident?

Von Wiegand says the Chinese are directed by German military men, engineers, gunners and aviation experts. That explains, perhaps, the number of Japanese killed and the stubborn defense of the Chinese fort.

The sooner we move out and leave Asia to its private fight, the better. We have enough to do at home.

JAPAN PLANS to make of Manchuria a "republic directed by Tokio." It would have the old Chinese five-barred flag, with Japanese flying sun spread over it, and would be called "Ankuo," meaning "land of peace."

Chinese say that would mean Manchuria run in the interest of Japanese investments and industries, with no especial attention to the millions of Chinese.

SOME AMERICANS might say, "What of it?" This is a republic managed for the benefit of its investment industries, and high finance, but it gets along pretty well, outside of depressions.

You hear about a $2,000,000,000 government fund for banks and other corporations, about helping railroads, but what do you hear about helping the hundred and twenty odd million unimportant little people? Nothing, except that they must have no dole, because that might pauperize them.

IF YOU HAVE worried about predictions of Jeans and Edington, hear Doctors Barnett and Tolman, of the University of California at Los Angeles and the California Institute of Technology. Jeans and Edington say the universe is running down, will die, and nothing can bring it back to life.

Barnett and Tolman say, in substance:

"Nonsense. The universe is a great self-winding cosmos, and will last forever."

The 100-inch telescope takes us into space a distance of one hundred million light years. Calculate that. It is the distance that light, going 186,000 miles a second, could travel in one hundred million years.

WITHIN THE SPACE thus revealed are millions of "island universes," like our own little locality, which consists of thirty thousand million suns, plus any planets that may travel with them.

The new 200-inch telescope under construction will carry the eye of man other millions of light years into space, revealing other universes.

And, this argument for the comfort of commonplace minds, ignorant of higher mathematics, it is clear that the universe will not die, since time has lasted forever. Back of us, and in that past eternity there has been plenty of time for the universe to run down and die, if it could ever die.

Also, which is more important to our little globe, this earth will last, with the sun to warm it, hundreds of millions of years more. Therefore, considering that we are only 12,000 years from the late stone age, you can see that man has time ahead to become civilized.

POLICE RECORDER JOHNSON, of Woodbury, N. J., ordered a policeman to take off his belt and lash 10 times each of three boys accused of disorderly conduct in a theater. He will try that experiment no more, for he finds that the three boys are looked upon as heroes by other mischievous youths.

So it used to be with hangings in public. Instead of deterring criminals, they made heroes of those hanged, and ballads were written about them. It is never a good thing for the law to set the example in brutality.

RUSSIA TAKES second place in oil production for 1931, but is far behind the United States, which includes over 62 per cent of the tots' world supply, against about 12 per cent for Russia.

While Russia's production increased in 1931 by thirty-five million barrels, the total world production dropped off forty million barrels in the same year.

This is important to Russia. Able to use oil in place of gold in trade with other nations

A READER suggests that the government buy back its own bonds, issuing currency to pay for them, holding the bonds as security for currency thus issued. This would end payment of interest on bonds thus purchased, and the bond owners would have their money for useful investment.

Is that a good idea or is it bolshevism to suggest that the government obtain money EVER without paying interest to institutions of its own creation?

BELL LINKS 3 IN DONOHOE KILLING

Former Fayette Detective Confesses Murder, Names Bledsoe, Stangoni as Aides

International News Service.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Anthony W. (Tony) Bell, 38, former chief of detectives of Fayette County and ex-chief of police of Masontown, Pa., who was acquitted of a charge of murdering former Constable John Donohoe, Masontown bootlegger, in July, 1929, today admitted his guilt, naming three accomplices, Police Commissioner Austin J. Roche announced.

Bell, arrested here a month ago under the name of Pat Reynolds and charged with posing as a dry agent and extorting money from saloonkeepers, signed a confession stating he and three companions lured Donohoe to a spot in a lonely road between Uniontown and Masontown and shot him to death because he "was a double-crosser."

NAMES ACCOMPLICES

Bell said he, R. C. Bledsoe and Cosmo Stangoni plotted Donohoe's death the night before the murder occurred.

Assistant United States Attorney Richard A. Grimm, prosecuting the extortion charge against Bell, said the federal accusation against him had been held in

TYPIST BLAMES CRASH ON OTHER

Bernadine J. Tuckey, 22, stenographer, of 403 Castle Shannon road, who figured in a double automobile collision in the Boulevard of the Allies at Van Braam street, last night, was released in $1,000 bail pending further hearing by Magistrate J. Scott Morgan in Traffic Court today.

Miss Tuckey, a bump on her forehead, testified another car struck her machine from behind and that as she looked back her car went over the yellow line, colliding with another coming in the opposite direction, which careened against a third car.

Leroy Miller, 4101 Beechwood boulevard, testified his wife, Alice, was confined to her home by injuries suffered in the collision. His brother-in-law, Frank McFarland, 42, of 581 Need street, is still in Mercy Hospital with injuries.

According to police, a city physician reported Miss Tuckey had been drinking. No reference to this developed at the hearing.

Slain Girl's Father, Pen Doctor, Shifted

HARRISBURG, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The Department of Welfare has announced that Dr. Asa L. Hickok, psychiatrist of Rockview Penitentiary, has resigned to become superintendent of the Somerset County home and hospital, Somerset. He will assume his new duties March 1.

Dr. Hickok's daughter was slain by Fred Collins, a Negro prisoner at Rockview, last month. Collins goes on trial next Thursday at Bellefonte.

Mellon Leaves City For Florida Holiday

Job Bill Would Make Saturdays Holiday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—An unemployment relief bill which would make Saturday a legal holiday was introduced today by Representative Britten.

The Illinois Republican estimated this would add 4,000,000 workers to the country's payroll.

W. G. M'ADOO OUT FOR GARNER

Declares Speaker to Be Man Around Whom All Party Factions Can Rally

By JOSEPH TIMMONS
Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—Wililam Gibbs McAdoo today in a formal statement unqualifiedly indorsed Speaker John N. Garner for the Democratic nomination for President. He said:

"Under Garner all elements of the party should be able to unite. In that case, his election would be certain."

The declaration of the former Secretary of the Treasury of the Woodrow Wilson war-time Cabinet, takes its place at once as the day's most startling piece of political news, one far-reaching in its influence, nation-wide in its furtherance of the popular demand for Garner's nomination.

McAdoo, outstanding figure that he was in the period of American participation in the World War, one of the two principals in the memorable deadlock of the national convention of 1924, has been constantly mentioned as a possible nominee this year. Also, McAdoo has been named as a possible candidate for Senator from California.

LOYAL FOLLOWING

With a loyal following that extends into every state, McAdoo's declaration for Garner doubtless will bring into the camp established by the friends of the Texan, prominent members of the

Ship Enters Port, Lacked Food 16 Days

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The motor vessel Whichone, which sailed from St. Pierre three months ago bound for "nowhere" with a liquor cargo, has crept into port with a crew that went without solid food for 16 days. Customs officers sealed the liquor holds when the vessel entered the harbor last night.

TIME, SUBWAY VOTE URGED

Submission of the $6,000,000 downtown subway and preference on daylight-savings time would be submitted to the voters at the April primary election in two resolutions to be presented in City Council by Councilman W. Y. English next Tuesday.

The resolution will ask that the County Commissioners be requested to place the questions on the ballot. English proposed three points on the subway problem, the voters being asked whether a subway is desired if a rapid transit system is wanted and what route is favored for the downtown loop.

The question of daylight savings would be submitted to learn if the majority favor the change in time during the summer months.

Flour Car Topples Into Bed of Slag

One of a string of seven freight cars, filled with flour, toppled from a spur leading to the Seven Baker Brothers plant in Wabash street, West End, shortly after noon today. It plunged into a slag bed 10 feet below and was not seriously damaged. It carried 50,000 pounds of doughnut flour.

Stuttering Actor Blames Speeding On Affliction

"G-G-uilty."

The judge offered:

"The court always listens to explanations."

"I was d-d-delivering Christmas presents, and it t-t-ook me so long to say M-M-Merry Christmas and H-H-Happy N-N-New Year every time, that I h-h-had to h-h-hurry."

The Judge said:

Finds $3,000 In His Taxi, Returns It

Not only did he find a wallet containing $3,000 in his cab and return it to Walter Rosenbaum, department store president and chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, but he didn't even tell his closest friends about it.

They learned of his act—and its subsequent reward—today when the Parmalee Transportation System's magazine, devoted largely to the doing of cab drivers, made the revelation.

ADMIT VICTORY FOR DE VALERA

Cosgrave said:

"It looks as if we were going out. But I have not yet given up hope entirely. In any case, De Valera will have strong opposition."

De Valera said that while the numerical majority of his party, the Fianna Fail, may be small, "its moral majority is tremendous."

UTILITIES HERE SUED BY U. S.

The Philadelphia Company and three of its subsidiaries were named defendants in assumpsit suits filed in federal court today bly othe government.

The subsidiaries are the Duquesne Light Company, Equitable Gas Company and the Philadelphia Oil Company. The two former are among those which City Council is endeavoring to have agree to a reduction in rates.

United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and Attorney John A. McCann, Pittsburgh representative of counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, declined to discuss the suit pending the filing of a statement of claim.

McCann has figured in numerous suits brought in this district against firms and individuals for collection of income taxes.

Flier Makes Start On Mystery Flight

KEYPORT, N. J., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—N. C. Brown, former Army flier, whose secret plans for a distance flight were partially revealed today.

Just before leaving he received weather reports for the country between here and Old Orchard, Me. He is known to have a fuel deposit at Old Orchard and it is believed he will start from there on his long flight, variously reported to be routed to Europe and to South America.

BIG BATTLE IMPENDS; U.S. TROOPS IN RANGE OF SHELL FIRE

Associated Press.

Two powerful armies waited tonight at Shanghai to go into what was expected to be a battle comparable to some of those in the World War.

The zero hour was 7 a. m. Saturday (6 p. m. E. S. T., Friday), the time at which Japan's ultimatum to the Chinese commander expires.

At Nanking, Wang Ching-Wei, the Chinese premier, said that the national government had rejected the Japanese demand that the army at Shanghai retire to a point 12½ miles from the city. The army will withdraw, he said, only on condition that the Japanese also retire an equal distance.

American infantrymen, patroling the Settlement border alongside Chapei, were in one of the most delicate spots along the whole neutral front, close to the line of fire where it was almost certain some stray shells would fall in a general bombardment. The Japanese command said care would be exercised, but if misdirected shells fell in the Settlement it could not be helped.

American civilians were hurried out of the danger zone.

Tokio, awaiting a general election tomorrow, heard that Chiang Kai-Shek, influential Chinese war lord, was on the way up to Shanghai with large numbers of troops. The government was considering sending reinforcements to the Japanese expeditionary force.

In Geneva the League of Nations council called a special meeting for this afternoon at the request of the Chinese delegate.

Finds Soldiers Ignorant Of What Big Scrap 'Is All About'

SHANGHAI, Feb. 19.—Hello, everybody!

This is the kind of a story I dislike writing. It's difficult for me to describe my reactions and sickening repugnance as I sit here at midnight in my hotel room in Shanghai staring into the typewriter keyboard.

If you knew a murder was going to be committed in about seven hours and there was nothing you could do or apparently anybody could do to prevent it, how would you feel?

Suppose instead of just an ordinary homicide this was going to be a wholesale murder—a slaughter?

THOUSANDS WAIT BATTLE

Between 60,000 and 70,000 strong, vigorous, healthy young men—many of them boys in their teens—are sleeping on their arms tonight within half an hour's walk of this room.

All of them have been generously supplied with the latest and most improved instruments for killing and maiming.

Twenty-five thousand comprise one group—the Japanese.

There are about 40,000 in the other group—the Chinese.

The two groups hate each other not individually but as groups.

NANKING, Feb. 19.—The Chinese government tonight replied to the Japanese ultimatum with counter-proposals which government officials admitted constituted rejection of the Japanese demands.

The government instructed its representatives at Shanghai to inform the Japanese that under no circumstances would China dismantle the Woosung forts which have stubbornly resisted Nipponese naval, air and land attacks.

Chinese troops, it was stated, would be withdrawn 20 kilometers (12.4 miles) from Shanghai only on condition that the Japanese withdraw a similar distance, a condition which the Japanese had previously refused.

Furthermore, the Chinese government stipulated that the Japanese withdrawal must be carried out under conditions that would satisfy neutral observers.

Japan Ready to Launch Terrific Offensive

SHANGHAI, Feb. 9.—(INS.)—Japan will take the offensive against the Chinese 19th Army shortly after 7 a. m. tomorrow (6 p. m. Friday eastern standard time) if the Chinese troops fail to begin their evacuation by that time.

Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, commander of the Japanese troops, so told International News Service today, and added that he would take "my own action" if the Chinese were slow in obeying the ultimatum of withdrawal.

Phila. Official Promises 'Blue Law' Laxity

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Kern Dodge, director of Public Safety, "may be able to arrange it so that people will have something to do on Sunday besides sucking their thumbs," he said at a meeting of the Chestnut Street Association. He promised more liberal enforcement of the Sunday blue laws.

Whether he can do so depends upon his not being "rapped on the knuckles too much," he said, adding:

"Enforcement is only a matter of degree and of common sense."

He promised that he would make Philadelphia "as dry as I can make it;" that theater censorship will be as strict as the citizens desire and that illegally parked automobiles will continue to be towed off the streets by police.

Asserting that "money is going about in large gobs to influence police" in prohibition enforcement, he asserted that citizens who pay policemen to allow their cars to be parked on the streets longer than the law permits are the same in principle "as the bootlegger who pays $500 a week for protection."

Shields to Interview La Follette on WCAE

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, who is in Pittsburgh today, will be interviewed by Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, on "Unemployment Relief Legislation" over WCAE at 6:02 tonight.

LA FOLLETTE, HERE, TELLS OF NEW DRIVE FOR U. S. RELIEF

Congress Must Act, Says Senator, Visitor in City to Address Shrine Meeting

Federal aid for unemployment is imperative to relieve a situation which is "appalling," Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, said today in Pittsburgh. Defeat of the relief measure sponsored by himself and Senator Costigan, of Colorado has not ended congressional consideration of the problem, the Senator added.

Senator La Follette was in Pittsburgh today to speak tonight at a testimonial dinner Nobles of Syria Temple will give in honor of their new potentate, Karl Rex Hammers. At the dinner he will discuss legislative issues in which he has been interested at the present session of Congress. Joseph N. Mackrell will be toastmaster, La Follette said.

"It is very difficult to say what action will be taken on relief, but the issue can be raised again in one of three ways. Those are consideration by the House of a measure similar to that introduced in the Senate by Senator Costigan and myself, the Democratic substitute to private loans to states to be repaid eventually and the bill of Senator Wagner appropriating $375,000,000, to be deducted from federal road aid beginning with 1937.

ASKS NO 'DOLE'

"All that I am really interested in is to obtain legislation which is workable and which will accomplish its purpose in relieving suffering. In no measure so far introduced is there any suggestion of a dole. My bill provided that federal money should be distributed through agencies now actively at work in the states and communities.

"I am simply appalled at conditions revealed in hearings on my bill before the committee, and at additional evidence which is coming in all the time.

"States and communities have been carrying this burden for two and a half years and have reached the limit of their capacity. Continuation of educational work and police protection is seriously threatened in more than one big city.

"Those who oppose this legislation seem to take the position that they will not act until states, communities and individuals become pauperized. That is not statesmanship, in my opinion.

'STAKES' VANISH

"This system of denying relief to men until they are absolutely broke is destroying a stake which many persons of small means have had in the economic system. It is not only the unemployed who are affected by this situation, but the danger is reaching into the middle classes, the small home owners, who apparently must be compelled to lose their homes before some gentleman will give them any consideration.

"Those who contend that the burden must be carried by the states and municipalities apparently do not realize that 70 per cent of taxation necessary to such a plan would be raised from home owners and farmers. Real estate and tangible property are already carrying a tax load beyond endurance. If this burden is increased the ability of such property owners to continue their obligations will be decreased.

"Federal aid would be extended from taxes raised principally on incomes and inheritance imposts. That is the sensible way to meet this problem."

Mackrell, George E. Myers and Arthur Wilharm, composed a reception committee which met the Senator on his arrival here this morning. La Follette was the guest of County Commissioner William D. Mansfield on a tour of Allegheny County. During the morning the Senator conferred with Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, who had just returned from a visit to Gov. Pinchot.

Commerce Chamber Makes Budget Poll

Father Cox, Fagan Clash Over Attack on Green

A move to bridge the gulf between the Rev. James R. Cox and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will be attempted today by a committee created for that purpose following a stormy session of the Pittsburgh Trades Council which was addressed by the pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church. The session, held last night, was a closed one.

The session grew heated when Patrick T. Fagan, president of the council, challenged Father Cox to explain his recent charge that "Green has betrayed labor and really represents Wall street."

Declaring that Green had accused him of "political aspirations" and has refused to speak from the same platform, Father Cox made no attempt to retract this statement. He indicated, however, that he would make peace with the labor leader.

When the pastor made the charge against Green he also added that he wouldn't speak from the same platform with Green "now or ever."

Fagan's action caused dissension among the council members. Many charged that the council president's challenge had unnecessarily embarrassed Father Cox, who had been invited to attend the meeting.

Fagan's action, however, was overwhelmingly approved. During the debate that followed, a committee was appointed to interview both Father Cox and Green to establish amicable relations.

The meeting, held in the council's headquarters, 243 Fourth avenue, ended with the re-election of all the officers.

THE JOLLY WARDEN -:- -:- By Quin Hall

COX CENSURES JUDGE SOFFEL

Speaking from his pulpit in Old St. Patrick's Church at noon today, the Rev. James R. Cox criticised County Court Judge Sara M. Soffel for comparing a recent McKeesport unemployment demonstration which ended in a riot with his unemployment parade to Washington. The address of the priest was broadcast.

Father Cox said:

"I take exception to the remarks of Judge Soffel made in court yesterday, when she released a young woman who had been arrested for inciting a riot at a McKeesport unemployment demonstration. Judge Soffel, a learned woman, a modern Portia, does not see the difference between doing something in a legal way and illegal way.

"Why our orderly meeting should be compared with those held by persons who break the law is more than I can understand.

"We should have a Hyde Park like in London, where people can say whatever they please."

Fifteen-year-old Pauline Urich was sent home on probation when arraigned before Judge Soffel. The Judge complimented her on her intelligence and told the young prisoner that she might speak any time she pleased as long as she was in accordance with the community's laws and ordinances, Judge Soffel said.

"I cannot see that this unemployment meeting, on the surface, was different from that unemployment meeting held recently by Father Cox."

American's Captors Trick Ransom Payers

PEIPING, China, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Plans for the release of Capt. Charles Baker, American master of a Yangtze River boat, who was captured by bandits January 16, have miscarried a dispatch received at the United States legation from the American consul at Hankow said today.

An agent of the Yangtze Rapids Steamship Company, owners of Capt. Baker's boat, arranged to pay the bandits 10,000 silver dollars and transported the money to Paiyochi. After receiving the money, the bandits took Capt. Baker back to the mountains and are demanding 50,000 silver dollars.

GIBBONS FEARS SLAUGHTER

morrow morning—according to the present murder schedule which has been announced as officially and publicly as any sporting competition—these two groups of young men will hurl themselves at each others' throats.

With steel, lead and explosive with bayonet, bullets and bombs the grisly spectacle will open and continue until one side or the other gives way.

About 5,000 American soldiers, Marines and sailors will occupy ringside seats—some of them dangerously close to the conflict, because at any moment after the opening of hostilities, this fight is liable to get out of the ring and spread over the arena.

VISITS CAMPS

I visited the camps—the training quarters of both these groups—today. I walked, rode and crawled through mud and smoking ruins behind the Chinese and Japanese lines—talked with their generals and smoked cigarets with the men in the ranks, in trenches and dugouts, in rifle pits, in lookout posts, in gun emplacements.

Many of them are friends of mine, Chinese and Japanese. In three weeks of covering all sides of this Shanghai fight I have grown to know them and some of them have grown to know me. And though I am no great shakes on the lingo of either bunch, we have managed to get along fairly well.

The color of our skin is not the same and their eyes and ours seem to be placed in different alignment and there are other divergencies in our diet, apparel, habits of living and manner of thinking and background. But all of us react to cold and hunger and joy and pain more or less the same.

The smiling yellow faces of these eager, happy serious youngsters, thousands of them, are before me now as I write. Whatever it is they are to face tomorrow morning they are for it, but honestly they don't know what it's all about.

SOLDIERS IN 'DARK'

The men in the ranks don't even know what a map of the country looks like; they don't know where they have got to go tomorrow morning or what they have got to go up against. Youth is like that.

They don't know what this fight is all about, but they do know discipline and the commands of their officers.

The youngsters from Japan appear better trained, but the Chinese youngsters have undoubtedly seen more fighting by reason of the last 10 years' civil war.

Dimly both are conscious that they and their people have been wronged by the other people and that the only way to correct that wrong is to kill as many of the other people as they possible can.

Both of them are Orientals and their inborn views of life and death are considerably different from ours.

Behind the Chinese lines loaded motor trucks are coming to and fro with rolls of barbed wire and bales of gunny sacks and thousands of soldiers and coolies, men and women, are digging and shoveling, strengthening trenches and dugouts. The Chinese uniforms of gray padding cotton and cloth caps of the same color, with limp cloth visors, give a certain drab appearance suggestive of prison garb.

Each man in addition is well stuffed with belts and bandoliers of cartridges and carries a pair of those well-known German "potato masher" bombs suspended on a string around his neck like a pair of mittens. I saw a Chinese mother holding her baby up in front of a soldier so it could play with these bombs.

I saw one woman picking up torn pieces of a stained uniform from the wreckage of a box car which had been hit by an air bomb. Shreds of flesh were still hanging to jagged rents in the car's steel sides.

The woman was stuffing the uniform with straw and rubbish and making a dummy soldier which was placed on top of a trench in an attempt to divert the Japanese fire from the live defenders.

'All Quiet' Banned As Arms Meet Aid

GENEVA, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—A film company today asked President Arthur B. Henderson, of the world disarmament conference, to permit the showing of the film "All Quiet on the Western Front" under auspices of the conference, and permission was refused.

The company said they wished to impress the delegates with the horrors of war. The film will be shown without league auspices.

700 MILLIONS JOB AID ASKED OF HOUSE

New Bill Recommended Along Lines of That Which Senate Has Defeated

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—A $700,000,000 unemployment relief and aid to the needy bill was recommended for passage today by the House Labor Committee on the heels of the Senate's rejection of direct relief measures.

The committee authorized Representative Connery (Dem.), of Massachusetts, chairman, to ask House leaders to place the bill on the legislative program.

The relief bill provides:

Loans of $300,000,000 to states on full security, either bonds or debentures.

Outright grant of $200,000,000 for relief of needy in states prohibited by their constitution or debt limit from borrowing from the federal government.

Fund of $200,000,000 for public works other than highways.

The committee, which has been considering direct relief bills for weeks, voted 9 to 3 for the measure, which is a modification of the Costigan-La Follette proposal rejected in the Senate.

Chairman Connery said highway work was eliminated because it does not furnish sufficient employment.

The next step in the House fight for relief will be to request the Rules Committee for authority to bring the measure on the floor.

Thus far House Democratic leaders have not indicated their attitude on direct relief for the unemployed or loans to states.

JAPAN DEFIES LEAGUE

By FREDERICK K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

GENEVA, Feb. 19.—Japan tonight defied the League of Nations in the strongest statement her representatives have used since the Sino-Japanese conflict began.

"We are in Shanghai to protect our interests.

"No one else can do that but ourselves.

"We will remain in Shanghai until we accomplish our purpose."

Sato vigorously denied Japan has used dum-dum bullets or hydrochloric acid gas, declaring:

"We didn't use them in the Russo-Japanese war. Why should we now?"

He apologized for the "accidental bombing" of the International Settlement by Japanese planes.

Sato's declaration was made at a session of the council called to summon an extraordinary session of the League assembly to pass on the Sino-Japanese dispute.

The new autonomous government of Manchuria will permit Japanese to live peacefully there, he said, while Japanese emigrants are barred from nearly every country, particularly the United States.

U. S. Investments In Shanghai Large

SHANGHAI, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—America's investments in Shanghai utilities, shipping and real estate total 563,000,000 taels (approximately $355,690,000 at par), the foreign office announced today.

Great Britain's interests total 534,000,000 taels (approximately $336,420,000), while France has interests amounting to 103,000,000 taels (approximately $64,890,000).

King George Hopes For Arms Reduction

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—King George today expressed fervent hope for the success of the disarmament conference at Geneva in replying to addresses from convocations of the Canterbury and York clergy.

HAWAII CRIME QUIZ SPEEDED

HONOLULU, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Seth W. Richardson, assistant United States Attorney General, has moved swiftly preparing the report upon which possible congressional action to adjust Honolulu's troubled social and governmental conditions was believed to depend.

Richardson has found wide divergence of opinion among Honolulu residents with whom he discussed the crime. The opinions run from a suggestion that the territory be raised to statehood to the belief that military rule should be enforced immediately.

Women of the islands, whose spirited interest was aroused by the attack last September upon Mrs. Thomas H. Massie and subsequent indictment of her mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, with three naval men charged with the lynching of one of Mrs. Massie's suspected assailants, have been ready witnesses.

Million in State Ask Dry Change

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—More than 1,000,000 signatures were reported today by the Congressional Districts Modification League as having been procured in Pennsylvania to petitions for changing the prohibition laws.

Miss Leonora McAninch, manager of the Pennsylvania branch, said:

"There is no thoughtful person who knows the sentiment of the people that will deny Pennsylvania is a wet state."

Policeman Freed In Extortion Charge

Thomas O'Branovich, a plain-clothes officer attached to the Woods Run Police Station, was acquitted of an extortion charge by a jury before Judge W. Heber Dithrich today. O'Branovich was accused by Mrs. Anna Gustis, 1257 Ridge avenue, of demanding $50 on threat of arresting her for selling moonshine.

JAP ELECTIONS TOMORROW

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Japan will go to the polls tomorrow in one of the most crucial elections in years.

The voters will be called upon to elect a new Diet to replace the one dissolved on January 21, and their choice of deputies will determine to a large extent the foreign and domestic policies to be carried out by the government.

The election is expected to have an important bearing on the government's Chinese policy, although economic issues are taking first place. The Seiyukai (incumbent) party, committed to a policy of firm dealing with China, hopes to gain 30 seats in the election.

MEXICO AGREES TO ARMS CUT

GENEVA, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Mexico will accept a reduction of armaments with a minimum compatible with internal security, its spokesman, Francisco Castillo Najera told the world disarmament conference today.

Mahmoud Fakhry Pasha, Egyptian delegate, opened today's session with a glowing tribute to Woodrow Wilson. He approved the French plan for arming the League of Nations, provided it were accompanied by reduction in armaments.

A proposal was made to the steering committee to adjourn the conference Monday in honor of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

Asha Khan, noted sportsman and head of the Ismailian Mohammedans, spoke for India today, paying tribute to the United States for its "long record of success in combining peace and prosperity."

SICK TRANSFERRED

A long line of ambulances passing through Shanghai's crowded streets this afternoon gave a war touch to the city as 200 Chinese patients were evacuated from St. Luke's Hospital, endowed by the American Church Mission of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

This hospital is directed by Drs. McCracken and Morris, of Philadelphia.

The sick are being transported to St. John's Hospital, connected with St. John's University in Jessfield Park, a northwestern suburb within the British defense section.

Hundreds of American residents who live in the most dangerous sections of the city were advised by United States Consul Edwin A. Cunningham to evacuate these areas for points of greater safety.

AMERICANS LEAVE

Between 100 and 200 Americans in the chief danger zone began to leave during the afternoon.

Additional alarm was felt here when advices were received from Tokio that the Japanese army will "destroy" the Chinese army if it fails to submit.

American and British troops took over the front lines of the Settlement defenses from the Shanghai Volunteer Corps as the outbreak of major hostilities neared.

Both Chinese and Japanese lined up their forces for the battle, and prospects of actual plane fighting in the air, for the first time since the present trouble, loomed as it was reported a Chinese air force was ready to take the air at dawn tomorrow to help defend the Chinese positions.

'Ex-Boy Emperor' Chosen Head of Manchuria

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The correspondent of the newspaper Asahi at Mukden, Manchuria, said today the executive committee of the new Manchurian state unanimously chose Henry Pu-Yi, former "Boy Emperor" of China, as the chief executive of the new state, which was launched by proclamation yesterday.

A dispatch to the Rengo News Agency said that the committee proposed to call the office of the head of the new state "Genshu," which may be translated either as "sovereign" or "chief executive."

The term left it doubtful whether he was to be a monarch or a president. Reports reaching official quarters here said he refused to assume the office unless he was made King or Emperor, insisting upon a restoration of at least a portion of the former glory of the Manchu dynasty and the "dragon throne."

Japan Rejects Stimson Protest on Troops

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—The Japanese government today insisted upon its right to land Japanese troops within the International Settlement.

Ambassador Debuchi at Washington was instructed to so notify Secretary of State Stimson and to determine what is the basis for Stimson's protest against the use of the Settlement as a basis for military operations against the Chinese.

No legal permit nor the consent of the powers is necessary for the disembarkation of troops, the government contended, though it is the practice to notify the municipal council of the Settlement, which was done.

Stimson had raised the objection that the powers had not been notified of Japan's intentions.

Outlawing of Gas Warfare Protested

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Gas is "the most humane and economical" weapon of modern warfare, the House was told today by Representative Collins (Dem.), of Mississippi, who directs preparation of the annual Army appropriation bill. He assailed the proposal made by the United States at the Geneva Disarmament Conference to outlaw chemical warfare and urged instead limitation of military budgets.

BLAME SUICIDE GESTURE FOR TRAGEDY

Former Companions Reveal Dramatic Scenes Following Two Other Fake Messages

BOSTON, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The Boston Post in a copyright story says Elizabeth Barrett Cook, Brookline heiress, who met death at sea under strange circumstances on the steamer Chinese Prince, died a victim of her own hoax.

The paper says that passengers who sailed with the girl on a trip to Europe last December revealed they were convinced Miss Cook herself wrote the "hoax" cablegram.

The paper was told, they said, that Miss Cook sent herself a cablegram and followed it up with a fake attempt at suicide. They said the girl landed at Lisbon when the ship docked there and went ashore, visited a telegraph office and returned to the ship.

SUICIDE GESTURE

A short time later, the paper says, a cablegram was delivered to her aboard the ship saying that her sweetheart, a mythical one she named Malcolm, had died. The purser, the paper said, knew the message was faked.

The paper says the girl refused to be consoled and one night while near the rail screamed about "being through with life." Two women passengers moved to her side and the girl gave up her suicide gesture.

These actions, the Post points out, were almost identical with the one preceding the girl's death. A cablegram was delivered at Naples as the girl was about to sail for the United States.

The cable said her fiance, St. George Tucker Arnold, M. I. T. graduate, had died. Later the girl's body was found in her cabin. Officials have revealed that a narcotic was found in her cabin.

THIRD HOAX

The paper says a third hoax message also was received by Miss Cook. Last June while in Weisbaden, Germany, she received a telegram that her mother was seriously ill in Naples.

She hurried there only to find that her mother was not ill. The author of this message has never been found.

The paper says their informants believe the 20-year-old heiress was the probable author of all three messages and the victim of her own hunger for the dramatic.

J. A. Brannen, British vice consul here, said the original of the cablegram announcing the hoax death of Arnold would be impounded on the arrival of the Chinese Prince and sent to Gibraltar, where an autopsy is being performed on the body of the girl, who was buried there. Photostatic copies of the original will be made for relatives and attorneys representing their and Arnold's interests.

Shaw Angered By Inquiries About Crash

MRS. GEORGE BERNARD SHAW

Injuries to Writer, Wife Not Serious; Prolongs Trip

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw appeared more angry than hurt today as a result of an automobile accident on Wednesday in which he and his wife were severely shaken up and bruised. The Shaws are here on a vacation trip.

When he was called to the telephone today at his hotel the noted playwright expressed annoyance that the news of his accident had leaked out and refused to discuss it.

It was understood the accident was not the reason he canceled sailing reservations for England and that both he and his wife were completely recovered, but are prolonging their stay indefinitely.

He informed everybody at breakfast today that he never felt better in his life. He has spent his mornings working and his afternoons motoring about the country.

TWO 'ON SPOT' IN AUTO

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The bodies of two men, both of whom had been shot to death, were found today stuffed in the rumble seat of a parked automobile in West One Hundred and Fourteenth street.

The cover of the rumble seat had been forced down to conceal the bodies. The men appeared to be not older than 28.

The pockets of the men's clothing had been turned inside out and there was nothing that might lead to identification. Two nickels and three one-cent pieces were on the seat, besides a cheap watch and some keys.

Jap Widow of Hearn, U. S. Writer, Dies

TOKIO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Setsuko Koizumi, widow of Lafcadio Hearn, the writer, died at her home in a suburb of Tokio yesterday after a long illness from arterio-sclerosis. She was 69. Three sons and a daughter survive.

Mme. Koizumi was married to Hearn at Matsue, in Western Japan, shortly after the author arrived from the United States in 1891. Hearn later became a Japanese subject and took his wife's family name of Koizumi.

Starving Rail Man To Have Operation

Brainerd said he first experienced difficulty in swallowing food 14 months ago and eventually was reduced to a diet of malted milk and thin soup.

Earl Sande, Jockey, Weds Friend's Widow

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Earle Sande, famous jockey, and Mrs. Clarence Kummer, widow of another well-known race track rider, were married last night. Kummer was a friend of Sande and had been his rival in several races.

MINISTER BANS WASHINGTON TRIBUTE

Jr.O.U.A.M. Church Service Halted Because First President 'Drank, Gambled'

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

MILLBURN, N. J., Feb. 19.—The clergy has joined the literati in the crusade against the sanctification of historical heroes, beginning with George Washington.

The Rev. Romaine F. Bateman, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, who refused to officiate at the patriotic service in honor of the first President of the United States, has rejuvenated the debunking movement begun some years ago by Rupert Hughes, biographer of Washington. His insistance upon the distinction between Washington, the statesman, and Washington, the moralist, has set his community agog.

LINCOLN INCLUDED

In prohibiting the Junior Order of United American Mechanics to hold services in his church on Sunday, Dr. Bateman has come out boldly for clarification of issues. Washington, and Abraham Lincoln, too, he said, were "un-Christian," and although the pastor admires them as national leaders he does not believe their prominence qualifies them as moral examples.

New to the pulpit of the church here, Dr. Bateman has won unexpected support in his stand. Many friends and neighbors have congratulated him. His wife, his most loyal supporter, declared:

"It is not true that Dr. Bateman does not approve of Washington and Lincoln. He has always admired them, as statesmen. But there is no reason why he should credit them with all the virtues in the world because they were great statesmen. Nor why he should call off his own plans for a Sunday night service to honor Washington."

Harry Reeve, one of a committee of three who asked Dr. Bateman to conduct the service, said the minister admitted his prejudice against Washington was because he "drank and gambled."

PARIS, Feb. 19. — (INS.) — Temporarily handicapped by refusal of the right wing headed by Andre Tardieu to participate in a concentration cabinet, Premier-Designate Paul Painleve today won the support of Joseph Paul-Boncour and then announced he expected to have his ministry formed by late this afternoon.

It was also learned that Painleve had talked with Aristide Briand by telephone at Cocherel, in the south of France, to ascertain whether the veteran of the Foreign Office would collaborate in the new cabinet, but it was believed Briand declined.

Students to Probe High School Drinking

MEDIA, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—A committee of seven seniors and seven juniors was appointed yesterday by the Rev. W. H. Michaels, principal of the Media High School, to investigate drinking by members of the cast of a dramatic club play last week.

The Association of School Directors of Delaware County recommended that the principals of other schools guard against similar episodes.

LONE MAN 'LIZ' JUROR KNOWS HIS GREEK

Never Read Drama, but Sees Wrestling Matches; Girl Stars Hiss Police Critic

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19.—Aristophanes, dead these long years, was on trial today in Los Angeles.

The Los Angeles police purity squad contended he was the "confession writer" of his day and made too many "confessions" in his spicy play, "Lysistrata," to warrant the production being given before a Los Angeles audience.

Fifty-six persons, including Nance O'Neil, actress, were on trial charged with presenting an "indecent performance," but old Aristophanes was more criticized than the defendants in court.

ACTRESSES HISS

Pretty Hollywood actress defendants hissed Police Stenographer Arthur Custer, who testified he had attended "Lysistrata" and made shorthand notes whose transcription made him blush.

Adolph Boesen, 80, only man on the jury, stole Aristophanes' thunder today. He explained:

"When my wife learned I was the only he-man on the jury she's been making biscuits every night when I get home. The first thing I know I'll be getting fried chicken on days other than Sundays and my birthday.

KNOWS HIS GREEKS

"I never read any Greek drama, but I know all about Greek comedy—I go to the wrestlin' matches twice a month.

"The Hollywood cuties who keep givin' me th' glad eye aren't either losing or winning, in this battle as far as I'm concerned. We're going to judge the case solely on the testimony—and some of it's pretty good."

GIRL MUSICIAN FOUND IN N. Y.

Vera Beondik, 18, of Carey way, South Side, leader of the stringed orchestra known as "The Five Beondik Sisters," who disappeared Sunday, is being held in New York, according to word received here today by Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd.

Miss Beondik disappeared after her mother had given her $10 to pay lodge dues. A tip that a young woman of her description was seen riding in a New York-bound bus resulted in her apprehension there, detectives said.

Inspector Boyd said New York police were holding the girl on a telegraphic warrant charging her with larceny, being a runaway and incorrigibility. Pittsburgh officers were to bring her home tomorrow or Sunday, Boyd said.

January Traffic Fatalities Increase

HARRISBURG, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The Bureau of Motor Vehicles today reported 3,688 accidents last month, which resulted in 189 fatalities and 3,286 non-fatal injuries.

This showed an increase over the corresponding month of 1931, in which there were 3,521 accidents, which resulted in 149 fatalities and 2,651 non-fatal injuries.

Fall Breaks Gas Line, Woman Dies

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Jennie Risbrider, 63, of Northeast, was found dead in a gas-filled bathroom at her home. The Coroner said she stumbeld accidentally and disconnected a hose leading to a small gas stove. She was a prominent member of the Eastern Star.

SUSPECT HELD IN CLUBBING

Identified by Dorothy Dodson, 14, as the man who struck her with a club in Ridge avenue, near her home last Tuesday, Edward Farrand, 51, today was held for court trial charged with aggravated assault and battery. Farrand, who denied the attack, was arrested yesterday after Dorothy told police she had seen her assailant near where the attack occurred. Police investigated and found a bunk constructed behind a billboard. They kept watch and when Farrand appeared later he was arrested.

MYSTERY SHOT KILLS BUILDER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Herman F. Halt, well known Youngstown contractor and politician, died in Youngstown Hospital today from wounds received in a mysterious shooting.

Halt was shot in the left side with a .22-caliber rifle bullet, attaches at the hospital said. He died without regaining consciousness and was unable to give police any explanation for the shooting.

Neighbors said Halt was repairing the roof at his home when the shooting occurred. He was seen to slump over on the roof after the report of a rifle was heard.

Halt, who was a candidate for City Council last spring, had no known enemies, it was said.

Baby Gorilla Ill, 3 Doctors Called

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—"N'Gi" the gorilla, has a bad cold, and three doctors have been called in by the Washington Zoo to cure him.

"N'Gi" is six years old and a cold to a baby gorilla is like smallpox to an Indian. As he is one of the very few gorillas in captivity the Zoo is making a desperate effort to save him.

Flogged by Police, Parents Drop Suit

WOODBURY, N. J., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Parents of three boys who were publicly whipped in Police Court for mischievous conduct have decided to drop any contemplated legal action, they announced today. Members of City Council, who previously intimated they might take some action, decided to drop the matter.

Right of Workers To Drink Upheld By Judge

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—As long as the wealthy and select can drink, the workingman has the same right, according to Municipal Judge Thomas Green.

Acting on this premise, the Judge refused to convict Adam Krolinowski, 61, arrested by police as the proprietor of a saloon. Judge Green said:

Judge Green asserted the wealthy could drink in private without interference and said, as a result, the burden of prohibition enforcement was borne by the laboring class, who can drink only in public places open to interference.

'APPY,' VETERAN NEWS MAN DIES

He became ill while at his desk on the Daily News last Friday and succumbed yesterday following an operation, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

"Appy" left Pittsburgh as a World War correspondent and never returned to this city, spending his last years in New York. He was born in Franklin, Pa., and had worked on newspapers in Buffalo and Philadelphia, in addition to Pittsburgh and New York.

He leaves his widow; a daughter, Mrs. Winifred Cobert, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and a brother, Charles, of Franklin, Pa.

Girl Becomes 'Dry' For Ship Christening

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Miss Juliet Proctor will carry a bottle of rare old Sonoma County champagne from Santa Rosa, Cal., to New York, without fear of the "law."

Before the Queen of the Santa Rosa rose festival sails today with the wine to christen the new Grace Panama mail liner, Santa Rosa, she will be sworn in as a special deputy prohibition agent.

Cousin of Edge To Divorce Actress

RENO, Nev., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—John Eshelman Lloyd, member of a socially prominent Philadelphia family and cousin of Walter E. Edge, United States ambassador to France, filed suit here yesterday to divorce Judith Voselli Lloyd, stage and screen player.

Von Moltke Kin Found Driving Taxicab

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Municipal Judge Alden Ames was hearing a damage case in connection with an automobile accident.

"Your name?"

"Henry W. Moltke."

Judge Ames asked the witness jokingly if he was related to Count von Moltke, of Franco-Prussian war fame. Te youth replied quietly:

"I am his grandson, your honor."

The judge recovered from his surprise. He remarked:

"Your family's fortunes have fallen somewhat."

GUESTS ROUTED BY HOTEL FIRE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 19.—Two score guests of the Lafayette Hotel fled to safety early today when fire followed by a gas explosion wrecked the furnace room of the historic Lafayette Hotel in Main street.

Traffic on Main street was tied up for several hours while firemen fought to confine the fire to the basement of the building and two first-floor business establishments.

The blast of natural gas which aroused the sleeping guests and the surrounding neighborhood, occurred just after Night Clerk Lloyd Maheny discovered smoke curling up from the basement, where a furnace apparently had become overheated.

The damage, estimated at $25,000, was to the Five and Ten Lunch room on the Peter street side of the building; the Sam Radman clothing store and Kenney's shoe store in Main street, and to the hotel heating plant. The building is a four-story structure in the heart of the business district.

Pittsburgher Killed In Florida Crash

TAMPA Fla., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—David F. Broderick, 26, manager of a W. T. Grant store near Pittsburgh, was killed last night in an automobile accident.

Many Colds Close Cheswick School

There is a center of low pressure over Eastern Ontario this morning, another center over Alberta, and there are centers over the Gulf of Mexico and Arizona, while high pressure overlies the central portions of the country with centers over the Atlantic coast, the plains states and the plateau section. This distribution of pressure is causing cloudy weather over the eastern states, with rain over Tennessee and at scattered places southward. Over the West the skies are mostly clear. There was a change towards warmer over the lake region and the Ohio Valley states and towards colder over the Atlantic and Gulf coast states and the plains states. It will change to colder weather over this section again on Saturday.

RULER DUBBED 'CLOWN' DIES IN SAXONY

BRESLAU, Germany, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Former King Friedrich August of Saxony is dead.

The ex-king, whom his cousin, former Kaiser Wilhelm II, once called "too much of a clown," died last night at Sybyllenort Castle, near here, after a stroke of apoplexy yesterday.

His two sons, the former Crown Prince George, now a Catholic priest, and Prince Ernst Heinrich, with his sister, Princess Mathilde, were at his bedside when the end came.

King Friedrich August III was one of the most popular rulers of his time. He lost his throne during the revolution of 1918, but it did not destroy his sense of humor. He was at his beautiful estate at Moritzburg when the news came that a republic had been established.

QUITS GRACEFULLY

He was asked by telephone if he would relinquish the throne willingly. He said:

"Oh, well, I suppose I'd better, I suppose I have no more power, eh?"

Once he happened to go to Berlin on the former Kaiser's birthday. Wilhelm thanked his "dear cousin" for the delicate thoughtfulness. King August Friedrich August replied:

"Not at all. I wanted to come to the dog show anyway."

At the Plauen railway station on another occasion he was recognized and cheered lustily by an enthusiastic crowd. He put his head out of the coach window and suggested in droll amazement:

The World War offered no opportunities to him. In obedience to the Kaiser's call he issued a war-like appeal to his subjects on August 2, 1914, but he visited the front only once during the war, on November 13, 1915.

MARRIAGE LOVE-MATCH

He was born at Dresden, May 25, 1865, the first child of King George of Saxony and the Infanta Anna of Portugal. When he was 26 he married Archduchess Louise of Austria-Tuscany at Vienna. It was a love match, certainly on his side, but destined to end tragically.

Louise, five years his junior, had advanced ideas, and the atmosphere of the Saxon court, under King George, unnerved her. After bearing three sons and two daughters, she eloped in 1902 with M. Giron, her children's French tutor. She and Friedrich August were divorced in 1903. Later, she tired of M. Giron, and in 1907 was married to an Italian singer.

She divorced him four years later and went to Brussels, where she wrote a book called "My Life."

Wilhelm Recovers From Bronchitis

BERLIN, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—A dispatch from Doorn, Holland, to the monarchist organ Der Aufrechte today said former Kaiser Wilhelm has entirely recovered from a recent attack of bronchitis but has dropped his usual work in the garden of Doorn Castle to avoid exposing himself to quick changes of weather.

Schoolboy Slips, Drowns in Creek

STROUDSBURG, Feb. 19. — (INS.)—The body of Billy Norris, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Norris, was recovered today from Michael's Creek here. The youth had stopped to play on the way home from school last night. He slipped on an ice-covered stone and plunged into the creek.

RED ACQUITTED IN RIOT NEAR WORKHOUSE

Another Found Guilty Gets Two Years; Guilty Plea Made in 'Hill' Battle

Fred Bell, New Kensington Communist, charged with attempting to start a riot in front of the Workhouse last November 25, was found not guilty but ordered to pay the costs, in a sealed verdict returned in Criminal Court today.

The verdict was read before Visiting Judge W. A. McClung, of Beaver county, trial judge in the Beaver County sedition case.

Fred Kearns, alias Calico, of Stevenson street, was found guilty of inciting to riot late yesterday and was sentenced by Visiting Judge R. R. Lewis, of Monroe County, to two years in the Workhouse.

Both Bell and Kearns acted as their own counsel, rejecting proffers of assistance by attorneys.

George Brown, Negro, of Wylie avenue, called for trial about with Kearns, pleaded guilty to incitation to riot and felonious assault and battery. He will be sentenced next Tuesday. They were accused in connection with a Communist demonstration in the Hill district in which Deputy Sheriff J. P. McVey suffered a fractured jaw.

BLAGDEN KIDNAP QUIZ DROPPED

CLEVELAND, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Investigation of the kidnaping story related by Harry Blagden, 45, sportsman of New York State, was dropped today.

State Trooper H. N. McGann, of New York, who had come here to inquire into Blagden's story of having been kidnaped from Lake Placid, N. Y., said he would return home today, abandoning his investigation. Police Chief William G. Barrows, of Cleveland Heights, also said he was dropping the case.

The sportsman said he had escaped in Cleveland after being held five days by three men. He said he made his getaway by overpowering one of the guards while the other two were eating a lunch.

Section Foreman Killed by Engine

BABY SURVIVES AUTO CRASH

Howard Scott, Jr., 302 Castle Shannon road, is a hardy little soul.

Only 2½ years old he was reported today as little the worse—save for a severe cut on his head—after being tossed through the windshield of his father's car as it was forced to come to a sudden stop in Fallowfield avenue last night to prevent hitting another machine.

DONOHOE DEATH CLEARED BY TONY BELL

abeyance temporarily while, as a state's witness, he aided in the prosecution of his companions in the murder. Bell was turned over to Pennsylvania authorities today.

In his confession Bell said Donohoe was put "on the spot" because the bootlegger had double-crossed him in a liquor bill.

A squealer pal of Donohoe's took him for a ride in an open roadster to the death rendezvous in the Uniontown road. As Donohoe's car reached the appointed place Bell said he and his companions bore down upon it. The pal ducked to the tonneau to escape the hail of bullets that sought out Donohoe.

The gang fled, leaving Donohoe dying.

With the confession of Bell, who never can be tried again for the murder because he would be placed in double jeopardy, police hoped that convictions of his accomplices could be brought about.

The confession was won from Bell, police said, by a clever young police officer who gained the former policeman's friendship through daily contacts with him during the past month. Bell was in the Erie County jail awaiting action of the federal grand jury on the extortion charge.

Wade K. Newell, District Attorney of Fayette County, who was here yesterday to confer with police and Federal Attorney Grimm, took Bell to Uniontown by automobile.

A peculiar feature in the case is that Newell was an attorney for the defense in the murder trial of Bell that resulted in his acquittal. Later Newell, as prosecutor, obtained Bell's conviction for defrauding a landlord.

According to Bell's confession Bell said he had had a fist fight with Donohoe several days before the murder. Suspecting that he would be charged with the crime Bell said he arranged for a perfect alibi.

ESTABLISHES ALIBI

After the shooting he hurried home, got his wife and took her to several public places where he took pains to let his presence be known. He said he visited several hotels and stores.

The alibi worked when the medical examiner testified that he had fixed the time of Donohoe's death at 2 a. m. on July 30, 1929. At that time, and for an hour before, Bell had been seen by several people, including police officers, many miles from the scene of the crime.

Bell said the murder actually occurred before midnight on July 29, leaving him ample time to get back to his usual haunts.

In his confession, Bell said that N. W. Rosenberg, District Attorney of Fayette County at the time of the murder, killed himself the next day.

He said that Rosenberg shot himself because he feared disclosures by bootleggers that would tend to link him with charges that graft was being paid enforcement officials.

MUSCLED IN

Bell declared in his confession that Donohoe, a former county detective under Bell when he was chief county detective of Fayette County, had been muscling in on many bootleggers and vice resort keepers, saying that he was collecting protection money for the "district attorney and the county detective."

Bell declared, however, that none of the so-called "protection" money ever went to the county officials, but was kept by Donohoe.

Bell said he knew that his life was in danger because he had informed on Stangoni and Bledsoe, but he said he didn't care. He was quoted as saying:

"I want to make a clean breast of things and try to make over my life, so I can take proper care of my wife and three children."

Bell blamed politics for his downfall, saying that he lost out in the police department because he refused to take graft.

"But when I saw what a sucker I had been, after being thrown out of office, I decided to get mine."

Police Commissioner Roche, in making public details of Bell's confession, declared that Bell wrote that he had killed Donohoe because he had overheard Donohoe plotting to kill him.

Bell confessed, Commissioner Roche said, that he and Bledsoe and Stangoni, confederates of Bell, plotted Donohoe's death the night before the murder occurred.

Roche further said Stangoni brought Donohoe to the spot where Bledsoe and Bell, armed with .45-caliber automatic pistols, were awaiting him. They proceeded to shoot Donohoe, sending 12 slugs into his body.

Bledsoe, Stangoni Held By State Police

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 19.—Cosmo Stangoni disappeared from Masontown two days ago. Two state police took Stangoni away, but his whereabouts are unknown. Bledsoe, held in the Washington County Jail, was turned over to state police for questioning. Capt. Albert Carlson, of the Greensburg detail of state police, and several officers are reported to have Stangoni and Bledsoe in custody for questioning. Bledsoe had been picked up in Monessen for violating his parole.

WHY slander a good American product?
READ--an important question for YOU to decide

In these times of distress in our country should we encourage and uphold products grown in the United States—under the Stars and Stripes—or should such American-grown products be attacked and unjustly slandered and products grown on a foreign soil, Mexico, be unduly praised and given the preference?

Florida Tomatoes against Mexican Tomatoes

Donahoe's have been featuring, advertising and boosting Florida Tomatoes at 19c a quart carrier—local home-grown tomatoes being out of season.

A certain other store, in their Tuesday and Wednesday advertisements featuring Mexican tomatoes, said "don't confuse these solid, ripe tomatoes from Mexico with the watery, flavorless variety from Florida. There's a big difference."

Donahoe's, in view of such an unfounded attack upon the American product they are selling, arise to the defense of the Florida Tomato.

Donahoe's claim the Florida Tomato to be a better tomato than the Mexican tomato—the Florida tomato has a better flavor, the skin is more tender and the taste is more similar to the local home-grown tomato.

Convince Yourself---YOU be the Judge

COOK CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY

Georg M. Cook, president of the Western Pennsylvania Volunteer Firemen's Association, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for a member of the Legislature from the Thirteenth District.

Cook declared he favored repeal of the blue laws and a modification of the prohibition law. He pledged himself to work for immediate relief for the unemployed and legislation for reasonable utility rates.

Dr. Morris A. Cohen, of the Fourteenth Ward has taken out nominating petitions as a candidate for member of the Legislature from the Fifth District.

WILBUR, FISHER TO TALK HERE

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior; former Gov. John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, and Congressman Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, noted foe of Communism, will speak at a Washington Bi-centennial Anniversary banquet in William Penn Hotel Monday night. Five hundred men and women representing civic, fraternal, patriotic and industrial organizations in Pittsburgh will attend.

Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, will be toastmaster of the affair, which will officially launch a 10-month program of events commemorating the life and deeds of Washington. The general Bi-centennial Committee named by Mayor Kline is arranging a series of pageants, dramas and historical sketches centering about Washington's association with early Pittsburgh.

GARNER BACKED FOR PRESIDENT BY M'ADOO

party all over the country. Many of the Democratic leaders in California are with McAdoo in enthusiastic support of Garner.

Though Speaker Garner still is "sticking to the job of running the House," the McAdoo indorsement goes far to make the Speaker a candidate without any declaration on his own part. Preceded by the statement issued last Tuesday by Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally, of Texas appealing to the nation to join in the movement to nominate Garner, it may be regarded as final and convincing evidence that the Texas statesman will not decline the role of candidate for nomination if the enthusiasm of the nation's democracy drafts him for it.

M'ADOO'S STATEMENT

Following is the statement given out by McAdoo:

"I have received so many inquiries as to my attitude toward the forthcoming Democratic presidential nomination that I take this method of answering them.

"I favor John N. Garner Speaker of the House of Representatives.

"During the six years that I was Secretary of the Treasury I had, of necessity, close official relations with the Ways and Means Committee of the House, of which Mr. Garner was a leading member. I came, therefore, to know him intimately and to have the opportunity to judge. Under the severe test of complicated problems, the quality of his mind and the measure of his ability.

"I was greatly impressed by his sound judgment, by his broad comprehension of political, social and economic problems, by his integrity—moral and intellectual—and by his high character and practical ideals. His elevation to the Speakership was not a matter of chance, but a recognition of 29 years of able and distinguished service in the House of Representatives.

WELL EQUIPPED

"Mr. Garner has unusual knowledge, acquired by hard work and experience, of the problems of government. He would bring to the presidency just the equipment that is sorely needed to direct the affairs of the people of the United States in these extraordinary times.

"Moreover, Mr. Garner is not involved in any party schisms that threaten success on election day. He is beyond the reach of those sinister and subtle influences which work unceasingly against the interests of the masses of the people. He appeals to those elements in our national life which need a leader who understands their problems, whose sympathies are with them because he does understand them, and who, because of heredity and environment, is one of the people himself.

"He will know how to use the executive power to promote the common good and to suppress favoritism and extravagance and the flagrant forces of privilege and corruption which have brought the country to its present unfortunate condition.

"Under Garner all elements of the party should be able to unite. In that case, his election would be certain."

M'Adoo Puts Garner To Fore in Race

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Whether he will be there at convention time, John Garner, of Texas, now appears headed for a place among the really strong contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

William G. McAdoo's announcement of last night in Los Angeles of support for the Speaker of the House, not only put in the Texan's train a man who has been powerful in the party, but emphasized the determined efforts of the Garner supporters to shove him into the breach created by the "Stop-Roosevelt" movement.

McAdoo is one of the staunchest drys, and his announcement was considered important in the light of the prohibition issue, for Garner, although since voting for enforcement measures, cast his ballot against adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment. Only a few days ago Senator Sheppard, of Texas, came out for a national campaign in Garner's behalf, and Sheppard was a moving force behind adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Smith Group Splits In New Hampshire

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—New Hampshire, the political testing ground of 1932 today had a complete and uncontested slate of candidates for delegates to the Democratic national convention pledged to Franklin D. Roosevelt—and a complete but contested slate for Alfred E. Smith.

New Hampshire will hold the first preferential primary in the country on March 8, and national attention is focused upon it because it will furnish the first popular test for the New York Governor as well as showing the attitude of the state's Democratic voters on the position of Smith, the party's presidential candidate four years ago.

The Smith slate developed contests in both the delegate-at-large and district groups, but a last-minute withdrawal left only eight in the "at large" field. Three candidates filed pledged to Smith in both districts, and these will furnish the only trouble in the Smith slate.

LAST HAWAIIAN PRINCESS ILL

HONOLULU, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Princess Kalanianaole, last of the line of the greatest Hawaiian family and widow of a former delegate to Congress, is so ill that doctors hold little hope of her recovery.

She is the last direct descendant of Kamehameha I, the chieftain whose brilliant reign in the Eighteenth Century marked the beginning of the transition from barbarism to civilization and drew the islands together as one kingdom.

The princess is known as Mrs. J. Frank Woods. Woods, a capitalist and rancher of the islands, is dead. The princess married him after the death of her first husband 10 years ago.

Returning to Hawaii in 1922 the princess was appointed later by former Gov. Wallace R. Farrington to succeed her husband on the Hawaiian Homes Commission to carry on the work of Hawaiian rehabilitation planned and fostered by the prince.

SMITH TO RUN IN STATE

Alfred E. Smith's name probably will appear on the ballots in April's primary election as a Democratic candidate for President, it was revealed here today.

National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler, of Lock Haven, here today to confer with Allegheny County Democratic leaders in the interests of an unInstructed delegation to the Chicago convention, disclosed that George Douglas, Philadelphia Democrat, already has 200 nomination papers bearing Smith's name in circulation throughout the state.

Kistler made it clear that the state Democratic committee has no connection with the Smith move, both he and Chairman John Collins being in favor of sending the Pennsylvania delegates into Chicago without instructions for any particular candidate.

While here Kistler conferred with Charles Alvin Jones, Maj. E. Lowry Humes, Registration Commissioner John Henry, Ewing Laporte and other Democrats.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(Universal)—In the straight-from-the-shoulder language of Texas, Speaker John N. Garner yesterday disposed of President Hoover's federal reorganization scheme, saying:

LEAGUE COURT DEFEAT SEEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(Universal)—After slumbering for months on a shelf in the Foreign Relations Committee, the league court will be revived by friends next week and brought into the Senate, where foes predicted today it will be dealt a swift death blow.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Montana, leading advocate of American adherence to the League of Nations' legal department, has served notice on its opponents that he will move at the committee next Wednesday to report the league court to the Senate.

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, said:

"The court was shelved on the motion of Senator Walsh, and whenever he wants to take it off the shelf I will offer no objection. If it is brought into the Senate, we have the votes to kill it."

"If the friends of the court want it beaten, now is the time to bring it up. Nobody in the country wants it."

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, who voted for the court in 1926, when American rights were safeguarded under the fifth Senate reservation, said:

"Recent events abroad have knocked the World Court into a cocked hat."

Bryan's Son to Seek Vice Presidency

REVOLT ENDED BY U. S. ENVOY

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—The streets of the capital were calm today after four days of revolutionary fighting in which a total of 25 lives were lost. Scores more were wounded.

The peace was due directly to the efforts of Charles C. Eberhardt, American minister, who invited leaders of the government and representatives of the rebels under Manuel Castro Quesada to meet in the American Legation and iron out their difficulties.

The rebels agreed to surrender if their leaders be allowed to leave the country undisturbed. The government granted this and the revolution officially was over.

MAYVIEW MINE PAY CUT BALKED

The city and county coal miners at Mayview and Woodville, will not be subjected to a pay cut, P. T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, announced last night.

Fagan said he had reached an agreement to that effect with City Controller, Dr. J. P. Kerr and Maj. Clyde Miller, representing the Allegheny County Poor Board. The scale of the city miners was above that of union coal miners, and the city sought to reduce the wage of the union scale.

Fagan said, however, that a provision exists favoring small mines which operate only part of the year. Neither of the mines concerned operate more than 180 days a year, Fagan said.

HOLDS LAW AIDS VOTE THIEVES

Present election laws are made for crooked elections, Ray C. Dever, chief custodian of the county department of elections, told members of the Women's Political Education Association in the Central Y. W. C. A. yesterday. He said:

"The 50-cent poll tax is a joke. It costs more to collect than it is worth."

Dever urged citizens be paid for voting, citing the $5 tax credit allowed citizens of Snowden Township for voting, as an example of the system he recommended.

County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield declared that he believed passage of a permanent registration law would be a step in the right direction, but that the tax receipt should be abolished if the law was to have full effect.

Lawmaker Urges $100 for Each Newborn Baby

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 19.—(INS.)—New York state would pay $100 to the parents of every child "born in lawful wedlock" under a bill introduced in the Legislature by Senator Warren T. Thayer, St. Lawrence Republican. Thayer said:

"I believe the state should aid parents of new-born babies at least to the extent of $100."

DRY LAW POLL 5-1 FOR REPEAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The vote for "Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment" outnumbers that for "Continuance of the Prohibition Amendment" by over five to one in the first scattering returns from eight states of the Literary Digest current nation-wide straw ballot on prohibition.

Of the total of 323,550 votes received in this first tabulation, 51,285 are for prohibition and 272,265 are for the repeal of the prohibition amendment, or 15.85 per cent "dry" and 84.15 per cent "wet," the Digest announces.

The eight states represented in the initial returns of the poll include New York, Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

On the first initial returns of the three-question poll of two years past, the votes were divided 80,739 for prohibition, 91,915 for modification, and 118,934 for repeal of the prohibition amendment.

(From the Literary Digest of February 20, 1932.)

State—	For Continuance	For Repeal	Total

Coroner's Jury Holds Autoist in Deaths

Harry Weihrauch, 22, of 350 Forty-fifth street, was held by a coroner's jury on a charge of manslaughter late yesterday at an inquest into the deaths of Robert P. Koloing, 19, of 1705 Banksville road, and Charles J. Pfender, 20, of 1020 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks. They were killed while riding in Weihrauch's machine February 7 when the auto struck a pole in Liberty avenue.

SEEKS DIVORCE OVER CRUELTY

Cruelty and indignities were charged by Mrs. Geraldine L. Klug, of 1223 McNeilly avenue, Dormont, in her divorce suit against Herbert S. Klug, of Johnstown, in Common Pleas Court. They were married September 9, 1924, and parted February 10, 1931.

Other divorce suits were filed by Ernestine R. Sloanes against John Sloanes, Catherine T. Daniel against William L. Daniel, and Carolyn H. Peterman against James P. Peterman.

Hearings Arranged On Glass Plant Sale

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling — sick headache — torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Final Saturday... Everybody's Day!

HOR

AS previously announced, the Anniversary Sale will be continued through to Monday to give shoppers the benefit of the Washington Birthday holiday. We are happy to make this extension, despite the fact that the Anniversary Sale is a non-profit event, in appreciation of the fact that this year's Sale has broken all attendance records at this store. Stocks have been replenished, as far as possible, in the more popular items, and fresh assortments will be available for these last days. Take advantage of this last Saturday to supply all unfilled requirements at Anniversary savings.

SCHOOL BOARDS OPPOSE CUTS

There is no disposition among boards of education in Allegheny County school districts under the supervision of C. E. Dickey, County Superintendent of Schools, to violate the Edmonds act regulat-ing teachers' salaries, Dr. Dickey revealed late yesterday following a special closed meeting of the Principals' Round Table in the new County Building.

Dr. Dickey said:

"A poll taken at the meeting disclosed that the majority of school boards wanted to main-tain the high standards to which they have attained.

"There is very little disposi-tion among the boards even to reduce salary schedules, which at present are above the legal requirements under the Ed-monds act."

However, Dr. Dickey pointed out, there is some talk of modify-ing present salary schedules in a few sections of the county.

Wholesalers Men Study Tax Ruling

Pittsburgh and Allegheny Coun-ty wholesalers were to meet at noon today under the auspices of the wholesalers council of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the stand they will take on the new interpretation given the state mercantile tax act which they say will cost them thousands of dol-lars in additional taxes each year.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Events

D. A. R. LUNCHEON ON MONDAY

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

News of travelers varies plans for benefits during Lenten days with Florida and California attracting the largest numbers.

Word has just reached us from California that the Thomas W. Smiths, of St. James street, entertained with a dinner party Friday night at the Valentine dinner-dance held by the Huntington Hotel in Pasadena.

The B. G. Follansbees are spending two months in Pasadena, staying as usual at the Huntington Hotel. Mrs. Follansbee's sister, Mrs. David C. Boyce, of Princeton, N. J., accompanied them. Others at the Huntington Hotel are the Harvey Norton Van Voorhises and Mrs. Birney K. McMechen. The Daniel M. Clemsons have also joined the Pasadena colony again this year.

Visit In Pasadena

* * *

Congressman Fish to Be Speaker At Pittsburgh Chapter Event Honoring Washington

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Several prominent men and women will be seated at the honor table when Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, holds its annual Washington's Birthday luncheon Monday in the Hotel Schenley. As you know, Congressman Hamilton Fish, of New York, is to be the guest of honor and speaker.

He will be seated with Mrs. Henry Clay McEldowney, regent of the chapter, the other officers and Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, former president general of the national society; Mrs. Alexander Ennis Patton, of Curwensville; Mrs. William A. Alexander, of Monongahela, state regent-elect; Miss Margaret B. Barnett, corresponding secretary general; Mrs. Joseph M. Caley, of Philadelphia, state regent; George W. Gosser, state president of the Sons of the American Revolution; Col. Franklin Blackstone, of the Pittsburgh Chapter, S. A. R.; Judge Robert M. Ewing, of the Historical Society, and Thomas Dunn, of the Chamber of Commerce.

* * *

Juniors of the Homewood Women's Club will be guests of the seniors on Monday evening in Homewood Carnegie Library. The program, in charge of Miss Zella Breckenridge, will be in celebration of the Washington bicentennial. It will include soprano solos by Mrs. William Scott; a reading by Mrs. Annabelle Kempton Confer and a play, "Little Lady Dresden," by Mrs. R. L. McAuley, Mrs. George W. Postgate, Mrs. Harry A. Doverspike, Mrs. Harry Charles, Mrs. Elgin A. Hill, Mrs. George L. Carson, Mrs. R. L. Helquist, Mrs. Elmer E. Foltz, Mrs. Hugh Smith and Mrs. Elmer Deem.

To Fete Juniors

Wilkinsburg Auxiliary To Legion Entertains

The American Legion Auxiliary to Capt. John W. Clarke Post No. 305 had as its guests last night at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, the members of the local post, representatives from the various auxiliaries of all the patriotic organizations of the borough and the medal award girls from the junior high school. The large audience heard Margaret Stewart Gray talk on "Washington's Views on National Defense." Mrs. W. R. Bishop contributed several vocal numbers, with Bertha Gross King as her accompanist, and Miss Louise Diltz played violin solos. The program also included a colonial dance by eight members of the Wilkinsburg Women's Civic Club.

Court Adjourns For Tooth Pulling

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The law called time while R. G. Adams had his teeth pulled. Arraigned before Alderman W. E. Marshall yesterday on charges of violating the Snyder act, Adams was suffering such pain from toothache that the Alderman recessed the hearing long enough to allow a nearby dentist to pull three teeth. When the hearing was resumed, Adams was held for the March term of court.

Children Fight Merchant's Will

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 19.—(Universal.)—Preston N. Gilman and Isabel Gilman Gann, children of the late Frazier Gilman, half-brother of the late George Gilman, founder of the Atlantic and Pacific store chain, yesterday went into court to break their father's $300,000 will which left them only $10,000 and $20,000 respectively. They charge the will was made with undue influence by outsiders.

Grove City Man Asks Bus Permit

HARRISBURG, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—C. A. McFeaters, Grove City, yesterday sought Public Service Commission approval of two freight routes: From Pittsburgh to Erie, via Zelienople, Mercer, Meadville and Cambridge Springs; and between Portersville, Harlansburg, Harrisonville, Grove City, Stoneboro, Sandy Lake, Polk, Franklin, Oil City, Titusville, Meadville, Greenville, Mercer and Grove City.

Hawaiian Killed By Bubonic Plague

HONOLULU, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Bubonic plague caused the death of a laborer on the Hamakua coast of Hawaii Island, Dr. F. E. Trotter, president of the Board of Health, announced yesterday on his return from that section.

He said the death of Domingo Asparos was the first due to plague in Mamakua since August, 1929. Trotter has just completed a survey of rat extermination work on Maui and Hawaii Islands. The disease is spread by fleas on rats.

Portrait of a Man Talking to Himself

I wish I didn't have to do a column . . . I mean more than once a week . . . Maybe some day I won't have to do more than one pillar every 7 days and then there will be time to loaf . . . And play . . . And see June . . . She's been waiting a decade to go gay with me—and if I had any Mexie I'd chuck the whole routine and go somewhere with her and the children and laugh a little . . . There is this comforting thought though . . . The day can't be far off . . . And then "Whoopee!" . . . She's waited this long, and I know she'll mark time as she has done all these busy years—and then she won't regret it . . . Wonder what a wife thinks about with a husband like me? . . . Maybe it's just as well that I don't know what she thinks about . . . I'll bet it's good though . . . Heheheh . . . I told her when I first met her it wouldn't be long . . . That was so long ago . . . She's complained twice in all those years . . . And I would cuddle her and tell her "If I stop now, honey, all that exertion will have been wasted. In another two years we'll go where you want to go," etc. . . . And she'd look at me the way women look when they think things they won't say . . . After all, if it weren't for June—I know all this wouldn't have happened . . . And when I tell her that she dismisses it with a shrug and tells me that nothing else matters but me—not even the kids . . . And I'd say "Aw, don't say that" . . . And she says "But that's true"

That lad in the pressroom knows a good item at that . . . The flower he took from the Sacco-Vanzetti funeral in Boston . . . And when he got to New York he threw it on the altar of the Immaculate Conception Church on 14th St. . . . The altar of Blessed Mother Mary . . . And he tells me the edifice has been renovated and things torn down and moved about . . . But when he went in there the other day there was the flower he had hurled at the very same spot . . . And he wondered if I would be interested in an item like that . . . It's 4:30 and if I go to sleep now I'll never get up by 9 to answer that darn thing . . . My eyes burn so . . . I'll be too tired and then there are so many things to do tonight . . . I hope Mark's show goes big . . . He's been waiting for the big wallop a long time too . . . Then he'll get rich and get fat . . . I mean fatter . . . It amazes me . . . The way Mark and I have remained pals for 10 years . . . Ten whole years on Broadway and without an argument! . . . The big bum . . . When anyone is in a jam of any kind he calls up to say "Is there anything I can do for you?" . . . Wonder when he's gonna call me up"

Funny . . . If I had taken that tip on the phone I'd have had another beat . . . I mean the one from the guy who told me that Colleen Moore was going to wed "any day now" . . . Well everybody imagines Mrs. Irving Berlin is at Sloan's and she isn't . . . Because all blessed event cases are on the same floor there and the Berlins wanted a room on another floor so the other babies wouldn't disturb her . . . But the baby-bringer refused to break the rule so Irving and Ellin moved out and rented an entire floor at the Doctors' Hosp . . . Welcome, stranger

Very interesting item about Jeanne Eagels' daughter . . . Never knew she had one until last week . . . The kid remained in the background so Jeanne could progress . . . Chamberlain Brown, the casting man, has just signed her for seven flickers, and that's dandy . . . And she'll call herself Julie Eagles . . . I hope she "gools 'em" . . . I guess that means the famous Eagles-Barrymore war will be carried on by their issue . . . Ethel Barrymore Colt still is striving for recognition, and if Julie Eagles clicks I can see Jeanne chuckling . . . Julie is going to make a picture version of "Rain"—and what she will think about as she plays the role her mother made so famous is something I'd like to make memos about . . . Polo is quite the fad out in Hollywood, they tell me . . . At the Brown Derby the other evening two movie producers were talking about the game . . . They said that they were importing polo horses from Argentina, too . . . So a wisenheimer yelled: "That'll be the first time in the history of the game that the horses will have better blood than the players!"

Wish I had that photo of Walker that Station Master Egan, of the Pennsy Depot, has on his office walls . . . Seems that that's the only one of its kind . . . Very funny the way Jessel teases Jim . . . I mean at banquets . . . Every time Jim concludes his always engaging talks, Jessel, as roastmaster, stands up and gets a howl with: "You'd think the Mayor would get tired of that same speech" . . . But it isn't the same continuity at all . . . It may be the same wordage, but Jimmy manages to move the verbs around . . . Wonder what a verb is, anyhow? . . . Broun it was who once said: "Only a coward is afraid to repeat himself" . . . There's another hard-to-figure-out-guy . . . He sends you a letter saying he's "Eternally Grateful" and then tosses you around . . . Then when he sees you he offers a paw and says: "Hello, Walter!" . . . Shucks. When I get mad at a guy I stay mad . . . Wonder how old Texas Guinan is? . . . She's young at heart, though . . . How she screamed the other sun-up in that restaurant . . . Because I looked so scared . . . I found out one thing . . . That that was her real laugh—and the laugh she's been using for the past 10 years, when other people told gags, was counterfeit . . . What a really remarkable actress she is . . . Off-stage.

Wonder if that's true? . . . I mean about that German scientist arriving here . . . With a powder he claims will cure tubercular people . . . What a miracle that would be! . . . He has been told by the A. C. A., I hear, that they've experimented and the results are "remarkable" . . . Bobby Crawford, the sponsor of that new hit show, thought, as did so many other witnesses that night, that his piece on the stage was spellbinding me . . . If they only knew what I was really thinking about! . . . Half the time I was thinking that the authors would have given anything to have a melodrama on their platform of what was actually happening! . . . Yes.

indeedy . . . Here today, etcetra . . . I only want to live long enough to see Gloria and Walda grown into girlhood . . . And have the necessary stuff to get them beautiful frocks, and furs, and things that girls seem to like so much . . . That'll be 10 years hence . . . And I don't want any suitors around until long after that, too . . . So I can strut the boulevards with one on each arm, so that when we go by people will pause to look and admire—and wish that they belonged to their tribe . . . Some kids, them.

Tuberculosis Kills Chicago Gangster

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Another of Chicago's original "public enemies" is gone. The ravages of tuberculosis and not gang bullets removed Myles P. O'Donnell, 28, from the list. Myles was prominently mentioned eight years ago because he was riding in an automobile through Al Capone's territory in suburban Cicero with Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggan when McSwiggan was shot to death.

MUSIC

Manhattan String Quartet

Twentieth Century Club

PROGRAM

Quartet Op. 18 No. 4 ..... Beethoven
Quartet "Aus Meinem Leben" ..... Smetana
Quartet Op. 64 No. 6 ..... Haydn

The Twentieth Century Club presented the Manhattan String Quartet for its initial Pittsburgh concert in the club house auditorium yesterday afternoon. The audience was most receptive, and the excellent acoustics of that lovely hall were once again demonstrated.

Mr. Lissfelt

This ensemble, though very youthful, has wonderful music to offer. One might easily wonder at their daring to play their concert without notes, but hardly had they launched into the first movement of the Beethoven than everyone must have felt that these fellows knew what they were about. Good tone, striking rhythms, and above all a virility in execution which makes every phrase live, marked each of their offerings.

The personal of the quartet includes Rachmael Weinstock, first violin; Harris Danziger, second violin; Julius Shaier, viola, and Oliver Edel, 'cello, all of them gifted players.

Twice within a week we have had the unusual experience at chamber music recitals of the audiences demanding encores. A good omen! These players gave us a delicate reading of the Tschaikowsky Andante Cantabile, a Mendelssohn Canzonetta, and an arrangement of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" as extras.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Pittsburgh Business Men's Symphony Orchestra

Y. M. C. A.

PROGRAM

Overture, "Don Juan" .... Mozart
Symphony No. 2, D Major .. Haydn
Waltz from Ballet Suite "Sleeping Beauty" ... Tschaikowsky
Auf Schwung ..... Schumann
Ballade in G Minor ..... Chopin
Prelude ..... Jarnefeld
Marche Militaire Francaise ..... Saint-Saens

It was an interesting and enlightening experience to hear the Pittsburgh Businessmen's Symphony Orchestra at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. last night. This organization is made up of music lovers among men who would otherwise have no outlet for musical expression. And their success as an orchestra is just their sincerity when they rehearse and when they play as they did at last night's concert.

Arthur Goetz, their leader, made a very good program of classic music, and occasionally his playing was worthy of more experienced musicians. These men are not to be praised for how they play, but because they play at all, and surely their reward is that they are becoming familiar with the world's masterpieces, and, while they perform, that they are forgetting the world's ills.

Mary Louise Paff was piano soloist, offering well known compositions of Schumann and Chopin.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

3 FACE TERMS IN DOPE SALES

Mrs. Mary Vorrasi, 48; her son, Salvatore Vorrasi, 27, and her son-in-law, Joseph Agosta, 28, all of Connellsville, today faced prison terms as the result of their conviction yesterday in Federal Court of violating the narcotic laws in connection with operation of a "dope" ring in Southwestern Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker presided at the trial. Assistant United States Attorney Zeno Fritz represented the government.

The jury found the three defendants guilty of conspiring to violate the narcotic law, and recommended mercy of the court for Mrs. Vorrasi. Other verdicts were returned finding her son and Agosta guilty of selling morphine. Maximum sentences on all counts would send Agosta to prison for 109 years, and Vorrasi for 64 years. Mrs. Vorrasi is liable to a four-year term.

Government witnesses testified Mrs. Vorassi brought narcotic drugs from New York. The three were arrested in December, when William T. Duffy, government narcotic agent, led a roundup of suspects in Fayette County.

BANKER WEDS MRS. DOHENY

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 19.—(Universal.)—After a simple wedding in the bride's baronial home, "Greystone" yesterday, the former Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, Jr., and her bridegroom, Leigh Battson, investment banker, gave their friends "the slip" and started on a week's honeymoon trip—destination unknown.

The trip will be followed by a journey to Europe. On the way, the couple will visit two of Mrs. Battson's children by her former marriage who are at school in the East, it was announced. The couple will reside at the Beverly Hills home.

Thirty-one friends were present at the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Dr. Robert M. Freeman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pasadena.

W. VA. SCHOOL ENTERS ESSAY CONTEST

Page Portrait of Washington In Sunday Sun-Telegraph To Spur Writers' Efforts

The high school of Fairmont, W. Va., today entered the lists of schools competing in the Sun-Telegraph essay contest on George Washington's farewell address.

C. W. Newton will take charge of the contest there, and will send the contest editor of this newspaper what he considers the best of the Fairmont essays.

OTHERS GET READY

Likewise many other schools are busy preparing to write their essays in connection with the bicentennial. The test continues until April 4.

FIVE CLASSIFICATIONS

The classifications and prizes:

The William Randolph Hearst gold cup and $100 for the best essay, not to exceed 1,000 words in length, in any class by any person up to the age of 21 years.

For the best essay, not to exceed 1,000 words in length by any person between the age of 16 and 21, in or out of school, the Hearst gold medal; for second, silver medal, and third, bronze medal.

For the best essay not to exceed 500 words in length by any child in any high school, gold medal for first, silver for second and bronze for third.

For the best essay not to exceed 400 words in length by any child in any junior high school, a gold medal; for second, a silver medal, and for third, a bronze medal.

For the best essay not to exceed 400 words in length by any child in the grammar grades, a gold medal, with silver medal for second and brinze medal for third.

In each of the classes 2, 3, 4 and 5, there will be awarded 100 diplomas for honorable mention for the 100 best essays produced in each class after the first, second and third prizes have been awarded.

When Muscles HURT

Here's good news for everyone who has rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia or any of or more muscles and joints. Science has found a new way to end muscular troubles. It's Muscletone—ends all pain in from 1 to 10 minutes.

Muscletone acts by absorption. Nothing is taken internally. There is nothing to affect stomach or liver. But pain stops completely—almost instantly. The medical principle behind Muscletone is to penetrate accumulated toxins through the skin and effect quick restoration of congested tissues. A million people have found relief. Large size $1.00. Liberal trial size, 25c. Money back if not satisfied. If your druggist doesn't have it, mail coupon at once.

PIMPLES GONE IN FEW HOURS

Costs You 35 Cents

Don't let blemishes ruin even one day's charm for you—not when that amazing skin-correcting Peterson's Ointment brings about such a satisfactory improvement in your complexion within 24 hours. And a few days' persistent treatment banishes the worst old stubborn pimples, restoring skin to a natural, healthy loveliness again.

In Peterson's there is a scientific blend of unusually efficacious, soothing and healing ingredients which no other Ointment has — powerful skin restoratives which start right in to reduce redness, remove soreness and to heal ugly blemishes—so wonderful, often only 2 or 3 applications are needed to make skin clear and healthy.

Our entire clothing organization is ready to welcome you again Tomorrow! Remember, these suits are Hart-Schaffner & Marx regular $40 to $50 garments, the season's newest models—in weights suitable for year 'round wear—guaranteed by the maker and ourselves, for style, quality and serviceability.

The impossible has happened! In all our experience in the clothing business, we have never known the public demand for a sale to be so overwhelming that we would be forced to repeat the event three times hand running. On Saturday, February 6th, we held our first sale of Hart-Schaffner & Marx $40 to $50 Suits for $19.75, and we sold out. On the following Friday and Saturday we offered another thousand of the same suits, and again a sell out! So for the third time, we managed to obtain—

ANOTHER 1400 BRAND NEW $40-$45 and $50 Hart-Schaffner & Marx MEN'S SUITS $19.75

Extra! Hart-Schaffner & Marx $35 to $50 TOPCOATS all brand new, 300 of them, included at $19.75

LISTENING IN— With the Radio Editor LA FOLLETTE ON WCAE

UNITED STATE SENATOR Robert M. La Follette will be presented to Pittsburgh radio listeners on WCAE this evening by the Sun-Telegraph.

One of the foremost figures in Washington today, the Wisconsan will be interviewed by Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, on "Unemployment Relief Legislation." The program will begin at 6:02 p. m. and continue until 6:15.

Senator La Follette was co-author of the La Follette-Costigan bill which was defeated in the Senate this week after one of the most violent debates in history. His replies tonight to Mr. Shields' questioning are expected to prove of intense interest and great importance not only to the Pittsburgh district but to the entire country.

* * *

All Pittsburgh will be tuned in to WCAE at 6:15 next Tuesday night when "Roxy" is on the air for the 15-minute program arranged by the Sun-Telegraph. Judging from the hundreds of telephone calls offering congratulations and seeking further information, the appearance of the famous radio maestro is creating an interest unprecedented for a local program in Pittsburgh.

Roxy" will arrive in Pittsburgh Tuesday morning and in the afternoon will address the students at Carnegie Institute of Technology. Following his appearance before the WCAE microphone in the evening, he will be guest of honor at a dinner to be given in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association by Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Tech.

* * *

PITTSBURGH DX-ERS will be heard around the world in a series of "international good-will tests" scheduled for next week and the week of March 11, under auspices of the American Radio Relay League. Nearly all the active "hams" among the 40,000 amateurs of the world are expected to take part. Of the 25,000 in the United States, many are in the Pittsburgh district. Rotating listening periods have been arranged in which transmitting stations of each of the six continents in turn will close down to enable foreign stations to be heard without interference.

* * *

Program Pointers

BELLE BAKER, whose singing scales the heights and plumbs the depths of emotion, is guest artist with Leonard Joy and his orchestra on KDKA at 8 tonight. She introduces a new number, "Stop the Sun."

Miss Baker

The Syria Chanters, who made a fine impression with their initial broadcast Tuesday, make their second appearance at WCAE at 6 tonight.

Preparations by both Japanese and Chinese armed forces for the major battle of Shanghai will be dramatized in the News Drama broadcast on WJAS at 8:30. Another presentation will have to do with the meteoric career of Yehudi Menuhin, boy violin prodigy.

* * *

Fan Fare

Dorothy Page, with Paul Whiteman on KDKA at 9 tonight, is a former Northampton (Pa.) choir singer, who won over 500 others in Whiteman's "Youth of America" contest in Detroit. . . . Marion Harris, NBC's favorite "blues" singer, gives on WCAE next week the program with Leo Reisman she was forced to cancel because of illness in January. . . . That "Singing Hobo" you hear on KQV three mornings a week lists his address as Father Cox's Shantytown. . . . Alois Havrilla, NBC announcer, is an expert horseman. . . . The Sisters of the Skillet are going over in a big way in vaudeville. . . . Vincent Lopez always listens to his recorded programs to study his own music.

Miss Page

Maybe it was nervousness, but when Guy Lombardo and his band opened their vaudeville engagement recently, Guy dropped the bow of the famous violin he never plays.

Herbert Fritsche and Francis Eichler, WJAS staff stars, combine tonight in a 15-minute program of "hot" violin and piano music at 6:30.

They're building a brand new studio for Myrt and Marge in Chicago. A special feature is to be the girls' own lounge room.

It takes two nights and a day for Dr. Gleason L. Archer, dean of Suffolk Law School, to put on a 15-minute network broadcast. He leaves Boston every Friday night, and after his Saturday night talk he returns again by boat. This sort of thing has been going on for more than a year.

Nat Shilkret, arranges his scores until dawn and makes his wife sit up with him. He says he can't concentrate unless someone interrupts him occasionally to replace the confusion of a studio rehearsal.

"Language of the studios" is what they call it now, meaning, of course, development of a uniform style of pronunciation which eliminates colloquial expressions peculiar to certain sections.

Walter Damrosch is fond of caricature, and in his office has several of famous composers, including Brahms, Wagner and Paderewski.

Countess Olga Albani is a crack golfer . . . Harold Sanford, NBC Young Artists Light Opera Company, was a friend of Victor Herbert. Erno Rapee was born in Budapest, Hungary . . . Jimmy Melton admits he helps his wife select her clothes.

* * *

Mario Chamlee, Leo Reisman's guest artist on WCAE at 9:30, is the former Metropolitan Opera tenor. He ran away from home for his first singing assignment.

What's that RASPING in your RADIO?

WHEN a radio six months old rasps like a coarse file on iron pipe, you have a right to be annoyed. Don't be too sure it's static . . or the set either!

Find out what's wrong. Have your radio tubes tested . . replace the bad ones with brand-new Sylvania tubes. Sylvania radio tubes have been tested for a set like yours. Get them where you see the Sylvania Authorized Dealer Sign. At present low prices even a complete set costs very little.

NATURALLY
YOU CAN'T GET GOOD RECEPTION WITHOUT ACCURATE TUBES

WHEN radio tubes leave the factory, they are adjusted to give faithful reception. But they all receive jolts and bumps in shipment, they get knocked when they are handled and installed, and they are constantly shaken in usage by the heavy vibration from dynamic speakers. Unless a tube is strong, it may not stay accurate . . . then its power and tone are sure to suffer.

EVEREADY RAYTHEON 4-PILLAR TUBES have rigid, rugged strength to safeguard their vital accuracy. They have four sturdy pillars to anchor the sensitive elements in place . . . one at each corner of a square. Ordinary tubes have only two supports, and can be jolted out of alignment.

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. All other tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes resulting from this exclusive feature. Compare them tube for tube with others, and the difference is amazing. But to realize what an enormous improvement they can make in a radio, install a complete set of 4-pillar tubes . . . then listen!

A. W. Mellon Won't Be Delegate-at-Large

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Mr. Shields

A. W. Mellon, Ambassador to England, but best known as Secretary of the Treasury, will not go to the Republican national convention at Chicago as a delegate-at-large from Pennsylvania.

Before he leaves for his new post in London, which will be in about three weeks, Mr. Mellon will announce his withdrawal as a candidate for delegate, a position for which he was slated in a conference between leaders of the Philadelphia organization and State Chairman Edward Martin.

Mr. Mellon is understood to feel that his duties in London will just be reaching the peak of their importance at the date set for the convention, and that it would be prejudicial to the important financial adjustments which will be under consideration by the United States, England, France and Italy, for him to return to this country at that time.

Rather than retain the delegateship under those conditions, which would leave his alternate to serve in his stead, Mr. Mellon has decided to step aside prior to the primary so that some other Pennsylvanian may have such honor as attaches to being elected delegate-at-large.

When Mr. Mellon told state leaders that he would be unable to serve at Chicago because of the international situation he was not requested to withdraw as a candidate. That decision was left to his own judgment, and it was at his own suggestion that another man will be slated in his place.

Announcement of Mr. Mellon's withdrawal will be far enough ahead of March 7, the last date on which nomination petitions may be filed, to permit the preparation of papers for whoever is selected in his stead. It is possible the nomination may be kept in the Mellon family, one state leader having suggested within the past few days that the place be offered to W. L. Mellon, nephew of the Ambassador, and former Republican state chairman.

* * *

W. L. Mellon May Be Delegate-at-large

The younger Mellon, a few weeks ago definitely announced his retirement from politics, but it is considered that the functions of a delegate at Chicago will be more perfunctory than political and that for W. L. Mellon so to serve would not be viewed as a reentry into the political arena.

If W. L. Mellon does not serve, this place, together with one other vacancy which was left when the slate was tentatively selected, will be used as merit badges for faithful Republicans who have stood by the party in the past. A Mellon will be preferred, however, as the presence of a member of the family will be pointed to as showing there is no break between this financially powerful group and the President.

The fact that A. W. Mellon will remain in England cannot, by the farthest stretch of the imagination, be laid to any coolness between himself and Hoover, no matter what the circumstances under which the Secretary withdrew from the Treasury and accepted an appointment in the diplomatic corps. The crucial period in the financial readjustments necessary at the termination of the moratorium agreement will have been reached in June. If Mr. Mellon is to accomplish anything at all toward world financial security, if his duties are even measurably as important as they were painted by the President at the time of his appointment, it will be imperative that he remain in England. This Mr. Mellon realizes, and it is because of this, and this only, that he has decided to withdraw as a candidate for delegate.

* * *

Coolidge Cheer May Start "Prairie Fire"

Republican national leaders are busily engaged in preparing the machinery of their convention, and finding the task no light assignment. They must choose a temporary chairman to sound the keynote of the campaign—a most difficult assignment in view of existing conditions—a permanent chairman to run the convention, a chairman of the resolutions committee to prepare the platform, including a plank on the difficult subject of prohibition, and at least two floor leaders with persuasive voices to allay any criticism either of the nominee or the platform.

One story out of Washington has it that Mr. Coolidge is under consideration as temporary chairman, the man who by his speech must defend the record of the administration. That story is without foundation. The presence of Mr. Coolidge in such an important and spot-lighted role, even his presence at the convention, is the last thing desired by Mr. Hoover, who will direct the machinery.

It is a long time since a Republican convention revolted, or went for any candidate through mass hysteria, but there is grave danger to Mr. Hoover that this might happen at Chicago should Coolidge be on the ground. One state delegation, or even one delegate, cheering for Coolidge, might light a prairie fire of "return to the good old days" which would result in the nomination of Coolidge.

2 MASKED MEN TRUSS GUARD, LOOT BOX

Park Bandits Take Cash, Watch, Rented Car From Dormont Man and Girl

The watchman of the Coca-Cola Company building, 1813 Sarah street, was slugged, bound and gagged by two masked and armed robbers who knocked the combination from the safe and ransacked the offices early today.

Carl Schaffhauer, 33, the watchman, was found semi-conscious at 6 a. m. by a mechanic, W. G. Meyers. Shaffhauer was taken to the South Side Hospital, where he was reported suffering concussion of the brain.

DROP FROM SKYLIGHT

The watchman told police the robbers dropped into the building from the skylight and attacked him in the second floor office.

The intruders pounded the combination from the safe, and, failing to find money, took $25 from Schaffhauer's pockets, he said.

Four armed bandits took $40 in cash, a watch valued at $70 and a rented automobile from Joseph Kuff, of 1107 Arkansas avenue, Dormont, in Schenley Park's "Honeymoon Circle" last night.

Kuff told police he and a young woman were sitting in the car when the bandits, all armed, stopped their automobile in front of his. After taking Kuff's cash and watch, one of the bandits seized the rented car after forcing the couple out and followed his accomplices.

STEAL CAR, CASH

Two bandits, one a Negro, who secreted themselves in his automobile, stole the car and $20 from C. A. George, of 304½ West street, Wilkinsburg, in Puckety road, Penn Township, last night.

Robbed of $38, a ring and leather coat, Ralph Shaughnessy, of near Turtle Creek, was hurled from an automobile on the Monroeville road early today, he told police. Shaughnessy said four men stopped their auto and invited him to ride, then robbed him.

SUSPECT HELD AFTER FIGHT

John Marsh, 44, of 211 Goodrich street, was held over by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney, in North Side Police Court, today, pending outcome of injuries to Clayton Gallagher, 45, same address, who is in Allegheny General Hospital with a possible skull fracture and lacerations.

Police testified Marsh struck Gallagher with liquor glasses in a fight in a rooming house at the Goodrich street address, last night. Home brew, wine and bottles were confiscated, they said. Mrs. Rose Keller, the proprietor, and four other roomers were discharged after a plea by Mrs. Keller and testimony that they knew nothing of the fight or the liquor.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 19.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Chicago, the more they knock it the bigger it gets. Due to a mixup in taxes they don't get any, so the city is just like a modern human being—it has to exist on borrowed money. But it's like China, it's so big nothing can stop it. Saw Jack Dempsey in his first big comeback fight last night. Us oldtimers got to pull for each other. Surprised at the war talk you hear. Well, if we do get in, we will have broken a world's record. We will have gotten into a war for less reason than any nation in the history of the world. If we are out upholding downtrodden nations, it will take a bookkeeper to keep track of our wars. Yours, WILL.

CHIEF WILLIAM DAVIDSON

Mayor Suspends Man Third Time, Defying Councilmen

BEAVER FALLS, Feb. 19.—William Davidson, reinstated as chief of police for five minutes yesterday, is on the suspension list again today.

He was given his third 10-day layoff by Mayor C. W. Calvin, who declared:

"City Hall is not big enough for Davidson and the Mayor."

The chief, suspended early this month, was given a hearing yesterday on charges of misconduct, failure to enforce the laws and disobedience. Cheers greeted his reinstatement by a councilmanic vote of 3 to 2, but the exuberance of the chief's friends was short-lived. The Mayor retired from the council chamber to his own office to dictate suspension notice No. 3.

Three of the four members of Council voted to reinstate Davidson, Samuel Hanauer, John Tress and Howard McCray. Councilman Joseph Littell opposed reinstatement, along with Mayor Calvin.

GARDENS TO AID UNEMPLOYED PLANNED

Y. M. C. A. Discussing Steps To Grow Food; Economy Seen for Relief Bodies

Tentative plans for use of gardens by the unemployed this summer, along the lines of the "war gardens" of the World War, were to be discussed at a meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. today.

The plans, according to General Secretary John E. Manley, of the association, call for establishment of gardens in which the unemployed can raise food for themselves and their families without cost.

COMMITTEE NAMED

Under the discussion for more than a month, the program has been suggested to the Allegheny County Emergency Association, which has appointed a committee, headed by Maj. Philip Mathews, according to Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the association. Economy to relief associations in the county on food would be considerable, it is said.

Approximately 34,000 men are now on the rolls of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, it was learned today.

Of this number, 9,760 are at work, 13,843 are receiving relief and approximately 12,000 on the general registration lists have received no help.

LISTS INVESTIGATED

The general registration lists, composed of unemployed who have asked for relief from the association, is being investigated, according to E. L. Claney, in charge of relief work for the organization.

About half of the 12,000 have already been approved for work when it is available. Persons found in acute need are sent to relief agencies until work can be found for them.

Families headed by jobless men in Pittsburgh, and receiving relief from the association, have increased, since December 1, from 3,941 to 8,713 on February 1.

No families were receiving relief from the association in the county until the collapse of the County Poor Board's relief work, early in January, but the association took over 5,130 cases in the county in the first week of February. The Family Welfare Association had been caring for them until then.

CEMETERY HEAD 25 YEARS, DIES

Barker C. Willson, 84, for the last 25 years secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny Cemetery, died today in his home in the Iriquois apartments, Forbes and Atwood streets. He was born in Marietta, O., September 2, 1848, coming to Pittsburgh when a young man. He engaged in the iron business with Kirkpatrick and Company and for a time operated the Seventh Avenue Hotel.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the Allegheny Cemetery chapel.

TAX COLLECTOR FACES ARREST

Michael Friel, deputy delinquent tax collector of Harrison Township, was being sought today by constables of Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan's office on an information charging embezzlement of $8,612.34, county detectives said.

The funds, which should have been turned over to the county delinquent office, were converted and misapplied by Friel to his own use, Assistant Chief James M. McGinley charged in the information.

McGinle, also filed a charge of misdemeanor against Friel for his alleged failure to deliver a list of tax receipts issued in 1930 and 1931.

The accounts of L. R. Mechling, deputy tax collector of Wilkinsburg, who was reported to have ended his life Tuesday night, will be examined by auditors next week, John Brown, Jr., county delinquent tax collector announced.

Mrs. Jenevieve Panieva, 62, of 372 Washington avenue, Bridgeville, died early today in Mercy Hospital, the result of injuries suffered when run down by an auto in Bridgeville several days ago.

Walker as V. P. Could Not Be Tardy Enough

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Started to interview Jimmy Walker about his running for Vice President. Then decided you didn't have to interview anybody on a thing like that.

When you are in that job you are not only playing second fiddle but you are playing it without a bow. And no resin.

Still, it's the old oyster's eyelashes if you aren't exactly punctual. Nobody ever asks what detains a Vice President but they hope it's true.

We know James has too many friends to get a job like that. This would be one time when all his pals would vote against him and prove they were his pals.

MOTHER, TWINS SAVED AT FIRE

Three women, one with twin daughters, were rescued and a score of other tenants were forced to flee when fire, raging in the basement, sent clouds of smoke through the three-story Kessler Building, 602 North Locust street, McKeesport, today.

Blinded by the smoke, Mrs. Frank Buchanan, 23, wife of the McKeesport High School basketball coach, with her 11-months-old twin daughters, Joan and Jane, along with Mrs. William Schaffer and Mrs. William Lindberg, ran to the balcony of the Buchanan third floor apartment overlooking Locust street.

Firemen, J. S. Kessler, building agent, and Mrs. Dorothy Hartman, beauty operator on the second floor, groped their way up the stairway and aided the trapped women to safety.

Among others compelled to flee were Mrs. Earl F. Brown and Mrs. William Repper, occupying apartments on the third floor; Betty Swikley, Helene Ellis, Mrs. Estelle Challner and Mrs. Elsie Brown, beauty parlor owners and attendants, doctors, dentists and first floor store proprietors.

Alfonso May Yield On Daughter's Troth

PARIS, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—The Infanta Eulalia of Spain indicated today that former King Alfonso had not yet consented to the prospective marriage of his grandson, Prince Alvaro de Bourbon-Orleans, and Alfonso's daughter, Princess Beatrice.

Alfonso did say, before leaving recently on a trip to Egypt, that he might consent to the marriage of the two, who are second cousins.

Phila. Man Held in Vote Machine Bribe

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Charged with attempting to bribe the Secretary of the Commonwealth to buy 800 voting machines from the Shoup Voting Machine Company, George O'Brien, former Philadelphia newspaperman and port appraiser, was held in bail of $2,500 last night.

PHILLIPS SEES SOLUTION OF PROBLEM

City Promised Satisfactory Answer to Demands For Reduction of Charges

The first step toward a reduction of public utility rates in Pittsburgh is expected to be taken at a conference between City Council members and representatives of the utility firms on Thursday.

Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company and its utility subsidiaries, suggested the conference when he met with Council yesterday to discuss their request for voluntary rate cuts.

NO ACTION TAKEN

Another suggestion made by Phillips to Council—that a committee be formed of councilmen, representatives of adjacent municipalities, civic organizations interested in the rate fight and officials of the utilities companies—was not acted upon at yesterday's meeting.

Phillips, telling Council that he felt sure the matter could "be settled to the entire satisfaction of everyone," said:

"We want a meeting next week. At that time I'll show you data as to the proposition we intend making. I'll have an answer to your question whether we can reduce the rates. We can settle this matter to the entire satisfaction of all. Let's not throw a half million dollars away on expensive litigation."

FIRST CONFERENCE

Yesterday's conference was the first of a series to be called by Council with various utilities groups in the Pittsburgh district. At the termination of the meeting, at which various trade and civic group representatives were present, President John S. Herron appointed nine Councilmen and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and Assistant Solicitor Charles P. Lang as the committee to work with the Philadelphia Company.

Both Council and Phillips agreed to confine their conferences to rates in Pittsburgh only, Herron said:

"If we take care of our own people and our neighbors profit—then that is their good luck."

It is understood that recommendations the Philadelphia Company president makes would have to be approved by the organization's board of directors.

PRICE TREND CITED

Council agreed with the company representatives that rate litigation was expensive and cooperation was the better plan.

In asking for some reduction, Herron pointed out that price trends throughout the city, state and nation were showing a decline. Considering this, the utilities groups should inform Council what they intend doing on the question, he declared.

Defending the company's present rates, Phillips said since 1913 living costs have fluctuated, settling at the point where they are 80 per cent higher than 18 years ago. On the same basis, he said, power costs were 52 per cent lower. All reductions have been made voluntarily, according to Phillips.

DEFENDS ASSOCIATION

C. V. Shoup, secretary of the Allied Boards of Trade, aggressive factor in fair rate legislation, took exception to the charge made during the parley that the Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association was "political." He said:

"The association has for its aim and purpose the unseating of a lot of State Senators in Harrisburg who must be made to understand that the time has come for legislation reducing power and light costs."

Two Women Hurt As Cars Collide

Mrs. Millie O'Leary, 34, of Jucunda street, and Myrtle Robinson, 36, of 202 Brownsville road, were injured slightly last night when their automobile crashed with a car driven by John F. Steckline, 29, of 84 Luella street, at Cedar and East Ohio streets. Police said the car in which the women were riding was driven by Paul J. Curton, of 1268 Mississippi avenue, Dormont.

Blaze in Dwelling Blamed on Furnace

Fire, caused by an overheated furnace, damaged the two-story frame home of Raymond O'Donnell, at 1461 Oakdeane street, last night. A member of the household discovered the flames and sounded an alarm. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

Old St. Luke's to Honor Washington's Memory

The bi-centennial of George Washington will be celebrated with special services Sunday afternoon in historic old St. Luke's-Chartiers Episcopal Church, Woodville.

The old church, associated with the early history of the Pittsburgh district and definitely connected with the events and individuals prominent in the Revolutionary period, will be the scene of the celebrations.

Senator Frank J. Harris, of Crafton, and Judge W. Heber Dithrich, of Common Pleas Court, will be speakers, members of lodges, clubs, students and patrons of public and parochial schools of the district have been invited to take part in the celebration.

The student band of Carnegie High School will furnish music, and the Boy and Girl Scouts of the district will take part. Singing by the audience will be led by the choirs of the Atonement and St. John's Lutheran Churches of Carnegie. The committee in charge is headed by the Rev. T. Frederick Cooper.

MILITARY RITES FOR VETERAN

Joseph Pauley, 87, of 167 Wabash avenue, pioneer Pittsburgher, who died Tuesday, was buried today with military honors, but his two comrades, the only living members of the Garfield Post, G. A. R., of which he also had been a member, were unable to attend because of illness.

L. W. Mallassee of Wabridge street and Chris Lampe of Greentree, the comrades who had been associated with him in the post affairs since the Civil War, sent their regrets to the veteran's family through members of the Albert G. Baker Post, V. F. W., who escorted the funeral procession from the home to St. Michael's Church, West End, of which he was a member, and thence to St. Michael's cemetery.

Mr. Pauley, who had been retired for almost 30 years, was active with his two veteran comrades in G. A. R. and Veteran of Foreign Wars affairs for a number of years. He had formerly lived on Duquesne Heights.

Mr. Pauley leaves four sons, Joseph J., Frank, Sylvester, all of Pittsburgh, and Edward, of Paterson, N. J., a daughter, Teresa, 18 grandchildren, and 15 great-grandchildren.

BLIND CHILDREN EXHIBIT WORK

Children at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, demonstrated their educational and vocational talents to several hundred guests who visited the school yesterday. Several high school classes, the educational group from the Congress of Clubs, and numerous friends watched the children at work in the classes.

West Virginia Bank Cashier Sought Here

Pittsburgh police today were asked to search for Irving Richie, 61, cashier of the Farmers Bank of Pendleton, W. Va., from whom no word has been received since his departure February 1 on a business trip to Baltimore and Richmond, Va.

Richie, according to word received by police here, left in his automobile and last was seen driving through Shepherdstown, W. Va. He was described as six feet tall and weighing about 200 pounds.

Dolly Gann Again Reports to Hoover

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Saying she went to discuss "politics," Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice President Curtis, today held her second conference in 24 hours at the White House.

She went to the executive mansion with the Vice President, who attended the regular Friday cabinet meeting with the President. While that was going on she talked with Walter Newton, a secretary to the President.

Oldest G. A. R. Chief, Lincoln Guard Dies

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Eliakim (Eli) Torrance, 87, oldest past national commander of the G. A. R., died last night. He served in 1901 and 1902 and often boasted of having attended every national encampment until five years ago when infirmities of age stepped in.

He enlisted with the Pennsylvania Volunteers at 17 and was a member of the military guard of honor over the body of President Lincoln at Baltimore.

MAN ACCUSED AS 'BUTCHER'

VIENNA, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Franz Laudenbach, 38, Viennese laundryman, was arrested today on wholesale murder charges.

He was accused of luring at least six girls to his home by promises of marriage, robbing and murdering them, dismembering their bodies and throwing them in the Danube.

Police announced Laudenbach had confessed two of the killings of which he is suspected.

The crimes caused such a furore that Chancellor Otto Burisch announced he would ask Parliament to reinstitute the death penalty, abandoned some time ago, before Laudenbach is placed on trial.

WOMAN LOSES RUM PAROLE

Mrs. Nellie Buchanan, 31, of Charleroi, who disappeared in June, 1930, after having been paroled in Federal Court on a liquor charge, was brought back here today to answer charges of violating her parole following her arrest in Kearney, N. J., with Moses Gray, 40.

Gray, an Indian, had been a boarder in the Buchanan home and disappeared at the same time the woman deserted her five children, according to United States special agents here, who caused her arrest.

Mrs. Buchanan was paroled for six months in 1930 after her husband, Steve, had been sentenced to jail for four months on a liquor charge. Gray will be returned here later to answer charges of violating the Mann act, according to the agents.

DISBAR WALSH IN U. S. COURT

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, in Federal Court today ordered that the name of Winfield S. Walsh, a lawyer, be stricken from the list of practicing attorneys of the court.

The ruling was made on petition of the Allegheny County Bar Association, which Walsh failed to answer. According to the petition, Walsh was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to serve four years in jail after he pleaded guilty to indictments charging embezzlement and misdemeanor December 3, 1931.

Kaufmann Galleries Exhibit Relics, Also Pictures at Spots Washington Visited

By PENELOPE REDD

An exhibition of antiques, the majority of which date back to the early federal period, is now on view at the Kaufmann Galleries. The use of pine varying in tone from a warm gold to almost a golden bronze and the simplification of the traditional English designs are the chief distinctions of the style.

The best examples of the many chairs, tables and cupboards are from the home of Jennie Goldwaite at Charleston, Mass., and from that of John Mines at Orlans, Cape Cod.

Penelope Redd

Items associated with early nineteenth century seafaring are numerous. A "captain's chest" fitted with accessories for good spirits, oaken sea chests bound with hand-wrought iron, ship's lanterns, and the models of ships that sailors put in bottles as their leisure craft, are shown.

Sandwich glass, including the favored "milk glass" and sets of wine bottles and goblets are from a later period.

The group of contemporary water colors by Coulton Waugh is of kindred appeal. He does very well in casual fashion, quite free from archaeology, the famous New England houses—"The House of Seven Gables," "The Old Fairbanks House," "Old Mill at Eastham" and others. He has also decorative prints of ships and maps.

Incidentally, Kaufmann's have also put on an illuminating series of pictures of places associated with Washington on the occasions of his many visits to Pittsburgh, extending from 1753 to 1784. Certainly, no other President of the United States gave as much personal attention to this section as Washington.

The rooms suggested by Mt. Vernon are also of value since none of the official sources, such as the museum, seems to have felt any obligation to present an exhibition illustrating the manners and customs of the days when the nation was young.

Yale Honor Student Is Appointed Secretary

In response to a plea of Gov. Gifford Pinchot to send him "their brightest law student" to be his secretary, Yale University officials picked A. W. Smith, III, son of A. W. Smith, of 5920 Elwood street, for the honor, according to word received here.

Smith will return to Yale University at the end of a year to continue his law studies. He was recently named director of the Yale Law Journal, an honor given to students receiving high grades.

Smith is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

Convict from Atlanta Caught in Kentucky

Charles Grunsauley, 24, of Midland, who escaped from an honor farm at Atlanta penitentiary on January 25, was arrested in Pikesville, Ky., today by operatives from the Pittsburgh office of the United States Bureau of Investigation. Grunsauley was convicted last year in Federal Court at Wheeling as members of an auto theft ring.

ADVANCE PLANS OF 2 SCHOOLS

Contract plans were approved for the new $1,000,000 William M. Davidson High School, to be erected on West Liberty avenue near Belle Isle street, last night at a meeting of the administration and finance committees of the Board of Public Education.

Erection of part of the building is expected this year at an estimated cost of $600,000. An addition planned for construction later will cost about $336,000.

The board will not advertise for bids at once. Board members were inclined not to offer bonds on the present market.

Sketches of the new proposed $700,000 Liberty School, Ivy and Ellsworth avenues, were approved and contract plans were ordered prepared.

The use of school auditoriums for strictly charitable entertainments was recommended by the committee on the suggestion of Dr. Ben G. Graham, city superintendent.

TEACHERS PLAN CHICAGO STRIKE

At a meeting last night in which classroom dignity was thrown to the winds, they voted to publish a list of "public enemies" containing the names of prominent tax-dodgers. One teacher declared:

"It may come to having pickets in front of buildings carrying signs such as 'This building has not paid taxes for three years and now owes $300,000.'

"We'll boycott the business man who doesn't pay his taxes so we can get our pay."

The teachers also voted to abolish athletics, dramatics, and all extra-curricular activities from the high schools.

Father Wins $3,500 For Daughter's Death

Arthur B. Schell, of Detroit, was awarded $3,500 damages by a jury in Federal Court today against Tony Vitale, of New Castle, Pa., operating as the Ohio Display Fireworks Company, as a result of fatal injuries suffered by Schell's daughter, Virginia, 11, at a July 4 celebration at Rouge Park, Detroit, in 1930.

Pastor Dies in Fire, Incendiarism Hinted

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Feb. 19.—(INS.)—The Rev. Stanislaus Bendes, pastor of the St. Stanislaus (Hungarian) Church, was burned to death when flames swept the rectory today. Police suspected incendiarism.

Anthracite Wages Declared Too High

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Anthracite wages are unduly high in relation to wages in other industries and are not required in the light of the present cost of living, said L. F. Loree in a statement accompanying the annual report of the Hudson Coal Company, released today. Mr. Loree is the president of the company and its parent company, Delaware and Hudson Company. The income statement showed that the company operated at a deficit of $729,977 last year, which contrasts with net income of $1,166,928 in 1930.

SEASONABLE FOODS :-: Prudence Penny Describes Varied Delicacies

WASHINGTON PIE—Four eggs. Beat yolks and add vanilla, yolks, 1 teaspoon vanilla, [illegible] water and [illegible]. Beat 2 spoon lemon extract. Add [illegible] cold water, 1 cup sugar, [illegible] spread in thirds [illegible] inch on pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, sifted pastry placed in shallow powder, 4 egg whites beaten [illegible] Bake 20 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cool. Spread filling on half the cake and cover with other half. If desired this cake can be baked in 2 layer cake pans.

* * *

FILLING—Two-third cup of sugar, 4 tablespoon flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 cups whipped cream.

Blend sugar and flour. Add salt, yolks and milk. Cook in double boiler until thick and creamy. Stir frequently. Add vanilla and butter. Cool. Use as filling between baked cake layers. Top with whipped cream and garnish with red cherries.

* * *

BROILED BEAN SANDWICHES—Six slices of bread buttered, 1 medium can baked beans, ½ package American cheese, 6 strips bacon.

Place slices of buttered bread on a baking sheet. Spread generously with baked beans. Cut cheese six lengthwise slices and place a slice on each sandwich on top of the beans. Top each with a slice of bacon. Place under low broiler flame five minutes, or until cheese is melted and bacon crisp. Serve hot and garnish with pickles. Serves six.

* * *

BAKED BEAN, BACON AND OLIVE SANDWICH—Three slices bread for each sandwich to be made, ¼ pound bacon sliced thin, 1 small bottle olives, sliced (Spanish olives), 1 medium can baked beans, with pork and tomato sauce.

Fry bacon until crisp and brown. Add sliced olives and allow to heat in the fat. Heat baked beans according to directions on label of can. On first slice of bread place a generous layer of hot beans, cover with a second slice of toast, add slice of bacon and olives. Add third slice of toast. Cut sandwiches in triangles and garnish with pickles. Serve with a knife and fork.

CURRANT MUFFINS—Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons butter, ¾ cup currants.

Sift flour then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Make a depression in the center of the dry ingredients. Beat the egg until thick and foamy, add the milk and stir until well blended, then add the melted butter and turn quickly into the depression made in the flour. Mix as quickly as possible. This stirring should not consume more than a half minute. Add the washed dried currants and stir once or twice—just enough to thoroughly distribute the fruit. Pour the batter immediately into buttered muffin tins. Bake muffins in a hot oven (425 degrees F) from 20 to 25 minutes. Yield—12 medium sized muffins.

DATE-NUT BREAD—One cup dates, 1 cup nuts, 2 cups flour (white), 1 cup whole wheat flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, well beaten, 1¼ cups milk.

Stone dates and cut fine. Chop nuts. (Never grind nuts for nut bread.) Sift white flour then measure. To measure whole-wheat flour lift it with a spoon from the container into the cup. Combine flours and add salt and baking powder and resift. Return any bran in the sifter to the sifted mixture and stir until well blended. Cream the butter until soft and plastic. Add the sugar gradually and when all is in add the egg and beat until mass is a thick creamy mass. Add the dry ingredients and the milk alternately. As soon as all the flour is dampened add two or three ex-

HALF AGAIN as much soap ...yet it COSTS NO MORE

It's a positive fact that size for size, weight for weight, TAG has half again as much soap as ordinary laundry soaps contain. And here's why:

TAG is all soap—nothing else. No naphtha to chap the hands and to leave a soapy smell on the clothes. No fillers to make the bar look big. No harmful chemicals. No artificial colorings. No caustics. No bleaches. No perfume.

And because TAG is just real, honest soap, without cheap adulterants, it gets things clean as no other soap will. You'll be amazed at the way it goes after dirt and grease. Yet it won't harm the daintiest of laces or the most delicate of colors. It's not good looking—but what's the difference? It cleans better, goes further, lasts longer, costs less—these are the things that really count when you buy laundry soap.

Try TAG. It's the homely, brown bar with the round metal tag. Ask your grocer, he has it.

Oysters Are Believed to Be A Cure for Sickness

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Formerly Health Commissioner, New York City. United States Senator from New York.

Recent experiments have proved the importance of oysters in the diet. This food was formerly considered a delicacy, but now it is known to carry valuable nutrients. Copper, an important mineral element, is found in oysters. This substance is considered by modern science to be of vital importance in maintaining proper nutrition.

For many years iron was believed to be a cure for certain anemic conditions. The relief and even the cure of these ailments is more likely to occur when copper is added to the diet. Experiments show that where more than one mineral element is found in a food that fact adds to its value in the correction of any blood disorder.

In addition to copper, the oyster contains other important inorganic elements. There are iron and manganese which aid in forming new red blood cells and hemoglobin, the coloring matter of the blood. Because of these ingredients, oysters are now considered by many authorities to be useful in the treatment of certain anemic disorders.

There are many varieties of oysters. Some of the best known are "Blue Points," "Saddle Rocks," "Cape Cods," "Buzzard Bays" and "Rockaways." There are small and large oysters of each variety. The difference in size depends on the age of the oyster. Age makes no difference in tenderness; the flesh of an old oyster is just as tender as the flesh of a young one.

Oysters are no longer the menace to health that they were in former years. It was not so long ago that the danger of transmitting typhoid fever germs was great. Due to rigid state regulation oysters grown in contaminated waters are not sold.

Oysters are appealing, no matter how served. They are a simple food and easy to digest. When eaten raw they are more easily digested than when cooked.

There was an ancient practice demanding that oysters be eaten only during the months, the names of which include the letter "r." This tradition existed from the sixteenth century, but belief in it is slowly disappearing. Oysters of known purity can be eaten throughout the year and, contrary to the old conviction, they are always "in season."

Oysters should be placed in a cool, damp place with the openings of the shells down. When kept moist they remain in good condition for several weeks. They should always be kept in a shady and cool place.

In addition to their nutritional value, oysters are important because they afford great variety to the diet. No one can doubt that it is important that there should be variety. Monotony is almost as deadly in dietetics as it is in other matters.

Unhappiness Probable After Marriage Without Love

"Duty marriages"—do they ever pay? Consider Tony and Hannah.

Must Tony marry Hannah because "she's loved him for years and their families have always expected it"—even though his heart is set on Lucy?

Will he be a cad if he turns from Hannah now?

Poor Tony fears he will. And many of his friends agree with him. They're saying that it will kill poor Hannah if he deserts her.

A TRIANGLE

Dear Miss Martin:

I have a problem that I would like your opinion on. It isn't my problem really. I'll explain. And I hope you can help.

I belong to a club consisting of girls and fellows between the ages of 26 and 30. This problem involves three people. Two of them are members of the club, and one is a girl from out of town.

No. 1 is Tony. He is 30 years old, clean-cut, good looking and a square fellow all around. No. 2 is Hannah, the out-of-town girl, who is 26 years old and is Tony's old sweetheart since childhood days. No. 3 is Lucy. She is 26 years old and is one of the club members.

Lucy is a red-head, a heart-breaker and a cheat in many ways, but is a good sport and a nice girl in a crowd.

Tony went to school with Hannah, grew up with her and loves her as a sister. He never cared much for the girls, but was expected all around that some day he would marry Hannah. He himself sort of took it as a matter of course. He goes out of town two week-ends to see his family—and of course Hannah.

She is very much in love with him, and has thrown over many good chances to get married because she is waiting for Tony.

LOVES NEW FRIEND

Then Tony met Lucy at the club and they went for each other in a big way. Nobody mentioned Hannah to Lucy and of course Tony was a good sport and told Lucy about her. But here is the fireworks. Tony loves Lucy and she loves him. And Hannah loves him!

The idea is, who is going to marry Tony? He says he can't be a cad and leave Hannah when she loves him. And honestly, if he did, that girl's heart would just break in two. But he says that he can't give Lucy up either.

Lucy has been engaged before and has always broken the engagements, but we all think this time it is the real thing with her. We're sure she is honestly in love with Tony and wants to marry him.

Whom do you think he should marry—Hannah or Lucy?

KATHERINE.

Well, my dear, whom Tony marries is up to him and nobody else. I can't tell him whom he should choose and neither can you. But I can tell you a couple of important facts about love and life and one of them is this:

Even the deepest love does not establish a claim on the other fellow's life.

The fact that Hannah has loved Tony for years and that their families have expected them to marry, and that Tony himself has seemed to agree to the bargain, has nothing whatever to do with the question.

MASTER OF OWN HEART

The only thing that matters is this—does or doesn't Tony love Hannah?

If he doesn't love her she has no claim upon him, and he is not a cad if he married someone else. For Tony is master of his own heart and his own life and regardless of how greatly she loves him, Hannah has no mortgage on him.

Indeed, Tony would be a far worse "cad" to marry Hannah without loving her than to break with her now, for he would be cheating her. Sooner or later Tony would show his real feelings, try as he might to hide them, for he would secretly resent the fact that her dependence had forced him to sacrifice his own joy. He'd begin to be irritable. He couldn't help it. And Hannah would resent his resentment.

And then would she be happy?

No! She would be wretched, and before very long there would be another marriage headed for the skids. Hannah's unhappiness would be a tragedy greater than if he broke with her now and gave her a chance to get over her love for him and find happiness with some man who would really care for her.

Household Hints

Heat the starch in boiling water before adding it to the very stiff cheese. It will not only change the pleated appearance of dress-ups.

Pajamas and nightgowns are often left dingy and unattractive after a thorough good scrubbing. The following mixture will soon restore a pleasant and fresh appearance. Into a quart of hot water pour one tablespoonful of turpentine, one tablespoon of soap jelly or powder. It will bring back the gloss immediately.

Rubber gloves can be slipped on easily if first the hands are dusted with talcum powder. After using the gloves should be washed and dried thoroughly and then placed in a box containing cornstarch. When ready to use, shake the gloves into the box as the same cornstarch can be used again. This will do much to prolong the life of rubber gloves.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Bties are boils. An invading germ snuggles down at the root of an eyelash, starts to work, produces a state of inflammation. Apply gauze wrung out of hot water. As a rule the boil will then leave itself.

Once a week, sprinkle your two toothbrushes with table salt which keeps bristles firm, and acts as a cleansing agent. When brushing the teeth, manage to work the bristles between them—that's where the mean little destructive germs hide away close to the gums. A mouth lotion swished about after the brushing removes foreign substances which may have escaped the scrubbing.

A blackhead is a plug of grease in the pore, a mass which has attracted atmospheric dust. It is not enough to remove these blemishes which easily become infected and develop into pimples. Daily hygienic habits should be formed so that the sebaceous glands will perform their work normally. The daily bath stimulates the skin, which is an eliminating organ; fresh fruits act upon the intestinal tract; six glasses of water a day, taken between meals, assist the work of the kidneys.

Unhappiness Probable After Contract Bridge Marriage Without Love -:-

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

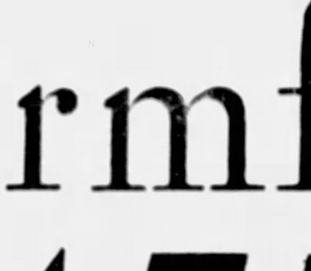
The Giving Spirit

It is the spirit of the giver in spite of a poor partner to play the combined hands when to have a finesse for Y's



A genuine demand bid is very rare, but a hand worth the semi-demand bid of two is quite common. Feeling that he held the latter type of hand, Z made an opening bid of only 2-Diamonds to which his partner responded with 2-Spades. To show his great length of suit Z replied with 3-Diamonds, but when Y bid 3-Spades, Z had to settle for 4-Hearts. A little deliberation caused Y to jump to 7-Hearts. It required both care-ful planning and good luck to fulfill that contract, as Z soon discovered.

The opening lead was the J of clubs with practically a certainty that B held the missing K so Y's Ace was played. After that the declarer studied the holdings of dummy and himself.

Six diamonds between the two hands meant at best an awkward division of the remainder of the suit of 4-3, and quite likely of 5-2. It looked improbable that Z's diamonds could be as readily established as Y's spades. Six missing cards of dummy's long suit offered odds of about 2 to 1 that opponents held the six 4-2 instead of 5-3. He never could establish spades if they were held 4-2 unless he risked a finesse. It would be impossible to trump off three spades and gain entry to dummy often enough to run off the balance of the established suit.

Old Kriss Kringle was with him when Z decided to play for the finesse. A small heart was led from dummy. Z's 10 won the trick. Upon Z's two top diamonds dummy's two losing clubs were discarded. Z next led his single spade, took a finesse of Y's 9, and won the trick. Upon the Ace was discarded Z's last club. Next dummy's lowest spade was led, and trumped with Z's K. The return lead was a low diamond, which was trumped by Y. Spades were cleared by leading the 10 and trumping with the declarer's Ace. The 5 of hearts was led and overtaken by Y's J. All that was now needed to fulfill the grand slam contract was for dummy's Q of hearts to be led, and to claim the balance of the hand good with all adverse trumps out and spades all winners.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

Shaking Hands

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

A friend of my family wanted me to meet a young man she knew, telling me how delightful he was. But it seemed that every night she and her husband planned to bring him to my home. I was either out of town or out for the evening. Finally they did bring him to my home, and when we were introduced, I shook hands with him, because I really was glad to meet him and I liked him very much. Now a friend says that it was not correct for me to shake hands with him. I believe it was since we had heard so much of each other and because I had been looking forward to meeting him. Which of us is right?

Since you so graciously help us out of our difficulties, I hope that I may have the privilege of coming to you again when I am in need of advice. May I?

READER.

You were right in shaking hands with this young man, on the grounds which you name and also on the ground that you were the hostess and as such were welcoming a guest to your home. A hostess should always shake hands with a guest as she welcomes him or her to her home, as well as when the guest leaves. I think that your guests would have felt that he had received a very frigid reception if you had not shaken hands with him. It was a most natural and most gracious thing for you to do.

Yes, ma'am, please come to my column any time you wish, and you will find the warmest of welcome there.

Madge Tells of Desire to Have Dicky Help Revise Play

I did not take Dicky's advice to go to bed until he was ready to help me with the revision of my third act, although I am afraid I gave him the impression I meant to follow his advice. But I knew Lillian was to be reckoned with, and as soon as I was sure Dicky was out of the house, I went in search of her.

She was not in her own room when I found her, but in the nursery chatting in low tones with Katherine, while my tiny daughter, over whom we had all been so concerned, slept peacefully in her carriage on the screened porch outside. Both women looked up when I entered, but it was Katherine, quickly seizing the conversational reins, who spoke first.

"Lady, take my wrist watch, also my lipstick!" she said extravagantly. "Lil tells me you've pulled off something pretty nifty in the line of the third act and that Veritzen's gaga over it."

"He was in full possession of his senses when he left me," I said.

"I am not meaning to insinuate that he has lost any of them," Katherine grinned. "Seriously though"—she crossed to me and kissed me—"you know without any fooling how glad I am."

"Seconded, as read," Lillian chimed in.

Their faces were so friendly, so genuinely glad at my success, that I had difficulty in answering them.

"It isn't fair to get a person all choky, and then expect her to make a speech," I said, "but I fancy you both know how warm you make my heart feel."

"Better lay off that warm stuff," Lillian advised, laughingly. "It's hot weather, anyway, you know. You'll need all your faculties if you are going to do that revision Phil wants. When do we start? Now?"

"In a few minutes," I told her. "Ask Katherine, prettily, to excuse us, and come along with me. I want to talk things over with you."

"Get out of here, both of you, before you wake my baby," Katherine said, and at the possessive pronoun and the adoring look she sent toward the sleeping child the old demon of jealousy stirred again within me. At that moment I would have given all my chances of success with my play for the privilege of caring for my baby with no other woman nearer than the next house.

It was not until I was in my own room again with the door closed that I next spoke to Lillian, but by that time with her usual clairvoyance, she sensed something strange in my attitude.

"What's wrong?" she asked as I bade her sit down in a voice that I tried vainly to keep from shaking.

"Nothing," I returned shortly.

"Ye-ah?" she drawled in the most approved distortion of the affirmative, while her keen eyes searched my face. "Well, maybe so, maybe so. But I never saw a mess of 'nothing' in my life with such potency to upset a perfect lady. Do you know I've been wondering whether I've 'done right by our Madgie' in prodding you about finishing this play? Perhaps you'd be happier without a 'career' of any sort. Of course from the point of view of anyone knowing your unusual gifts, you'd be making a grave mistake. But in the last analysis you have to decide those things for yourself, you know."

She knew! She had caught that involuntary shadowing of my eyes when Katherine had spoken of "my" baby.

But not even to Lillian could I openly acknowledge that feeling, and I took refuge in evasion.

"I think I feel toward my 'career'—if you can call it that—as some women regard their husbands."

"You neither can live with it nor without it?" Lillian queried with a grin, and with relief I saw that she did not intend to pursue her quizzing any further.

"Exactly," I answered, "and, of course, as long as I've started this play for Mr. Veritzen, I must finish it."

"Of course," she assented. "How long does he give you for writing the fourth act?"

"Ten days."

"Not so good," she said, then more brightly, "but, of course, you can manage it. Don't worry about that now. He wants this revision of the third act tomorrow, doesn't he?"

"At 11." My throat was suddenly dry with the fear that she would be hurt by being kept out of the revision work, as I had determined she should be because I did not wish her to discover the speeches of Vickers which I subconsciously had made a caricature of Dicky's expressions. But there was no use postponing the reckoning, so I said pleadingly:

"Lillian, will you mind? I can't get out of it very well without hurting his feelings, but Dicky has offered to help me with those revisions."

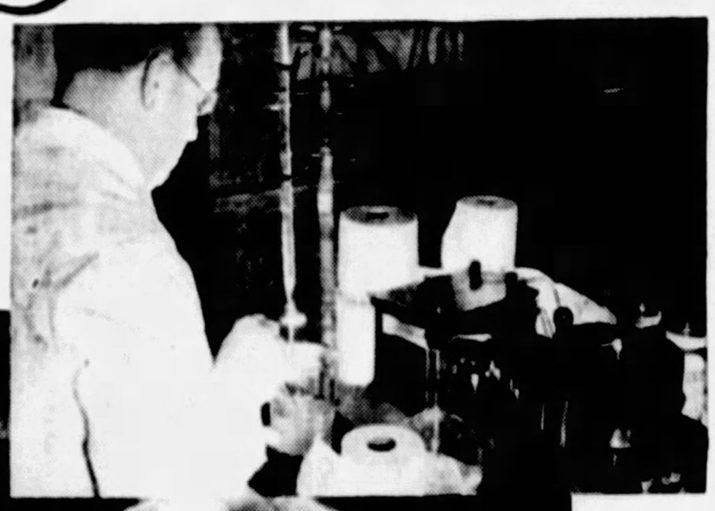
Harmful Acids found in 455 Toilet Tissues



THESE TESTS WERE MADE in a nationally known laboratory. 660 brands of toilet tissue were examined—brands purchased at retail in stores in different sections of the country. 455 of these brands were found to contain harmful amounts of irritating acids.

Tests of 660 brands* show 2 out of 3 Unsafe because of Strong Acidity . . . Some actually found to contain *Dangerous Chemicals . . . Aluminum, Mercury, even Arsenic

Many cases of serious illness attributed to the widespread use of inferior tissues . . . Tests prove SCOTTISSUE and WALDORF meet the accepted standards of medical safety.

WHEN YOU BUY toilet tissue without specifying the brand of a responsible manufacturer, you are taking a serious risk of endangering your family's health.

This was proved recently in a hospital laboratory. 660 brands were tested—chemically and microscopically.

The detailed report shows that 455 of these 660 toilet tissues are decidedly inferior and contain chemical impurities which are an actual menace to health.

Strong acids (hydrochloric and sulphurous), mercury, aluminum, sand, chlorine—and even arsenic were found. In addition 270 of these toilet tissues contained unsafe quantities of abrasive wood splinters.

In every test, the two health tissues, ScotTissue and Waldorf, conformed to accepted standards of medical safety.

No harsh irritants were found. Both ScotTissue and Waldorf were extremely soft and cloth-like, absolutely pure, with a high degree of absorbency.

Be sure of safety. Always call for ScotTissue or Waldorf by name. Never say "some toilet tissue, please." Remember, two out of three brands are unsafe.

WHEN CHILDREN COMPLAIN of irritation . . . it may be toilet tissue illness. The membranes of a child are extremely delicate, easily bruised by inferior toilet tissue. The tiniest abrasion may collect bacteria . . . spread infection . . . even result in chronic rectal illness. Don't take chances. Equip your bathroom with tissues you know meet the standards of softness, purity and absorbency which physicians approve—ScotTissue and Waldorf.

Scott Paper Co., Chester, Pa.

MEDICALLY SAFE!

The above tests showed that ScotTissue and Waldorf are absolutely safe—entirely free from harsh irritants . . . and chemically pure. These extremely soft, absorbent health tissues have always been approved for safety by doctors, hospitals and health authorities.

USE CAUTION WHEN SELECTING CLOTHES

Sketched in Paris

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—Because this is to be an era of sartorial femininity with all the charm and allure that that terms implies, a word or so of caution is quite necessary. Femininity in clothes must appear spontaneous, never deliberate. Otherwise there is the tendency to appear insipid and the more mature woman soon seems to be kittinish in her effort to wear the frills and bows that are usually part of the feminine frock. The wisest course is to be trim without being overtrimmed. Use pleats and pleated ruffles, but let the general aspect of your frock be of the semi-tailored type. If your frock is rather youthful, don't wear a little girl's hat. Let your bonnet be ultra-smart so that it will confer the touch of sophistication that lifts the very feminine frock out of the ranks of the professionally frilly class. The "soft" frock can be worn by any woman with huge success if she will use common sense and develop a sense of proportion and true values. Dress is really an absorbing study with a definite psychology to it and analysing the mode carefully does not presuppose vanity at all.

* * *

TO GIVE YOU a fair idea of the femininity and allure that will prevail in sartorial circles this spring we are showing you a typical frock by Premet. It is a very splendid example of the use of pleated ruffles with sense of discretion. The model is of heavy black crepe de chine with the guimpe and undersleeves of white crepe de chine. The ruffling is judiciously placed. The peplum at the top of the skirt is cut like an apron curving up in back and tying with a soft bow.

CURRY OF LAMB—Two pounds lamb, 1 bay leaf, 1 teaspoon parsley, chopped, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon curry powder, 2 small onions, sliced, 6 peppercorns, salt and pepper, boiling water.

Select meat from the breast or shoulder and cut it into small pieces suitable for serving. Place meat in a kettle, cover with boiling water, and seasonings, cover and simmer until the meat is tender, about two hours. If left-over meat is used, allow 20 to 30 minutes. Remove meat, strain stock in the kettle, and thicken it with flour which has been combined with the curry powder and water enough to form a paste. Cook the gravy until thickened, add salt and pepper to taste and serve the meat on a deep platter with browned rice timbales.

ORANGE MINT SALAD—To serve six use 4 oranges. Peel and section the oranges and remove all the white membrane. Add 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, a pinch salt, 2 drops of almond extract. Chill in the refrigerator. Then add ½ cup of mayonnaise. Arrange on crisp lettuce, top with mayonnaise flavored with mint and if you can obtain the fresh leaves, sprinkle lightly with minced fresh mint.

FIRST TALKIE -:- Former Silent Actress Stages Comeback -:- AMUSEMENTS -:- News and Notes About Stage and Screen

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19.

After six months on an orange ranch, Betty Blythe is as excited as an ingenue over Hollywood and her first talkie.

The exotic siren whom you saw nine years ago in "The Queen of Sheba" is to play a mother role for Tiffany and she doesn't mind a bit.

Betty Blythe

"Why should I try to be young," she says. "These days there are a lot of people on the screen who are playing themselves. Anyway, I'm tired of tatting and sewing on buttons. I've gotten myself an agent and if I can come back I'll be happy."

Betty's husband, Paul Scarden, will remain on the five-acre grove near Fontana. In the old days he was a successful actor and director but now he's content to raise oranges and police dogs.

"Not for me," says Betty. "Can you imagine it? A few weeks back I put on a pair of overalls and went out in the snow to gather the oranges which the storm had knocked off the trees. The next morning there were a lot more on the ground. It was too discouraging. Believe me, a Hollywood apartment is a palace by comparison."

AND SO TO GOSSIP

Carl Laemmle is asking motion picture people to help make up the $40,000 deficit necessary to send the German athletes to the Olympic games. . . . Paramount has postponed "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" because they can't make a deal for the dialogue rights. Miriam Hopkins was to have starred in it. . . . I suppose New York reporters didn't overlook the fact that Pat Dorsay went out on the tug to meet Will Rogers' boat. Pat is a great Rogers fan. . . . Eddie Cantor is against hard-times gags. "We've advertised the depression until it is a success," he remarked sapiently. . . . Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey will not go to China. . . . That contract dispute between Wesley Ruggles and Radio is all settled, except the size of the type in which his name is to be advertised.

Miriam Hopkins

PART FOR GWILI

After all, Gwili Andree may not have to wait three months to get her first part in a talkie. The

Marionettes Coming Tomorrow

The Jean Gros French Marionettes will give a performance of a super-marionette pageant entitled "The Romance of George Washington" in Carnegie Music Hall tomorrow afternoon. The life of George Washington will be portrayed by the 50 marionettes. They will be operated with 1,000 strings by a company of trained puppeteers, and scenes will be shown of the early youth of Washington, as well as Washington as a young man and later his life at Mt. Vernon. Following the pageant, which is part of the two-hundredth anniversary celebration of the birth of Washington, the marionettes will amuse the children with their accomplishments as acrobats, singers and dancers.

'FOG' DEATHS LAID TO ACID

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(INS)—Sulphuric acid discharged into atmosphere by industrial plants in the Meuse Valley of Belgium caused those hundreds of deaths among the population of that region during the foggy days December 5 and 6, 1930.

This is the decision of the official investigation commission appointed at Liege, reported at length in the current issue of the news edition of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

Sulphuric acid, the base of almost all chemical reaction methods, also is produced in ordinary coal smoke. In recent years, during similar foggy hours, residents of certain industrial sections of Philadelphia and nearby New Jersey have been similarly affected by the fumes, but the air conditions have not yet lasted long enough to cause any deaths.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Shrine Directors' Association of North America voted today to hold its 1933 convention at Cincinnati, O., March 1-4, inclusive. Sidney A. Gaines, of Wichita Falls, Tex., was elected president and Robert E. Osborn, of Hastings, Neb., was chosen first vice president.

Arliss Shines In Warner Film

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The first showing of the new George Arliss photoplay, "The Man Who Played God," in Pennsylvania, dignified as a gala affair, occurred in the Warner last night, when the picture was witnessed by a large audience, in which invited guests mingled with the regular playing customers. City and county officials and persons otherwise prominent were included. Some of them were asked to speak into a radio microphone, hence the audience likely included many who had no seats in the theater, which also was specially decorated for the occasion.

"The Man Who Played God" proved to be another fine, clean, inspiring picture by a deservedly first-rank artist. Based on a story by Gouverneur Morris that also was dramatized for the stage some years ago, its fault principally is that it is overlong and perhaps a shade too sentimental for a star like Arliss to be expected to shine in. Nevertheless he does shine in it, and it is its very sentimentality that gives him opportunity to run the gamut of moods, from the light and airy to the despair of an embittered man who reaches the verge of tragedy and finally works himself back to a calm and sane view of life.

The story is that of an idolized musical artist, who, at the height of his career, is suddenly stricken deaf. It changes his career, his outlook on life and his way of living. He becomes a recluse and an anti-deist, but circumstances bring still another change and plunge him into the third and better phase of his existence.

As a succession of striking individual portraits, "The Man Who Played God" gives Arliss scope for characterization he has not had since "Old English," and it seems unnecessary to state that he makes the most of them.

There's a romantic story, too, that runs co-incident to the main theme with Arliss as one of the persons concerned. Bette Davis and Violet Heming bring the other two. You'll like both of them, but best of all the support you'll like the characterization of Ivan Simpson as his butler and secretary. Louise Closser Hale, fine stage actress, also is prominent.

Show Girls Ritzy in Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Stepping Sisters," a boisterous talkie of ex-burlesque queens putting on "the dog," opened yesterday in the Fulton. Based on the stage play by Howard Warren Comstock, "his film will send you out laughing."

After the years three former ladies of the chorus meet, two of them put on the high-hat, pretending to be what they "ain't." The third remains her own sweet self, just a gay girl out to play. Louise Dresser, Johyna Ralston and Minna Gombell carry the roles.

Miss Dresser has the part of a social climber. She's staging a big benefit affair when Johyna and Minna enter. Johyna has gone in for Shakespeare, and she struts about like an Ethel Barrymore. Minna is the same old Gombell.

Anyway, the two newcomers almost wreck the benefit. They appear in tights and Miss Dresser's dream of society scoots out the window. But everything ends happily. You see them in Louise's ritzy kitchen drinking beer.

An added attraction is "Trapped in a Submarine." It is a British-made affair, somber and mechanical.

Theatrical Union Asks Charter Here

The Keystone State Theatrical Stage Employes and Motion Picture Machine Operators Union, Inc., to promote and protect the interests of persons in various stage craft and motion picture associations, has applied for a charter. Trustees are William J. Noltz, 235 Moore avenue; Joseph L. Flynn, 113 Valonia street, and Philip Doyle, 3453 Ward street.

Plays, Players and By-Plays

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Another member of "the royal family," fourth generation, Drew-Barrymore, will be seen with his mother, Ethel Barrymore, in "The School for Scandal," in the Alvin next week. He is John Drew Colt, whose sister, Ethel Barrymore Colt, appeared here with Miss Barrymore in "Scarlet Sister Mary." Charles H. Crocker-King and McKay Morris also will be seen in Miss Barrymore's support. The play comes under the auspices of the Professional Players of Pittsburgh.

Everything is specialized in a big musical show such as Ziegfeld's new "Hot-Cha," which comes to the Nixon next week. There is a conductor for the music and a director for this, a stager for that and arranger for something else, and what not. Among these important posts is that held by Bobby Connolly, under whose supervision the dancers are. Mr. Connolly staged the brilliant "Changing of Guards" ballet, remembered as a spectacular feature when the "Follies" made its debut here last summer.

How Do Sportswomen Manage?

Cup winners can't be quitters. The woman in any field of sport must take her sporting chance with Nature. Any strenuous match may bring on her monthly sickness. But there need be no pain! Midol always meets this emergency, as all active women should know. It will block periodic pain for hours.

And Midol is as harmless as the aspirin that stops your headaches. (It is non-narcotic.) If you want your next monthly period to begin and end without even a moment's discomfort, just ask for Midol at any drug store. Tuck the little box in your purse and be ready.

Here's Unfailing Sanitary Protection

IF you want peace of mind, try this new kind of security. Not a chance of embarrassment!

The Maculette is really new—and different. It is not just another rubberized step-in. In fact, it is neither rubberized nor a step-in, but a glove-fitting, moisture-proof sheath that gives you perfect protection every second you have it on. And never chafes nor draws.

The silky material, as airy-fairy as your other fine lingerie, can be worn under the sheerest frock. Many women wear it all the time, for it saves many times its modest cost in bills for steaming and freshening.

The Maculette does away with belts, permits the use of any size napkin, is instantly cleansed by sponging with cold water and launders perfectly.

Think how much you would be willing to pay sometimes to be sure. Yet the Maculette is only $1.00.

Ask for it at the notions or corset counters of any of the better department stores or dress shops.

BENSWANGER EIGHTH HEAD OF ROVERS

IN THE RANKS of the younger baseball men who have come in to supplant the old guard in the directing of major league units, there are no executives more capable, or better qualified to handle the offices to which they have been elevated than the two into whose charge the Pittsburgh club, now owned by Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss, passes in the election of William E. Benswanger as president and treasurer and of Samuel E. Watters as vice president and secretary.

W. E. Benswanger

Though in office only a year as treasurer, President Benswanger has been in baseball all his life as a fan and a close student of the game. He knows the sport from all angles, is a thoroughly trained business man, has acquired a fine grasp of club and league affairs, and in every way measures up to the requirements of the presidency. Nothing need be said about Sam Watters. There is no abler man in baseball. He is known everywhere as being pretty much in a class of his own at the duties of running the business end of a ball club, and his elevation to the vice presidency is a deserved reward for more than two decades of faithful and efficient service that had much to do with the general success of the Pirates during that period.

PRESIDENT BENSWANGER, 40 next Monday, holds the distinction of being the youngest club president in the major leagues. He is the eighth chief executive of the Pittsburgh National League club, now entering upon its forty-sixth season in the senior circuit. The line was headed by W. A. Nimmick, who directed the club from 1887 to 1890, inclusive.

J. Palmer O'Neil, who kept the club from going on the rocks in Brotherhood year, 1890, was president in 1891; W. C. Temple in 1892; A. C. Buckenberger, who was also manager, in 1893; W. W. Kerr from 1894 to 1897, inclusive; W. H. Watkins, also manager, in 1898; Kerr again in 1899, and Barney Dreyfuss from 1900 until his death two weeks ago today.

WHEN THE SENSATIONAL Allegheny College basketball team invades Pittsburgh to meet Carnegie Tech at the Tartan gym tomorrow night, local fans will get one of their few opportunities to see a couple of brilliant home district products in action. They are Bob Garbark, of Edgewood, and Walter Berger, of Homestead.

These two lads have made much athletic history for the Meadville school. They have played four years of football together in Allegheny backfields, and this is their fourth season paired at guards on the basketball team of the college.

GARBARK HAS BEEN one of Western Pennsylvania's outstanding college fullbacks since his freshman days in football. Heavy, strong and fast, he has been the workhorse of the Allegheny backfield. He has also earned a most enviable reputation as a gentlemanly athlete among opposing players, as well as among spectators and officials. Berger and Garbark give the Allegheny basketball team a splendid defense, which has had not a little to do with its fine showing. Incidentally, the quintet facing Carnegie tomorrow night will present two other four-year veterans in Capt. Dennison and Conn, the center.*

Dr. H. C. Carlson

DAVE KERR spent an afternoon with Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt coach, in Braddock, and nothing in basketball remained undiscussed. Kerr said afterward that he wished there were more Carlsons in the court sport; that the game would then be what it should be.

The Panther coach was eager to hear Kerr tell of the professional side of basketball and to learn all that he could of the methods and systems employed in that division. In return, the Panther mentor explained his own system in detail. Kerr pronounces it perfect and even admits that he learned a few things from the Braddock medico.

CARLSON CONFESSED THAT, due to a lack of material and players of fair height, he was having his troubles against taller passers when it came to breaking through the zone defense, though against the man-for-man defense his system always has been very successful.

Kerr suggested a variation in the set offense that Carlson has been using for several years, pointing out that every team playing Pitt is primed for that particular kind of game, and that an occasional shift might prove beneficial until the Panthers get another trio approaching Hyatt, Reed and Wrobleski. Kerr said Hyatt was the greatest ball hawk he had ever seen.

IN THE OPINION of Jim Corbett, one of the troubles with boxing today is that there is too much direction from the corners. He says that the managers, many of whom know little about actual fighting, spoil their boys by coaching them to hold, haul and maul and to follow safety-first methods. "I have yet to find a manager who can tell a smart fighter what to do better than the fighter can think out for himself," Corbett says. "The managers should stick to their clerical work and let it go at that."*

JACK DEMPSEY may not have looked any worse in his first meeting with a so-called live one, King Levinsky, in Chicago last night, than he had looked in previous bouts with poorer opponents, but neither did he show any greater promise that his attempted comeback is going to prove the real thing. A poll of newspapermen at the ringside showed Levinsky to have scored a decisive margin in the slugging.

Four-round bouts with gloves as big as pillows can't be called anything more than get-the-money affairs in which the ex-champion will be in no danger. As long as the fans are willing to turn out more than 23,000 strong, and to pay more than $74,000 for such shows—Jack's bit last night was about $30,000—Dempsey probably isn't worrying very much whether he can come back or not. This is much softer than real fighting.

FOOTBALL MEN SAY that under the new rule which permits a kickoff to be made by means of a punt, it's going to be just too bad for opponents of Michigan State next fall. Jimmy Crowley has a fullback named Ellowitz out there who is expected to cause a lot of trouble for foemen.

Leo Sexton

Ellowitz, it is said, can punt long spirals which rise a mile in the air and are as difficult to catch as a greased pig. Even if the ball is caught it goes so high that the whole kicking team will be able to surround the player making the catch and prevent any runbacks.

SIX NEW WORLD records in track and field sports have been hung up within a space of 12 days. On February 6, Gene Venske set a world indoor running record of 4 minutes 11 1-15 seconds for one mile, and George Spitz boosted the indoor high jump mark to 6 feet 7¾ inches. On February 13, Spitz, indoors, turned in a high jump of 6 feet 8½ inches, which beat even the best outdoor jump of all time, and Leo Sexton established a new record of 51 feet 11¼ inches for putting the 16-pound shot. On February 17, Venske lowered the world indoor mile running record even further to 4 minutes and 10 seconds, and Sexton extended his shot-put figure to the new world indoor and outdoor record of 52 feet 8¾ inches. Though it has been on its way less than two months, 1932 already has contributed enough for a standout chapter in track and field history. And there may be plenty more coming.*

CHI STADIUM JAMMED FOR EXHIBITION

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
International News Service Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 — Jack Dempsey is still pressing on today along the comeback trail heedless of the tough spot in the road which he encountered in the person of Kingfish Levinsky at the Chicago Stadium last night.

King Levinsky

Dempsey and a host of his friends who saw his tussle with the erstwhile fish peddler still believe he can beat down the opposition that stands between him and the heavyweight championship he once held and earn another crack at the title.

No one of the 23,322 fight fans who saw Jack and the Kingfish step four rounds denies that Levinsky handled the Manassa Mauler a bit roughly at times. The bout was purely an exhibition affair without a decision. But the majority of sports writers gave the verdict to the King.

It was the biggest crowd that ever saw an indoor boxing match and it paid a gross gate of $74,616.25 to view the spectacle. It was estimated Dempsey drew $24,000 and Levinsky $9,500.

SWINGS NAIL DEMPSEY

The pride of Chicago's Maxwell street had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Yet he showed his respect for Dempsey's prowess when he came out very cautiously in the first round and did considerable clinching while Dempsey scored effectively at close quarters.

Even into the second round Levinsky evidently was apprehensive of the dynamite in Jack's fists and lumbered cautiously around the ring. When he found that Dempsey's wallops were not lulling him to sleep, somewhat to his own amazement the Kingfish opened up and began swinging.

Levinsky's general style of fighting resembled a farmer's wife fighting bees. He swings and swings and some of his swings are bound to land. Jack ducked a lot of them with ridiculous ease, but, in the third round, the Kingfish was swarming all over the place and he gave Jack a few jolting wallops. It was this third round spurt that earned Levinsky whatever victory attaches to a no-decision contest.

Plenty of the Kingfish's Maxwell street friends were there and they gave him copious cheers. But the bulk of the cheering was for Dempsey and thousands who saw the famous Battle of the Long Count at Soldier Field in 1927 roared last night for the man they still think should have won from Gene Tunney then.

HONORED AT DINNER

Dempsey's popularity with the crowds was vividly demonstrated after the bout when more than 100 celebrities and friends attended a dinner in his honor. Crowds jammed the lobbies and crowded into the cafe clamoring for autographs and to shake his hand.

Mayor Tony Cermak, of Chicago, was there. So was Will Rogers; Mary Brian, the movie star; Young Stribling, Battling Nelson and many others. Even Levinsky came to Dempsey's party.

BILLY JONES BEATEN

A big upset of the dope startled the fans when Georgie Nichols, Buffalo southpaw, defeated Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, in the semi-final bout, a part of the N. B. A. light-heavyweight elimination tournament. Nichols thus qualifies to meet Dave Maier for the crown.

Jones had been the outstanding favorite since the tourney began. Nichols overwhelmed him in the early rounds, flooring him twice in the second and again in the fourth.

Counterfeiters who duplicated and sold tickets were being sought by police today. A number of fans arriving at the Stadium found their choice seats filled, while others who arrived early were disgruntled when they were informed their tickets were spurious.

With more than 10,000 fans turned away from the doors, tickets were selling at a premium.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: SEVEN IRISHMEN IN A SINGLE BIRTH—The account of the Seven Irish Children born in one birth is contained in Aubray's "Natural History of Wiltshire." The mother of the set of septuplets was Thomas Bonham's wife, Edith, who became the mother of twins at the age of 40 and then, after an interval of seven years, bore seven children in a single birth. This incredible event was recorded in the Parish Register of Wishford Magna, Ireland, and was commemorated by a monumental inscription in Wishford, where the seven children were brought to the font and baptized. TRICK ADDITION—The top row of figures in the problem will be referred to as the "original figure." The "original figure" and the figure following it are suggested by your partner. Then you add a third row, bearing in mind that rows Nos. 2 and 3, added together, should give you (mentally) a row of nines. Your partner now may add a fourth row, which you complete by inserting row No. 5 in the same manner as No. 3. Every two horizontal rows adding up to a row of nines constitute a "group." The problem may contain any number of groups. When the final addition is made the sum total will be a repetition of the "original figure" except that the last digit will be reduced by a number, corresponding to the number of "groups," which number should be placed before the first digit of the original figure. In our problem the original figure was 27429. The number of groups was four, reducing the last digit to five, while the four will constitute the first digit of the sum total, placed in front of the original figure. In other words, the sum total will be 427425.

TOMORROW: A WINNING RACE HORSE WITH A BROKEN LEG.

TWO HOLDOUT HURLERS TO SIGN SOON

With the first squad of players rolling along toward camp, the holdout situation of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club today had reached a climax, the home office admitting that several of the star pitchers still were outside the fold. At the same time, however, the officials intimated that both of the Waner boys had been practically satisfied, and that the two stars would report to the Paso Robles camp with the second squad.

William E. Benswanger, who was elected president of the Pirates yesterday, succeeding the late Barney Dreyfuss, his father-in-law, discussed the holdout situation this afternoon, his tone indicating that all hands would be appeased in due time.

Pitchers Heinie Meine, Larry French, Remy Kremer, Ervin Brame and Bill Swift all have been listed as dissenters. The president of the Pirates says that in all probability Kremer will be in camp and all fixed up in time to work out with the first squad. Brame, he says, is just as good as signed.

THREE HURLERS ADAMANT

Meine, French and Swift, it was indicated, had kicked over the traces in a forceful way. Benswanger states that Meine had been allotted a generous increase, but he failed to join Manager Gibson's traveling host, so he evidently has not signed. French generally gives the club trouble in the matter of signing. Recruit Swift has not returned a signed document, nor has he written the club. From his Scranton home, he says he is not satisfied with the terms of his contract. The club still is negotiating with Holdout Tony Piet, recruit second baseman.

The home office today notified Gus Suhr to report to Paso Robles to be ready for first squad workouts. Manager George Gibson wants to give the firstbaseman some coaching at the plate. Gus was a severe disappointment on the offense last season.

Bucs Near Texas

WELLINGTON, Kan., Feb. 19.—It was an augmented Pittsburgh baseball squad that arrived here today, speeding along on another lap of the journey to the spring training grounds at Paso Robles, four more players having joined the advance guard at Kansas City late last night. They were Catchers Hal Finney and Floyd McEwan and Pitchers John Niggeling and Charley Taylor. Finney is the only member of the quartet who has ever worn a Pirate uniform.

The next addition to the party will be Pitcher Vernon Kennedy, who is scheduled to board the train at Marceline, Mo.

ALL HANDS WELL

Manager George Gibson reported all hands well and looking forward eagerly to the time when they will get down to work. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the appearance and condition of the latest players to join the squad.

PITT IS HOST TO CREIGHTON

Creighton University's towering varsity basketball team, due to oppose Pitt in the Stadium tomorrow night and to stick around this territory long enough to play West Virginia Monday, is due to arrive in town this evening and will work out in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion later on.

Coach Red Carlson, of the Panthers, who has been giving his Panthers another dose of the old rest cure, announced after yesterday's easy drill for the reserves that he was virtually all set on his starting lineup. The good Doctor plans to use the co-captains, Kowallis and Lawry, at the forwards, Brown at center and Hughes and Smith at the guards. This will enable him to keep Ochsenhirt and McCamant in reserve. The former likely will see plenty of service, he and Brown being slated to have their paws full in opposing Creighton's giant 6-foot 6-inch center, Schmidt.

Meanwhile, Carnegie Tech is anticipating with little or no relish, the coming of the powerful once-defeated Allegheny College only by Westminster and Geneva, will show their wares, of which they are said to have a haversack full, in the Tech gym tomorrow night, while Pitt is meeting Creighton and the Dukes are seeking their thirteenth victory at the expense of Georgetown.

Tonight, Georgetown engages West Virginia at Morgantown in the district's most important contest. The Edinboro Teachers and Slippery Rock have a date to keep at Slippery Rock. Waynesburg is at home to Grove City, as the Grovers complete a two-game jaunt on the road. Last night they lost to the Dukes here.

DREYFUSSIANS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Willie Hinchman and Chick Fraser, the blushing violets of the Pirates' scouting staff, were two of Barney Dreyfuss' toilers who refused to get themselves in an uproar whenever they were victims of a blast by Barney. The big playboys actually added Barney's heated quips to their repertoire.

Bill and Chick brought many a bush league flower into the Pirates' camps, and, naturally, some of them failed to blossom. If the Buccos happened to be in a rut, Barney had to jump on somebody, so he occasionally would let the two scouts know that some of their nuggets were of a spurious blend.

Barney was especially anxious to take a fall out of his explorers after some highly-touted rookies had gummed up the club for a spell. Chick was at headquarters bright and early and when Dreyfuss entered he noticed that Hinchman was missing.

The Pittsburgh owner seemed to feel better after having his scouts on the carpet. Both were fond of him and they took the abuse as a matter of course. In a business way, according to Hinchman, his boss would back him to the limit. He wanted his agents to put up at the best hotels and to carry on in a major league manner.

Hinchman tells of his first long jaunt in quest of a player. He went to the Pacific Coast, looked at his man and liked him very much. But the price tag represented a staggering amount. He already had notified the home office the player was O. K., but was timid about closing in view of the amount involved. So he took up the matter with Dreyfuss. Barney replied in effect that he would not have Bill employed in his capacity unless he could have every confidence in the latter's judgment.

"That was sufficient for me," said Hinchman. "I paid the price and have been laying it on the line ever since."

Fraser reports a very humorous scene in Dreyfuss' office shortly after some rookies purchased by him and Hinchman had been injected into the Pittsburgh lineup. The youngsters failed to click at the start, their poor playing causing the club to lose some games.

Barney was putting on one of his good acts in his office, the two scouts being present. He was telling Fraser that one of Chick's bush league phenoms was a terrible "bust." Hinchman tried to stifle a chuckle as he heard his buddie bawled out, but Barney heard the laugh.

Like a flash, Dreyfuss turned on Bill and shouted:

"Hey, there, Hinchman—that last fellow you brought up is the worst ball player I ever saw!"

TECH BOXERS LOSE BURKE

Burke, who was rapidly gaining a reputation as one of the outstanding college 155-pounders in the country, was declared ineligible at the end of the first semester because of failure to maintain the high scholastic average demanded at Carnegie.

Burke's defection means Carnegie must forfeit in the 155 and 165-pound classes and leaves only Wertz, 115 pounds; Atlas, 125 pounds; Hellegers, 135 pounds; Carr, 145 pounds and Waldron, 175 pounds available for Coach Ernie Sesto.

HAUS GIRLS BEATEN

The Haus girls were defeated by Brownell, 1606 to 1515, in one of two bowling matches on the Haus Alleys, Federal street, North Side, last night.

Long's Sport Talk on Air Tonight

James J. Long's weekly sports talk will be heard over Station WCAE at 6:30 o'clock tonight, and henceforth will be a Friday night feature at this time, instead of being heard at 6:30 on Mondays, as in the past.

Long's review of the sports parade is as informative and authoritative as his daily column in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Readers and listeners have come to accept him as a sound authority on all sporting matters.

SUHR TO JOIN BUCS MONDAY

Gus Suhr, Pirate firstbaseman, whose home is in San Francisco, today was ordered to report to Manager George Gibson at Paso Robles in time to partake of practice with the first squad of Buccos, which will get in its first licks Monday.

In making the announcement on Suhr, Secretary Sam Watters stated that Manager Gibson wished to give the player some personal attention at the plate. Gus was a severe disappointment in hitting last season.

Johnstone Sets New Record at Vero Beach

VERO BEACH, Fla., Feb. 19.—Walter Johnstone, professional at the Butler (Pa.) Country Club and the Vero Beach links, established a new course record for the Vero Beach Country Club course yesterday when he scored a brilliant 63 over the par 68 layout. Johnstone had six birdies.

Carl Herrman, Jr., of the Highland Country Club, Pittsburgh, won the final of the local St. Valentine's tourney, defeating O. P. Wilson, of Kalamazoo, Mich., 1 up, in 18 holes.

Wrobleski Secretly Married for Year

Al Wrobleski, University of Pittsburgh basketball star, has been married more than a year, it was learned today. The bride of the popular Pitt flash is June Griffin, a graduate of Braddock High School.

The Wrobleskis make their home in 837 Fourth avenue, Braddock.

CITY LEAGUE TITLES AT STAKE

ALLEGHENY, SCHENLEY ARE FAVORED

By JULIUS LEVIN

The championship in the two sections of the City League will be up for settlement this afternoon when Schenley, leader in Section I, engages Connelley on the Connelley floor, while Allegheny, leader in Section II invades South Hills to battle the Tunnelites.

Schenley High, boasting eight victories in nine league starts, can clinch the title today by subduing Connelley, while an Allegheny triumph at the expense of South Hills likewise will decide the Section II championship.

POST-SEASON SERIES SOON

Should South Hills upset the dope by handing Allegheny its initial setback of the season, the North Siders still will hold first place in Section II by a margin of a half game.

With the close of the regular basketball schedules next week, champions of the two City League sections will start training for the opening of the annual post-season series. The first game will be played on the Section I floor on Tuesday, March 1. The second game will be played on the Section II floor on Friday, March 4, and the third, if necessary, on Tuesday, March 8, on a neutral floor, possibly the Pitt Stadium Pavilion.

With the basketball committee of the W. P. I. A. L. scheduled to meet tomorrow morning in the Fort Pitt Hotel to arrange pairings for the annual elimination series to be staged in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion, many leaders in the various sectional fights hope to settle their championship races tonight.

While a number of champions already have been crowned, there still remain several winners in doubt. However, tonight's contests find leaders opposed to their nearest rivals and if dope runs true to form, the majority of the sectional champs will be decided.

CHARLEROI VS. MONESSEN

The headliner on the W. P. I. A. L. program is scheduled for the Charleroi High School floor, where Monessen and Charleroi stage their second grudge battle. Monessen is holding first place as a result of defeating South Brownsville while Charleroi was idle last Tuesday. Charleroi already holds a victory over Monessen and if the Steppers make it two straight tonight, they will be in a fine position to clinch the Section V championship.

Ford City, Neenie Campbell's leaders in Section VI, can sew up the Section VI crown tonight, by defeating Leechburg, its nearest rival. Ford City has recorded eight successive league victories and is still undefeated.

Johnny Reed's Scott High quintet, state champion of last year, must overtake Rankin tonight to tie Braddock for first place in Section VIII. Braddock is not scheduled for league competition.

HOMESTEAD VICTOR

DUKES DOWN GROVE CITY

By JESS CARVER

Duquesne University's locally unbeaten Dukes had the stage set for a picnic in their own Bluff gymnasium last night during the first half of their ball game with Grove City. They were away out in front and apparently bent on getting even further in the lead. They wound up with a 28-22 victory and had to spurt madly late in the game when the aroused Grovers pulled up on even terms at 20-all, with less than five minutes to play.

Dave Feldman

Coach Chick Davies had to arrange another new starting lineup when he was deprived of the services of another of his stars by the team physician. Big MacDougal, the forward-center, was declared "out" by the medico yesterday afternoon, so Coach Chick dug up the veteran Ben Pawlina for forward duty. Len Brenner went to center. Feldman helped Pawlina at the other forward, and Dudey Moore and Joe Zerilla started at the guards. Later, Audley Davies, Chick's kid brother, and Marty Reiter and Capt. Bunk McGeever broke into the action.

The locals stepped out to a commanding 10-1 lead in the first half with Feldman leading the parade. After Grove City's captain, George Stavnitsky, was inserted into the Crimson battle front, the Grovers seemed to click better, and managed to cut the Duquesne advantage at 17-7 at the half. At that, 10 points is a dangerous amount to spot a team as clever as the Dukes.

Feldman led the attacks of both teams with 10 points, all scored in the first half. Koma was the main point-garnerer for Grove City with six. Joe Zerilla played a bang-up game at guard until he was injured in a collision during the first half and had to leave the ball game. He came back for more in the second half and stuck around until Chick Davies unblanketed Reiter. It was Marty's first appearance under fire since his recent illness. The lineup:

OKESON FAVORS NEW RULES

Walter Okeson, commissioner of the Eastern Intercollegiate Association for the Selection of Football Officials, is in full accord with the changes in the rules set forth by the rules committee following its annual confab Sunday.

Okeson spent yesterday here assisting W. Don Harrison, local commissioner, in selecting arbiters for next fall's contests in the Tri-State Conference. Okeson and Harrison had a four-hour session with representatives from Bethany, Thiel, Westminster, Geneva, Waynesburg and Grove City, at the P. A. A.

AIDS OFFICIALS

"The officiating of football games never will be easy," Okeson said, "but I think the proposed changes, which are certain to go through, will make it a great deal easier for the boys in the future. It may be a trifle difficult next fall, but after that, the men will have much less trouble handling games."

Okeson explained in detail the reasons for the changes. He was insistent that none of the changes had been aimed at any one school or system of coaching.

Referring to the rules prohibiting the use of the hands, elbows or forearm by defensive linemen in any other way than by pushing, and the rules against the flying block, Okeson said:

"As was the case back in 1906, when stringent changes were made in the code, the officials will be warned by the rules committee prior to next season that they must call all infractions; that they are the representatives of the committee on the field and that it is up to them to save the game.

WILL PROTECT PLAYERS

"Football has been severely attacked since the past season, following the unprecedented number of deaths and injuries. The new rules have been designed to protect the players, and to save the game. It will be up to the officials to do their part, and their part is going to be a big one."

Okeson gave a brief, yet complete resume of the new rules over station WCAE at 6:30 o'clock last night.—JESS CARVER

SCHENLEY MERMEN COP

JENSEN ON TRAIN

The vanguard for the most part is made up of pitchers and catchers, but Gibson has ordered several others to camp for early workouts. Outfielder Forrest Jensen is aboard the train. He is anxious to get off to a fine start this year and sought permission to report with the first arrivals.

Quite a few of the Pirate batterymen reside on the coast and it is likely the camp will have a fair share of players before the second squad reaches the scene. The second section will move to camp six days later than the batterymen.

FRENCH, KREMER "OUT"

Pitchers Larry French and Remy Kremer, who live in California, are known to be dissatisfied with their contracts, and are likely to cause trouble before they don a uniform. Pitcher Steve Swetonic, a native of Pittsburgh, is wintering in Los Angeles, and it is intimated he has kicked over the traces in regard to his new document.

The advance guard is to reach the Paso Robles camp Sunday afternoon.

SWIFT ADMITS STATUS

SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Bill Swift, youthful speed ball merchant purchased by the Pittsburgh Pirates from Kansas City of the American Association, last night admitted at his home here that he is a holdout and declared he will not consider the terms offered him by the Buccaneers.

LOCAL ICEMEN VAULT INTO FIFTH PLACE

By CARL W. SHATTO

The Yellow Jackets have a strong suspicion that they will be only a half game below fourth place in the loop standings, and that their request for admittance to the International Hockey League's title series will be receiving considerable attention by 11 o'clock tomorrow night.

At a late hour yesterday the local puckmen needed successive victories over the Detroit Olympics and the Windsor Bulldogs to move up to the rim of the money circle, but the subduing of Detroit has been accomplished under a big handicap, and, as for the Bulldogs—they will be here tomorrow, and their only gain in Pittsburgh this season has been one tie in three appearances.

The toppling of Detroit was achieved by a 3-1 score before a highly appreciative sellout crowd at Duquesne Garden last night, and the triumph marked the first time that the Reidman have downed the Michigan warriors this season. The win enabled the Jackets to shake the dust of last place from the skates, vault over the Cleveland Indians and land on the fifth rung of the league ladder.

FRASER ON SIDELINES

Gordy Fraser, Pittsburgh's defense ace, was just one of the fans at last night's battle. Gordy suffered a knee injury in London on Thursday, and although he was eager to get back into the lineup, Coach Charley Reid decided that discretion might be the better part of valor and kept him on the sidelines. It won't add to the confidence of the invading Windsor aggregation to announce that Fraser will be back at his left defense post tomorrow.

Pat Shea, sent here by the Chicago Hawks to replace Earl Miller, recently sold to Toronto, donned a Jacket uniform to plug the gap left by Fraser's absence, and Pat did a very nifty job of subbing. In addition to body checking very willingly, he intercepted enemy passes with reckless abandon, and slammed home a goal which Referee Guy Smith refused to allow because Goalie Emmet Venne got tangled up in one of his own defense men and fell down. Shea registered his tally early in the first period. Referee Smith ruled that Venne had been interfered with—and this despite the fact that one of the Detroit guards was the only man in the goalie's immediate vicinity.

FIELDS LEADS ATTACK

Goals which met with Smith's approval were recorded by Whitey Fields at 6:05 in the second period and by Eddie Rodden and Fields at 12:55 and 19:30 in the third stanza. Fields, the locals' leading scorer, took an assist from Leo Reise, stationed at the end boards, for his first tally. He outskated three Detroiters and coasted in on Venne for an unassisted score 30 seconds before the final gong.

Sonny Boy Baxter gave another brilliant exhibition of goal guarding in the Pittsburgh coop. In the second period, when the locals had two men in the penalty box, he robbed George Hay when the Detroit pilot had only the goalie to beat. Joe Matte labored manfully at defense, doing double duty, while Shea alternated with Leo Reise at the other defense point. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—3		Detroit—1
Baxter	G	Venne
Reise	D	Evans
Matte	D	Peters
Arbour	C	Steele
Locking	W	Gillie
Fleming	W	Gagne

Score by periods:

Pittsburgh	0	1	2—3
Detroit	0	1	0—1

Scoring: First period — None. Second period—Fields (Reise), 6:05. McCabe (unassisted), 10:10. Third period—Rodden (unassisted), 12:55; Fields (unassisted), 19:30.

Referee—Guy Smith, Hamilton.

MITTMEN STAGE 18 BOUTS

With 19 bouts remaining on the program to be staged on Monday, the entrants in Greater Pittsburgh amateur boxing championship tourney being held at the Palisades, McKeesport, are to be given a couple of days' rest. No less than 18 contests were run off last night, advancing the competition to the semi-final round. The summary:

Venzke Enters A. A. U. Title Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—Gene Venzke, world record holder for the indoor mile at 4:10, will compete in his specialty at the National A. A. U. track and field championships in Madison Square Garden Monday night.

The mile and three-mile runs have been added to the national indoor meet for the first time.

Poland's Olympic Ice Team to Play Here

Poland's Olympic ice hockey team, which battled valiantly, but vainly in the recent winter games at Lake Placid, will be seen in action at Duquesne Garden Saturday night of next week.

The Polish skaters will be opposed by the Pittsburgh Collegians, whose lineup will include several members of the Schooley Juniors, an amateur sextet which has been vanquishing all district opposition. Skaters who performed in the amateur league which flourished here two years ago also will be in the Pittsburgh lineup.

Sports Editor.

Pittsburgh has a championship boxing bout of its own tonight. It involves merely a local or district title, but there is no gainsaying the fact that the two men vieing for it have every reason to have the crown at stake between them.

Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, for a few years has been the best local Negro welterweight, both as a boxer and a puncher. Tonight, young Billy Holt, of Homewood, challenges for the laurels and he comes well recommended with two victories in his recent starts over Davy Grove, of the North Side, who has not dropped a decision to any other foe since he came here from Ohio several months ago.

Like Randall, Holt can punch as well as box and it would not be surprising to see the battle end in a knockout either way. Considerable feeling exists between the pair and the action figures to be keen.

Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, who defeated Jimmy Moore in the same ring last week, returns to box Lee Sala, of Donora, in the eight-round semi-final; Dandy Allen, Negro lightweight, formerly of Philadelphia, now of the Hill, meets Eddie Guba, of Clairton, in the second bout, and Mike Kelly, of the South Side, and Mike Bazzone, of McKeesport, are billed for the opener at 8:30.

Between Rounds

Motor Square Garden has completed its card for next Monday night, when Tony Herrera meets Denver Mickey Cohen in the 10-round main bout. It has Guy Salerno, of Los Angeles, who recently fought Jackie Walters, and George Courtney (a wingless at the Moose Temple, against Jimmy Taylor, of Cleveland, in the eight-round semi-final; Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, against Sailor Matty, Homestead middleweight, in the second bout, and Max Elling, Hill lightweight, against Bobby Wilson, East End Negro, in the opener. Cohen arrived in town this morning and worked out in the Garden gym this afternoon.

Mickey Reile, of Masontown, 147-pounder, is seeking bouts following a layoff. He has boxed Allen Beatty and Wildcat Lemmings, among others, and is being managed by his brother, John, who may be reached by writing Box 725, Masontown, Pa.

Buddy McArthur, McKeesport light-heavyweight, boxes Martin Lewandowski, of Grand Rapids, at Saginaw, Mich., March 8. Mickey Pat Ogar, of Wheeling, meeting Jack December in the eight-round semi-final. Benny McArthur and Eddie Hebner offer the windup at Morgantown, W. Va., next Tuesday night.

Irish Kane will manage Al Becker in the shereden middleweight's return to the ring. Irish also is handling Sam Chiodo, a welterweight from the West End, who did some fighting in California, and Joe O'Grabick, a new heavyweight, and there is a chance that Jack Wilson, the middleweight, now fighting around New York, may return here under his management.

Strangler Lewis, Ray Steele, Earl McCready and George Kotsonaros, all well-known grapplers, will appear on the first wrestling card of Ray Fabiani and Charley Beberwyk in Motor Square Garden next Thursday night. Lewis will take on J. Mason, Steele will meet F. Speer, McCready will engage Joe Gilsberg, and Kotsonaros will tangle with Joe Harper.

Brokers Phone Customers To Take Profits

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

"I recently purchased some high-grade stocks which I intended to put away, forget until normal conditions returned. After the market had enjoyed two days of cheer, four of the five brokers I bought from called me up and suggested that I take my profit, 'as the market would no doubt suffer a reaction.'

"Upon visiting the board rooms of these concerns I saw posted on bulletin boards dispatches from New York recommending that profits be taken. Of course, the market sold off again on Monday, as no doubt thousands of people sold on the advice of their brokers.

"Of course, it is obvious why the brokers pursue these tactics. It means commissions. But isn't it a case of being penny-wise and pound-foolish? Don't the brokers realize that not until the large holders of securities — those who made possible the five and six-million share days—are again in a position to trade, are they ever going to do prosperous business again? So long as they continue to depress the market, their best potential customers for the future remain in a crippled state."

GOING OFF the gold basis has failed to bring the British boom so many cocksurely predicted. Nothing better than the gold standard has yet been trotted out. The United States does well to remain "old-fashioned."

EXPECT GOLD to continue to flow from this country to France. Bankers figure that France could withdraw some $400,000,000 more. A considerable percentage of this has already been earmarked—that is deposited by the French bank in vaults here and appearing, not as owned here, but on the French bank's statement.

Nearly a year ago France deliberately instituted her policy of bringing home gold. Conditions in Germany, in Britain and other countries were causing uneasiness.

Moreover, France figured that her attitude would cause other nations to become disposed to bow to her will. She had already learned how to use her foreign balances as a political weapon.

Before she could take home her London funds, Britain suspended gold payments. That spoiled the French game. It inflicted a loss of almost a hundred million dollars on the French bank, compelling the government to rush to the rescue.

THE EXCUSE OFFERED by France for taking home her gold is that she fears gross currency inflation here. Leading possibly to suspension of gold payments. It is well known that the most influential authorities in France fear nothing of the kind. But French politics perennially dominate French finance.

Both Washington and Wall Street agree that the sooner France ceases to control an enormous amount of gold here, the better. The liberalizing of our currency and credit facilities makes it possible to let France have all her gold without entailing embarrassment.

Piling up of billions of idle gold is costing France a sweet penny. Naturally, it ceases to earn interest. How long France will be able to afford the luxury of hoarding mountains of the yellow metal remains to be seen. Her economic conditions, long painted as immune from the depression affecting the rest of the world, are becoming palpably bad.

IMAGINE A REPUBLICAN president and a Democratic speaker of the House vying with each other in championing sweeping governmental reorganization and economies! Are we really going to have efficiency in government—enough to benefit taxpayers substantially?

Stocks Turn Up — Local Market Firm

MARKET GAINS AFTER RISE AND FALL

Early Advances Cut in Half by Profit-Taking, But List Again Heads Up

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—(AP.)—A momentary bear panic at the opening of the stock market was Wall street's response today to the stock exchange's latest restriction on short selling.

After a few minutes of feverish trading and swiftly rising prices, however, the market regained its equilibrium. Early upturns of 1 to 7 points were cut in half by profit taking by bulls, but the list again turned quietly upward for a time after midday with trading proceeding at a normal pace.

The high-fliers were largely among the favorites of professional traders, which harbored substantial bear interests. Eastman shot up 7 points, then lost about half of it. Auburn rushed up 6, lost all but a point of its gain, then turned upward later. United States Steel rose 3 points, then held around 2 points. American Telephone rushed up 3⅜ and lost all but a fraction of its rise before turning firm again. Santa Fe rose 3, only to lose most of its gain. These movements were typical. Some issues actually showed fractional recessions from yesterday's final prices during the morning downturn.

Brokers and traders were greatly confused as to what the ultimate effect of the new ruling would be, but since it does not take effect until April 1, several of the more experienced traders who were short of the market were said to be taking their time about covering. The Stock Exchange's new rule, as announced last night, provides that brokers must secure the specific permission of traders long of the market before lending their stocks to short sellers. It was acknowledged that his would considerably reduce the amount of stock available for bear operations.

It is notable, however, that it does not affect the in-and-out trader who covers his short sale the same day.

Aside from the somewhat artificial stimulus given the market by the new bear ruling, the list was helped by Washington reports that the Glass-Steagall bill might be passed by the Senate before the end of the day, news that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has already extended about $2,500,000 in loans so far this month, continued strength of United States government's in the bond market, and a strengthening of the dollar as against the French franc in the foreign exchange markets.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported little in the way of tangible improvement in business and trade.

GOLD HOARDING SHOWS DROP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(INS.)—Out of the black menacing clouds of depression came some distant rays of sunshine today in Federal Reserve figures indicating a decrease in hoarding and an increase in member bank borrowing.

Bills discounted for the member banks for the week ending February 17 amounted to $846,000,000, week before showing additional ave khefore showing additional borrowing. This may reflect a greater demand for bank credit, a distinctly favorable sign.

Money in circulation was $5,609,000,000, a decrease of $17,000,000 during the week, although $1,049,000,000 greater than a year ago. Normally in the February 10-17 period there is a drop of approximately $5,000,000 in circulation, which officials declared might be interpreted to show a drop of about $30,000,000 in hoarding.

This was the first week in which the anti-hoarding program has had a real change to show its initial effects.

News From Washington Allays Fears About Nation's Banks.

If the country at large visualized the latest moves in Washington in the same light as New York bankers it might be said that the solution of the hoarding problem is nearer than generally realized. Fear for the safety of deposits is the element which moves people to draw their funds from banks, and such fears must be dissipated before a change in the trend can be expected. Conservative New York bankers are confident that the combination of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the new banking bill, if properly interpreted, provide the means for allaying any further apprehension so far as banks are concerned. In such quarters it is contended that these measures come as near to providing a guaranty for bank deposits as can reasonably be expected without having the government actually take the step.

Johns-Manville's annual figures, expected to be made public shortly, will, it is said, reflect quite vividly the slack which prevailed in the construction and allied industries during the past year. Current estimates indicate that the company's net was probably somewhere around $1,100,000, leaving an indicated balance for the common stock of around 75 cents a share after preferred dividend payments. Such a showing would compare with net income of $3,268,123 which was equivalent to $2.66 a share in 1930, and with $6,591,917, equivalent to $8.09 a share in 1929. Maintenance of the current $1 annual dividend rate is expected, however, when directors meet for consideration of the next quarterly payment in May.

Students of charts point out that the market never enjoyed a full 50 per cent corrective recovery from the November-December decline. Such a rally would have carried the Dow-Jones industrial average to around 95. Those who waited for this price to be reached overstayed their long positions early in January. Thereafter they took to the short side and anticipated that the low would be broken. Once again, they overstayed their market and were forced to cover on the advance.

Warnings against indiscriminate speculative activity are coming from conservative quarters. These observers feel that the rally was significant because it carried the market so sharply above the dangerous territory near the previous lows. However, they also maintain that the basis for a sustained demand for securities must be a recovery in equity earning power. The point is made that when the average businessman actually can see a stimulus to general business by the banking act and any subsequent developments, they will be inclined to give more attention to purchases of securities than they have in more than a year.

Failure to pierce the previous peak has caused a more cautious attitude among some of the conservative observers. However, many of them still favor scale buying on the reactions, with the use of stop-loss orders to protect accounts. Warnings against short selling continue to be heard.

Shattuck is a favorite with certain interests. Estimates are that the company will show earnings for 1931 of at least $1.30 a share, or 30 cents in excess of current annual dividend requirements. In 1930 results were equal to $1.92 a share. Considering reductions in prices and other influences which affected the company's business during the past year, such a showing would be construed by many as entirely satisfactory.

RULE CHANGED ON LENDING SECURITIES

Customers' Approval Now Needed; Step is Sequel to Fight on Short Selling

By JULIUS G. BERENS
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The New York Stock Exchange yesterday amended its regulations so that, commencing April 1, member houses will be required to obtain approval of customers for "lending" any securities held for them on margin.

However, customers always have had the right to revoke any authorization to lend securities which they previously had given to their brokers.

The latest regulation merely requires the broker to obtain "separate authorization in writing permitting the lending of such securities.

The action of the stock exchange was interpreted in Wall street as another attempt to satisfy the growing demand for reform or suspension of all short-selling activities.

WASHINGTON, Feb 19.—Prof. W. S. Huebner, of the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania, this morning told the House Judiciary Subcommittee on short selling that the new exchange ruling affecting the shorts should be satisfactory. He said:

"I do not want to see short selling stopped, but I think this regulation is very satisfactory."

Huebner said in reply to questions that he is a consultant for the exchange and testified at its request.

The short interest on the New York Curb Exchange as of February 15 was 71,009 shares, compared with 73,828 shares on February 1. On January 15 the total was 80,796 shares.

HITS PENNSY 'DOMINATION'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Railroad should "come out in the open" and operate the New Haven system, thereby assuming responsibility for that railroad instead of merely holding 22 per cent of its stock, and it should divest itself of all affiliation with the Boston and Maine, George L. Crooker, chairman of the Rhode Island Railroad committee, told the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The commission is holding hearing on the proposal to group Eastern railroads into four major systems to be known as the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Crooker advocated giving the Boston and Maine to the Chesapeake and Ohio-Nickel Plate system in order to prevent complete Pennsylvania "domination" of the New England railroads and the important gateways between New England and trunk line territories.

Lily Lou and Ken Return to Country Town and Are Married

CHAPTER XIV.

It was Monday—"Blue Monday," May called it. Back in Woodlake it would be "wash-day," with shirts flapping on clotheslines, and mother with clothes pins in her mouth, and the copper boiler steaming on back of the stove. . . .

And it was her wedding day. . . the day she was going to marry Ken. . . .

Lily Lou, wide awake in a second, turned over and buried her face in the pillow. She could hear May and Raymond moving around, getting ready for work. They mustn't know she was awake . . .

"Lily Lou! We're going—hurry—you'll be late!"

When they were gone she sprang out of bed, and ran to the mirror. Suppose that little rough place on her chin turned out to be a pimple! But it wasn't—it was perfectly all right. . . Lily Lou sighed with relief. She stood with her bare feet, chilly on the varnished floor, and earnestly studied her face in the hand glass. Thank goodness. . . . It would have been terrible to look a fright on this day, of all days. . . .

From the top dresser drawer she took out the little pink glass boxes of bath crystals and dusting powder she had bought in an extravagant moment. They had been intended for May's birthday next month . . . but there would be lots of time to get May something else.

PACKS SUITCASE

She dumped a generous handful of crystals into the slowly filling tub . . . It smelled very nice . . . not just what she expected from the label "June Roses"—but very nice.

She dressed, more leisurely than she had ever dressed, enjoying the silence of the house, the luxury of the fragrant powder, and the feel of new silken underthings.

It would have been nice to have all new clothes. A girl dreams of all new things for her wedding . . . Lily Lou thought of Irene and the hope chest, brim full and running over . . . But Irene didn't have Ken! . . . Besides, she had two new pair of chiffon stockings besides the ones she had on, and the lace topped slip that Bess made last Christmas, and that pair of ivory Chinese damask pajamas she bought in Chinatown last summer, and then decided were too grand to wear . . . And her coral silk sport suit was pretty. . . . Wonder if May would mind if she borrowed her new panama hat to wear with it? . . . Surely not, for a wedding!

UNPLEASANT THOUGHTS

Thinking about the family . . . May's hurt surprise, and mother and dad not understanding why they hadn't been asked to the wedding made her feel a little blue. But she wouldn't be blue on her wedding day . . . the day she was going to marry Ken Sargent. . . . She blew her nose, added more powder, turning to the mirror for comfort, for she did look nice . . . awfully nice . . .

Suddenly she realized that she was all ready, even to the lace-bordered handkerchief in her purse and the small enameled pin on her coral-colored scarf . . . . and no Ken.

Cold perspiration broke out on her brow. Her hands felt clammy and shaky. . . . She sat down on the piano bench and tried to stop her silly trembling. . . . Nothing to get nervous about . . . . it was still early. . . . He'd come. . . . If it was the last thing in his life, he'd come. . . .

The tears came when she heard the car at last. She had to keep him waiting while she went back to the bathroom to dash cold water on her eyes. She WOULDN'T look excited. . . .

"I'm not Mrs. Sargent yet!" she reminded him, laughing, forgetting in the security of having him close that a minute ago she had actually had doubts that he'd arrive.

"At least we don't look like the proverbial bride and groom," he said, with satisfaction, surveying his tan tweeds and her coral sport suit.

LILY LOU NERVOUS

When they drove into Lakeport, and stopped at the little hall of records, Lily Lou's knees almost knocked together as she tried to get out of the car. "Haven't changed your mind?" Ken smiled.

"No—just scared."

"But it's the bridegroom who gets scared," he objected. "The bride is to be serene and calm, and concentrate on the bouquet——"

"I haven't one!"

"That's just it. We'll have to get one. It wouldn't be legal without a bouquet."

"But Ken—not NOW!"

"No. Just the bouquet."

"Let me see it—"

"No indeed—not until the proper time!"

They found a place to buy flowers, and Ken chose sweet-peas. "We'll get orchids and lilies of the valley for the reception, when you and I stand at the head of the line, and say how-do to all the family's friends—"

WITNESSES SUMMONED

At first he seemed a little dubious. "Where's your witnesses? Folks most always bring their own witnesses—"

But when he heard Lily Lou's name he brightened up and led the way to the house, leaving his trowel and garden shears on the path. "I know your mother well," he said. "A fine Christian woman. In fact I conducted services in Woodlake for several weeks last winter while the Reverend Stokes was laid up. . . . I don't remember seeing you at any of our services."

"Oh. Well, sit down, sit down. I'll just wash off some of the terra firma, and call my wife and our good neighbor, Mrs. Burpee. No doubt she'll oblige."

They sat on the hard, leather covered sofa, a little overpowered by the stern neatness of the room, the immense family portraits on the walls, the darkness, after the bright sun outside.

Almost immediately the Rev. Shaver, with Mrs. Shaver and the good neighbor, Mrs. Burpee, returned. He had changed the thin old sweater for a long-tailed black coat. Mrs. Burpee, who was moist and flushed, wore a long brown coat with a fur collar, which she was clumsily buttoning over a bungalow apron.

MARRIED

"In the . . . ce of this company . . . an honorable estate instituted of God in the time of man's innocence . . . "

Mrs. Burpee clutched at the fur collar of her coat . . . She was too warm, certainly she was too warm . . . Lily Lou forced to listen to Mr. Shaver. She was afraid that the heat and the coat were going to prove too much for the obliging witness . . .

"Pronounce you man and wife . . . "

Mr. Shaver had stopped talking. She was married. Mr. Shaver continued to stand there, holding the book. To one side, his wife and the overwarm witness waited . . .

"You may kiss her," Mr. Shaver said benignly, and waited with interest.

"Ahh!" sighed Mrs. Burpee. Even the minister's wife came to life and uncrossed her hands which she had held folded and motionless during the ceremony.

Lily Lou fought down a hysterical desire to laugh. Ken had turned scarlet, even to his ears. He leaned over and kissed her awkwardly.

Then the congratulations began. Mr. Shaver pumped her hand energetically. "I wish you all happiness, I surely do!"

She felt the dry lips of the minister's wife brush her cheek. Then a hearty moist smash from Mrs. Burpee. "May all your troubles be little ones, dearie! I hope you'll be happy, I sure do!"

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing, pretty, young telephone operator lives with her married sister in moderate circumstances. She is torn between desire for an operatic career and love for the wealthy Ken Sargent, but, following a party at Ken's home, she realizes they are unsuited socially and decides to give him up. Ken overrules her objections and she accepts his proposal of marriage. The next day they go to Woodlake for their license.

Now Go On

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

In Which the Customers Do the Work

"HERE'S AN INCIDENT that happened recently to a friend of mine," writes Frank Faber, "and if it isn't material for your column, I've been reading you a long time for nothing. My friend is at the head of a large insurance concern and he occasionally finds it necessary to play around Broadway. Not only necessary, I might say, but rather interesting.

"How it started, I don't know—but my friend struck up an acquaintanceship with a songwriter who is quite well known in his profession. They met each other on various occasions, dined with the same young ladies and got along in splendid fashion.

"Well, you know what happens to friendship such as that. Over six or seven drinks they tell each other that two better pals never lived. But when the drinks wear off the feelings are gone. The songwriter thinks that the insurance man is not so hot, and the insurance man feels that the tunesmith is just a little dull.

"The comradeship finally ceased altogether. There were a few feeble phone calls, in which each man made excuses, and that was the end of that. The two men moved on in their respective lines.

"Some four or five months ago the insurance man received a letter from the songwriter. It read somewhat along the following lines:

"'We have always been the best of pals, Jack, and one of the greatest regrets of my life is the fact that our different occupations made it necessary to slip apart. Rest assured, however, that the association I had with you is one of the truly pleasant memories of my life.

"'I wonder if you still think well enough of me to grant me a great favor. I want you to understand that, if you cannot see your way clear to do it, I will not be offended. I like you too well for that. But the favor is so small that I know you will grant it to me without the slightest hesitation.

"'Things haven't been going any too well with me lately and I now find myself a trifle pressed for cash. There's no use going into a long story. If you could let me have $250 for a few weeks, I would appreciate it a very great deal. It will not mean a great deal to you and it will help me out of a great hole.

"'When you send your check, please do not send it to my business office. Address it to me in care of B—— J.—— K——, at his place on Seventh avenue. The reason for this is that any number of people are trying to borrow money from me these days, and I don't want anyone to know I received some cash.

"Well, Mark, the insurance man read that letter with a wry face. He saw no reason why he should turn over $250 to that songwriter, especially in these nervous times. He put the letter down and picked it up again. He repeated the action several times. Finally he shrugged his shoulders, summoned his secretary and told her to send the songwriter the amount he had requested. He was that kind of a guy.

"A week went by and there was no acknowledgment from the songwriter. Two weeks. Three weeks. A month. And still no word from the tunesmith. The check had been cashed and returned to the insurance man by his bank. But there hadn't been so much as a phone call of thanks from the man who had received the favor.

"The insurance man grew peeved. He dictated a letter to the songwriter in which he asked him rather sarcastically if he had used the money to good advantage. He said he hated to trouble such a busy man, but that he would really like to know if everything had been satisfactory. The letter was sent—and two days later came the songwriter's reply. It was very short and to the point.

"'Yes,' it read, 'I received the $250. But I had a mighty good reason for not writing you about it. Didn't I tell you in my letter not to send the money to my business office? Well, that's what you did—and I had a delay of two days in getting it. Only a heel would do that to an old friend and, as far as I'm concerned, you and I are through!'"

* * *

HERE IS an actual letter received by this column. The gentleman signed his name and address, but I omit them for his sake. Read it and realize why columnists gray young.

"Since you are a great story-writer on Broadway none of your work should be wasted, so I'm asking you if you'd like to go in a scheme with me.

"Many of your stories could be worked up into good printing material for other magazines, and my idea is for you to write several short stories to comply with the rules of the Liberty Magazine contest and send them to me. Or you could send them yourself, and my name could be applied to the outgoing literature.

"By this way we could go 50-50 on all money received. Please let me know quick how you like my idea because I need $2,000 by August and you could use the money, too."

You're Telling Me?

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS -:- Junior Komic Club

Tomorrow is the day set for the big Washington's Birthday celebration to be staged at Warner neighborhood theaters by the 17 chapters of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club. The meetings will open promptly at the hours announced on the schedule herewith.

As announced in this column early in the week, group singing will form an important part of the program. Among the songs to be sung are the following. Cut them out and take them with you to your meeting tomorrow.

(To the tune of "Smiles")

There are many valiant warriors,
There are many statesmen, too—
There are many pioneers so hardy,
Ready for a venture new.
But there's only one who was a warrior,
And a statesman and a pioneer,
Washington's the one in peace, in war, and—
He is always the one for me.

(To the tune of "Reuben, Reuben")

GIRLS:
Listen! Listen! we've been thinking
That it surely would be fun,
If the world was full of boys
Just as fine as Washington.

BOYS:
Listen! Listen! we've been thinking
If George Washington saw you,
He would turn and run in terror—
That's exactly what he'd do!

(To the tune "It's a Long, Long Trail")

'Twas a long, long trail they traveled—
Leading on to liberty;
'Twas a long, long road they traveled
Just to make us free.
'Twas a long, long night of waiting—
Until the dawn they hoped to see,
Till the dawn of peace and freedom
In the land of liberty.

Cut this out and take it with you.

About 50 children at each chapter tomorrow will receive Waterman pencils as prizes. These pencils will be the pride of every boy and girl who wins one. They are both useful and ornamental. Don't miss the meeting tomorrow—you may be among the 50 winners at your chapter.

The following members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club will celebrate their birthdays tomorrow. The club wishes them Many Happy Returns of the Day.

Nothing in the purse—
Husband outta work again,
How could things be worse?
Haven't had a facial
For a week or two,
Hair is turning 'round the roots. . . .
Am I blue?
Heels are running over,
Don't know where I'm at,
Husband in the dumps and
I wanta new spring hat.
I'm goin' to the grocer,
(Guy I usta know)
Borrow fifty cents and scram
To a picture show.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella—
Are cucumbers pickles?
—Anxious.

Ans.—Well, no, Madame, I would say that cucumbers are not pickles. As a matter of fact, cucumbers are cucumbers, as it were. Although cucumbers become pickles after being pickled; but then, of course, on the other hand, they are no longer cucumbers, as I understand it, but pickles, if you see what I mean.

—Aunt (Informative) Bella.

Slipshod Procedure

Carelessness in the Renting of City Property Should Be Promptly Corrected.

The Building Owners and Managers Association, which did so much to bring down city taxes, as John S. Herron, president of Council, acknowledged in a public address Wednesday, rendered another service yesterday in calling attention to the slipshod manner in which the city rents some of its property.

Tenants of some of the municipal buildings are occupying the property, according to the Building Owners Association, without leases or any other written agreement as to the rental or terms of occupancy.

Much of the leasing has been done without the slightest regard to present values, it is charged, and some of the rentals are declared to be "ridiculously low."

The Building Owners Association has not gone off half-cocked in its previous criticisms of the municipal administration, and it can be confidently assumed that it knows what it is talking about in the present instance.

The carelessness complained of should be promptly rectified.

A Beneficial Project

The Pymatuning Reservoir Is a Good Example of the Kind of Public Work That Should Be Done Now.

With the County Commissioners threatening, in defiance of public sentiment, to abandon the Town Hall project, and the City Council seeking excuses for ignoring the popular mandate to build the downtown subway, there is satisfaction in noting that the state is going ahead vigorously with the Pymatuning Reservoir.

In a speech at the National Drainage, Conservation and Flood Control Congress at Louisville, Edwin K. Morse, of Pittsburgh, the engineer member of the State Water and Power Resources Board, said that by June 1,500 men would be at work on the Pymatuning project who but for this would probably be without employment.

The Pymatuning Reservoir is a good example of the kind of public work that should be undertaken in slack times. This is an excellent time for going ahead with such enterprises, not only because they help to relieve unemployment, but because they cost less now than they would at other times.

The Pymatuning Reservoir is going to bring many benefits. It will help to prevent floods in the Shenango valley; it will provide an ample flow of water to mills in the valley now hampered in mid-summer by the lowness of the river, and it will convert economically useless swamp land into a lake valuable for recreation.

There are not a few other beneficial projects in this section of the country that could be undertaken to advantage now. There is the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal, for instance, to be constructed from Ashtabula, O., to Beaver, by way of the Mahoning and Beaver Rivers.

The city, county and federal governments might well take a leaf from the book of the commonwealth, and go ahead with meritorious public works as the commonwealth is proceeding with the Pymatuning Reservoir.

These projects need involve no immediate payments by the taxpayers. The Town Hall and the subway would be paid for through bond issues, long since authorized by the voters. The Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal could also be financed with bonds.

An Important Launching

The launching of the United States ship Potter at the Dravo Construction Company's Neville Island shipyards next Friday will be of unusual importance, as may be inferred from the pomp and ceremony that have been arranged for the affair.

Mrs. Lytle Brown, wife of Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, United States Army, is to christen the vessel, and a number of Army officers from Washington and other cities will attend.

The launching calls attention to Pittsburgh's leading position in the boat building industry. Many of the steel craft constructed for the inland waterways are produced in the boat yards of the Pittsburgh district.

As the rivers come more and more into use for the transportation of freight the boat building industry will grow. It may be that the time will come when small ocean-going craft will be constructed here again.

In the early days of Pittsburgh both naval and commercial ships were constructed in the local yards.

The late W. H. Stevenson found in his historical researches the record of a Pittsburgh ship which sailed from here to Leghorn, Italy, and was suspected for a time by the Italian authorities of being a pirate because they had never heard of an American port named Pittsburgh.

A large sailing vessel is shown anchored in the river in an old picture of Pittsburgh displayed by the Farmers Deposit National Bank in connection with its centennial. And we had a more recent instance of the same sort in the visit of the old Australian convict ship Success to the city about 12 years ago.

Well, we are scarcely likely to see any more ocean-going sailing vessels moored to our wharves; but it does not strain the imagination much to picture numerous small steel craft propelled by engines going out of the local shipyards to the sea and the Great Lakes.

Washington Displays

Exhibits in Carnegie Institute and Downtown Department Stores Are Worth Seeing.

The announcement is made that a portrait of George Washington in water colors on deerskin and a miniature of him on ivory, both painted by John Trumbull, one of his aides-de-camp in the Revolutionary War, have been added to the Carnegie Institute's collection of Washington relics. This adds a little to the local interest in the Washington bicentennial.

See the Carnegie Institute's relics.

See the Washington displays in the windows of the downtown department stores also. They are worth seeing.

Some of these exhibits have considerable educational value. One store shows rooms furnished after the fashion of Washington's home at Mount Vernon, and also large photographs illustrating Washington's connection with the history of Pittsburgh. Another store displays paintings of notable events in the life of the first President.

Compliments are due the stores for the fine co-operation they are giving in the bicentennial celebration.

LISTEN, WORLD

-:- By Elsie Robinson

I'm homesick! I'm so homesick I could howl, yelp, wheeze, whine, roar, bleat, yawp, yelp and yeep like a flea-bitten pup.

Here I am, wandering around Washington, collecting the low-down on the Star 'n' Stripes, getting all tangled up with brutal facts and blowsy weather—while, just 3,000 miles over the horizon, the white violets are blossoming in my backyard! And my new rose border is coming into bloom! And they're planting the vines in the west 40 acres!

All that going on while I stay here! Oh, I wanna go home! I wanna go home! I WANT TO GO HOME! And what I think of my boss for keeping me here isn't fit to print. Particularly in his own paper!

Yes, I admit it's a nice town. And they're treating me grand. And it's my own fault that I'm here, for I wanted to do it. But what difference does that make? Seeing that things are your own fault doesn't make them any easier to bear.

The fact remains that I'm homesick. All over. Like growing-pains. Or hives.

Right in the middle of important occasions it hits me. There I'll be, prattling with the Army or Navy or a few of our choicer Congressional Knicknacks—coying and toying along until they commit themselves on a little inside dirt. And then, suddenly, I won't be hearing a word they're saying, nor caring a darn.

Instead, I'll be listening to a meadow lark calling from the willows by the creek. And I'll be smelling the wild roses, hot and spicy, tumbling over the courtyard wall. Or seeing the deer slip down to the lake at dawn—dappled, amber shadows through a coral haze—with the morning star floating low, like a great, white flower.

And while the big shot rumbles on and on, in a delirium of delight over his own voice, I'll feel a big lump swelling and wedging in my throat, and the prickle of tears behind my eyes, and—

Queen, isn't it? We're all like that. Wouldn't give much for a person who wasn't, would you? Give us all we ask for—let our shiniest dreams come true—and right in the middle of the whoopee we'll find our hearts melting and moaning for a shabby little shanty on the other side of the world, for the scent of a flower and the call of a bird and the sight of a face we love true.

Homesick? Always. Deep in the heart of each one of us, the secret, wistful longing for a place that once we knew—

And sometimes I'm thinking, stranger dear, that we're homesick for something more than some place here—

This grabby-glittery, hurrying-hullabaloo of a life—we scurry through it, and we call it home.

But sometimes, in the midst of it all, the laughter and the shouting die away, and we catch ourselves listening for a song we never heard on earth—and reaching for a peace and searching for a light that never was on sea or land!

Those lost and lonely moments when we feel we've somehow strayed—

What are we homesick for then, my dear?

Marry-Go-Round

Delicatessen Wives

Every day, if you will go carefully through the newspaper, you will find somewhere a sarcastic crack at the "delicatessen wife." The lady who is supposed to spend her days at the movies—and then rush home, open a can, give the contents a couple of electric shocks, and serve it as "Dinner" to her starving husband.

* * *

All this flutter over the shortcomings of the Queen-of-the-Dinette is apparently just a masculine fear-complex! Some day, a man may come home and not find a woman BUSY!

And nothing gives a man such a thrill as to see a woman "bustling around the house!"

* * *

A man wants to smell the dinner cooking and hear it sizzling and see the Little Woman rushing around as though something were really HAPPENING when he makes the Grand Entrance. That's why he is suspicious of the kitchenette, the dinette, the vacuum cleaner, the electric dishwasher, the can-opener—and all the new inventions that make a woman's work lighter.

* * *

Not that the modern man really likes the heavy mutton-and-gravy dinners with which his mother stuffed him. He doesn't. He hates to wear darned socks and patched underwear and cravats that have been cleaned in gasoline. * * *

It's just the IDEA of the thing. The mental picture of the "busy little woman" fussing and rushing around dolling up the landscape for the coming of her royal lord and master.

THAT'S what he married her for! It doesn't particularly matter what she's doing, just so she's DOING something—folding or unfolding his newspaper, pretending to dust the piano or re-arranging the flowers. But the idea that he may amble home from the office, some day, only to find his wife lolling on the divan reading a novel, instead of hustling and bustling about the place, getting things ready for the Great Moment of his appearance, fills him with consternation.

* * *

As a matter of fact, I have never come across one of these "delicatessen wives." I don't believe that she exists—outside of the imagination and the comic strips.

* * *

Yet, no normal man can look at the picture of the attenuated Jack Spratt, without believing that he got that way by living on canned beans, cold potato salad and pickles. Or on his wife's reducing diet!

'The Common People, The Vulgar, the Mob'

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

There are probably from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 men, women and children in America who are in dire distress, with millions of them threatened with starvation. Private charity has collapsed—why deceive ourselves?

After the President's emergency drive for contributions, with much beating of the drums, the fact remains that but 30 per cent of all the money that has been used to prevent starvation has come from the pockets of individuals. The 70 per cent has come from local treasuries—state, county, municipal.

Everyone knows that many, if not most, of the city governments have reached the end of their resources.

With this in mind, we read the debate in the Senate between Senators Fess and Borah on the plan to give assistance to the hungry from the Federal Treasury. Perhaps it is just as well that these millions who are threatened with starvation will never read that discussion; just as well that they did not hear from Senator Fess the expression of the feeling of the national administration. Never have we read anything so steeped in sophistry and so cruelly cold toward suffering.

When women were starving in Paris and crying for bread, Marie Antoinette asked why they did not eat cake; when the people of Ireland were starving in the famine of '48 the then Duke of York suggested that a nutritious food could be made of the dried leaves of the forest; and now Senator Fess has spoken for the administration. A tragic trio.

* * *

It Is the Old, Old Story

Much was said against taking money from the Treasury to feed the hungry.

Nothing was said of the fact that money has been taken from the Treasury to feed the hungry of Europe.

But something was said of taking money from the Treasury to help the banks and the great corporations—something we have done.

Senator Fess and the administration find their souls shaken at the thought of such an unusual proceeding as furnishing money from the Treasury to keep the bodies and souls of millions of women and children together, but both thought it wise, regardless of the unusual proceeding, to take money from the Treasury to take care of private business.

Borah said:

"The government of the United States has no authority in the world to negotiate private loans for the benefit of private corporations; there is not the slightest authority for it. The Senator cannot find any authority for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation law except in the law of dictatorship or of Soviet Russia."

But because of the solemnity of the crisis, Borah does not object to these loans for the benefit of private corporations; while Fess and the administration, anxious to "go red" for private corporations, are unwilling to do the unusual, which would be improper under ordinarily normal conditions, to prevent the starvation of the millions.

* * *

Borah's Answer to Senator Fess

It is just as well that the millions, who, through no fault of their own, are fighting against starvation, will not read the Fess-administration speech. Mr. Fess spoke of the function of our government as that of "preserving the liberty and keeping open the opportunity" of the people; and one would imagine that opportunity has been kept open when 8,000,000 breadwinners are denied their inalienable right to work. And then he added that "the government is organized and conducted to protect individuals in their rights and not to support them"—as though they had been protected in their rights.

But Borah answered:

"Why did not the Senators say to the banks and corporations who were on the verge of failure: 'Go back home; resuscitate your own frozen assets; take care of your own private business . . . Therefore, you bankers and corporate interests, go back home and take care of your own business; this is a private affair; this is an individual affair.'"

* * *

The Spokesman Of the White House

There were other features of the debate that are interesting. When Fess harped on that blessed word "dole," and was asked by Borah to explain why money to prevent starvation from a city treasury is not a dole and money from the national treasury to meet a national crisis is a dole—he had no answer.

And there was another thing that startled us. Senator Fess spoke of these millions of jobless men who want to work, and the millions of their dependents as potential vagabonds, loafers, beggars; because he said that if they are given bread to preserve their lives, they will not want to work again, but will become chronic beggars. That is as brutal as anything we have ever heard or read—and as false and slanderous.

And Senator Fess spoke as the chairman of the Republican National Committee and spokesman of the White House.

* * *

'Populace'—What Does It Mean!

The debate was interesting to students of history and government in many ways. It revealed, in a few illuminating expressions from Senator Fess, why, under the ruling forces just now, a mockery is being made of the pretension that we have a democracy in America.

Thus, when there were murmurs of approval for Borah in the gallery, Fess contemptuously referred to the masses of the people as the "populace." Most illuminating word, coming from the spokesman of the Administration! It is a word often on the lips of the kings and tyrants in the old days; it was a favorite word with the American Federalists before the American people hurled them from power, and in the election of Jefferson, according to Henry Cabot Lodge, "definitely determined that this should be a democratic republic."

"Populace"—what does it mean? What did Fess, speaking for the Administration, mean? It means, to quote Webster, "the common people, the vulgar, the multitude, the mob."

And then Fess and Borah disagreed on the relation of government to the people, and this is revealing, too. Fess took the position that the people are the servants of government, and Borah that government is the servant of the people. That is the difference between autocracy, or plutocracy, and democracy.

Up Against the Guns of Tragedy

No one has opposed the granting of help to banks, railroads and private corporations; not that we want to adopt such a grant as a policy, but because we are right up against the guns of tragedy.

No one would favor feeding citizens out of the Federal Treasury as a policy, but millions of human beings are right up against the guns.

We did not haggle and grow argumentative over helping the banks and corporations; why haggle and split terms when children actually are starving?
